CURE FOR CHOLERA.

A Philadelphia Medical Professor Finds a Drug He Claims

KNOCKS OUT THE LITTLE GERMS.

Hydro-Naphthel, Fe Declares, Will Free the World of the Plague.

RESULTS OF CAREFUL EXPERIMENTS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29 .- A communication appears in the current issue of the Medical News by Dr. David D. Stewart, clinical lecturer on medicine in the Jefferson Medical College, the importance of which cannot be over-estimated if the claims of the doctor and the result of laboratory experiments are substantiated by experimentation on man, and it would appear from the facts advanced that these claims are in a fair way to be realized. The cause of cholera has been proved to be a micro-organism, the comma spirillum discovered by Koch. This germ has its seat in the lower part of the small bowel. Any remedy that has a prompt effect on this germ in doses less than sufficient to injure the person taking it that can be carried to this part unchanged, there to exert its effect, would probably invariably cure cholera if used in time.

A Remedy Is Found at Last.

Various drugs have been suggested as specifics, but none have before fulfilled these conditions. From several years' ex-perience with hydro-naphthol, a benzolo derivative, in bacterial intestinal affections, Dr. Stewart reasoned that it might answer in cholera. It fulfilled many of the conditions. It was a powerful antiseptic, quite insoluble, harmless even in very large doses, and, moreover, was related to car-bolic acid, to which cholera germs are especially susceptible.

Dr. Stewart, therefore, had experiments instituted in the laboratory of hygiene of the University of Pennsylvania to ascertain the University of Pennsylvania to ascertain the effect of hydro-naphthol on pure cult-ures of the comma spirillum. These exper-iments demonstrated beyond question that a proportion as high as 1 to 7,000 has an un-doubted inhibiting effect on the develop-ment of the comma spirillum, and that a proportion of about 1 to 2,000 (equal parts aqueous solution and culture medium) ex-erted a propul garminidal action. erted a promt germicidal action.

Not a Very Large Dose Required.

As one part to 7,000 equals about a grain to the pint, or to the avoirdupois pound, and as the contents of the small intestine, when the latter in its entire length is thoroughly distended, cannot amount to more than nine or ten pints, it would follow that under any condition but ten grains of hy-dro-naphthol in solution would be required to render the entire small intestine anti-septic sgainst the comma spirillum, pre-venting its development, while about 40 grains, under similar conditions, would dis-infect the intestine, promptly killing any spirilla present.

spirilla present.
As a prophylactic against cholera when, from exposure, the disease seems imminent, hydro-naphthol should be taken in doses of hydro-naphthol should be taken in doses of from eight to ten grains four times daily for three or four lays, and subsequently in from five to eight grain doses with the same frequency. This amount will probably at once exert an antiseptic effect, and at the end of 24 hours be germicidal. In early choleraic diarrheea it should be used in quantities of ten grains hourly, or even half hourly, until from one to two drams. half hourly, until from one to two drams have been taken. Here it may be, and, indeed, by choice should be, combined with

The New York State Board of Health Re ports on Cholera for the Month. NEW YORK, Sept. 29 .- John Miller, 80 years old, of 225 West Twenty-ninth street, died yesterday at his home of a disease resembling cholera. The body has been re moved to the Reception Hospital for examination. Sanitary Superintendent Edson has under investigation the case of Benja min Beaver, suspected of having cholera. reported from the Gouverneur Hospital last night. Beaver had been removed to the Reception Hospital. The Health Board officials are trying to learn on what steamship he came.

The State Board of Health in the report The State Board of Health in the report for August says: "Of cholera to September 24, there were within the city limits of New York eight sporadic cases and six deaths. The first occurred September 6. No cases existing at the date mentioned. Twenty-two deaths occurred in the port, which is free from the disease at this issue."

No Cholera.

It is sincerely hoped that the plague will not be epidemic in our country, but if it be-comes so Kein's Silver Age and Duquesne Ryes are reliable stimulants and doctors recommend them.

The Conover piano which I purchased from you last spring has given entire satisfaction. Modesty forbids that we should praise our own property, but our friends say that it is a very fine instrument, and use a great many high-sounding musical terms which I do not pretend to understand. The truth of the matter is we purchased the piano entirely upon the recommendation of Mr. H. Kleber, because we knew his reputation for integrity and musical ability, but if we were to purchase a new piano now it would be a Conover.

A SCHOOLHOUSE PANIC,

Little Minnie Graff Faints in Her Class and A small-sized panie was created in the Sixth ward schoolhouse on Chartters street, Allegheny, Monday. Little Minnie Graff, of McDonald way, was standing in a class room during the forenoon, when suddenly she dropped on the floor in an unconscious condition. Mrs. Nesbit, who has charge of the room, ran to the child's side and raised her up, but the little girl did not move. To all appearances she was dead. The other children of the class became very much children of the class became very frightened.

Cold water war, applied to the girl's forehead, and after severe efforts on Mrs. Neshit's part she was brought to. The child was extremely weak and was unable to stand after being revived.
Upon examination it was found that the faintness was caused by the soreness of the child's arm. She was vaccinated four weeks ago, and her arm has been in bad condition since.

condition since.
When seen at her home yesterday afternoon Mrs. Graff said Minnie had been very ill since Monday. Her arm is getting worse daily.

THE OPEN DOOR MISSION.

Winter Evening Services About to Commence-The Buildings Repaired. The Open Door Mission rooms at 54 Fourth avenue have undergone much needed repairs. The ceilings have been fixed, the walls papered, the auditorium fitted with chairs, so that now the place is ready for regular winter services. Meetings are held every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings and afternoon and evening on Sundays. The original idea of this mis-sion may be credited to Rev. I. M. Houser, who lives at Brushton.

who lives at Brushton.

The people whom it is intended to benefit are the poor broken down and disgraced classes who come off the road, and in the bosom of the mission they find rest. Lunches at a penny will be served during the winter, and at this place the little bootblack and newsboy find a warm cup of coffee.

CARELESS WITH BAD MONEY.

Large Quantity Discovered in a Banking Firm's Waste Paper.

A few days ago a bank in this city disposed of some waste paper to a local firm. Scattered through it were a number of counterfeit bills amounting to $1,000. Part of the money got into circulation and is causing United States Detective McSweeney lots of trouble searching for it. The firm that put the counterfeit bills in circulation claims it did so unintentionally.

The bank, Mr. McSweeney says, violated the law in not turning the bogus bills over to the United States Treasury. The officers of the establishment say that its circulation was accidental. The detective claims that in any event the bank people should have stamped the money "counterfeit" in ac-cordance with the law.

Mrs. Black Dies Suddenly. Mrs. Black, widow of Alexander Black, died suddenly yesterday at her home on Liberty avenue, East End. When Mr. Keister returned to the house for breakfast at 6:30 o'clock he found Mrs. Black in a dying condition. Three physicians were in attendance, but could do nothing, and she lived only a short time.

A Faith Healer Sick. Faith Healer Hitchcock was taken suddenly ill in the office of Dr. Graham, on Liberty street, yesterday afternoon. For a few minutes he exhibited the symptoms of cholera, and fears were entertained that it was the dread disease. It proved to be cholera morbus. He recovered strength in a few hours. a few hours.
