

A QUEER CAMPAIGN.

Politicians Rejoice Because of Dissensions in Their Own Party and Betting on Opponents.

Democrats in Washington Filled With the Elixir of Hope.

Republicans Cannot See Why Mystery Still Surrounds the Suicide of Colonel Canaday.

All Kinds of Detectives Work on It.

Washington, Oct. 1.—More than at any previous time since the beginning of the campaign the Democrats who are doing the party work at this end of the line find that they are able this week to felicitate themselves. They are apparently sincere in their cheerfulness. They claim the announcement that Senator Hill will take the center in the campaign is a good omen for the party.

The return of Mr. Cleveland to New York City will, in their estimation, do much to infuse energy into the campaign. They will not admit for a moment that the party will be any the worse for the loss of an anti-Tammany ticket in the city.

How the Republicans Regard It.

Of course the Republicans look at the matter exactly from the opposite standpoint. The managers in consultation in this city during Thursday and Friday are convinced that nothing can now be done to beat the Democratic factions of New York City, and that the quarrel will be worth thousands of votes to them.

These are the opinions of the active and official workers of the parties. On the other hand, there are many who are intelligent of the rank and file of both of the old parties who are willing, as a matter of judgment and "business," to bet against their own policies. For instance, the correspondent of THE DISPATCH was to-day witnesses to the making of a considerable bet between two good Republicans, one of whom a prominent railway official, betting that Cleveland would have a majority of not less than 29,000 in the State of New York.

Not Betting as He Votes.

This official speaks much of his time in New York, and claims to be betting quietly in his own convictions and information, while regretting that he does not believe in the possibility of a victory for his party in New York. He thinks, however, that the Republicans can win without New York, and in this view he does not find many sympathizers. There are also not a few Democrats who have made bets that Harrison will carry New York, and that he will be re-elected.

The features of the feeling are given as follows: The doubt as to whether the result would be decided at this juncture of what is everywhere admitted to be "the queerest campaign in the history of the country."

The strange case of Colonel W. P. Canaday, who was for years the efficient and popular Sergeant at Arms of the United States Senate, and whose dramatic suicide has been the sensation of the week, promises to be the sensation for some days to come, on account of the mystery surrounding the matter and the actions of persons connected with the Colonel in business.

The Mystery of the Suicide.

There is no doubt of the suicide. The motive which prompted it is the mystery. Canaday is said to have had no partners in business. Miss Claggett, who did all his typewriting, and was his confidential clerk, asserts that she drew up all of the Colonel's agreements, and that neither J. Q. A. Houghton nor one West, who claims to have had partnership relations with Canaday, tell the truth. Houghton attempted to assume all authority over the effects and the contents of the character given out by the agents to take an inventory of the papers and from controlling the rooms, papers and safe. He claims to have $2,000 in the safe, which he had deposited the evening previous to the suicide, but is not able to tell where the money came from or why he put it in that safe.

It seems that Canaday loaned money for his education and has made the investments, at 10 per cent a month. The money had been rather secure on some delinquents such as these borrowers, and Houghton had snatched one of them a few days before the suicide. A number of the delinquents' checks were in the safe, but none of them are now to be found, and his of the charged ones in the grate show that they belonged to the delinquents. The delinquents' checks, notes or notes with signatures, has not been discovered.

Some New Things Cropping Out.

It has been held that the Colonel broke a contract with his office and did himself in by the impression of a burglary. It comes at this time that voices and snuffing were heard in Canaday's rooms in the small hours of the night. An expert glazier is assured on the glass of the window must have been broken by a blow from the outside, on account of the manner of the chipping of fragments that remained in the window, whereas at least one of the panes as who claim to have had business association with Canaday are not accounted for at a time when the voices were heard in the room of the Colonel, and his actions since are clearly indicated that he knows more than he has said.

Houghton's treatment of Canaday is said, by the inmates of the house where Canaday lived, to have been of the most cruel and unfeeling.

It is a case that puzzles all of them. It is all that has come out there is not the glow of a reasonable explanation why today was driven to suicide, except that it was suddenly afflicted with insanity. A insanity theory is well disposed of by the terms of a note written to a friend just as the act, which shows that the delinquent was premeditated, but apparently a thought that came after the inevitable events of the morning. His confidential clerk asserts that his affairs were in good condition. There was no reason for mutilation of any of the papers destroyed. He could gain nothing by it, nor did he cover up anything whose exposure had damaged him.

It is a case that puzzles all of them. It is all that has come out there is not the glow of a reasonable explanation why today was driven to suicide, except that it was suddenly afflicted with insanity. A insanity theory is well disposed of by the terms of a note written to a friend just as the act, which shows that the delinquent was premeditated, but apparently a thought that came after the inevitable events of the morning. His confidential clerk asserts that his affairs were in good condition. There was no reason for mutilation of any of the papers destroyed. He could gain nothing by it, nor did he cover up anything whose exposure had damaged him.

It is a case that puzzles all of them. It is all that has come out there is not the glow of a reasonable explanation why today was driven to suicide, except that it was suddenly afflicted with insanity. A insanity theory is well disposed of by the terms of a note written to a friend just as the act, which shows that the delinquent was premeditated, but apparently a thought that came after the inevitable events of the morning. His confidential clerk asserts that his affairs were in good condition. There was no reason for mutilation of any of the papers destroyed. He could gain nothing by it, nor did he cover up anything whose exposure had damaged him.

It is a case that puzzles all of them. It is all that has come out there is not the glow of a reasonable explanation why today was driven to suicide, except that it was suddenly afflicted with insanity. A insanity theory is well disposed of by the terms of a note written to a friend just as the act, which shows that the delinquent was premeditated, but apparently a thought that came after the inevitable events of the morning. His confidential clerk asserts that his affairs were in good condition. There was no reason for mutilation of any of the papers destroyed. He could gain nothing by it, nor did he cover up anything whose exposure had damaged him.

It is a case that puzzles all of them. It is all that has come out there is not the glow of a reasonable explanation why today was driven to suicide, except that it was suddenly afflicted with insanity. A insanity theory is well disposed of by the terms of a note written to a friend just as the act, which shows that the delinquent was premeditated, but apparently a thought that came after the inevitable events of the morning. His confidential clerk asserts that his affairs were in good condition. There was no reason for mutilation of any of the papers destroyed. He could gain nothing by it, nor did he cover up anything whose exposure had damaged him.

It is a case that puzzles all of them. It is all that has come out there is not the glow of a reasonable explanation why today was driven to suicide, except that it was suddenly afflicted with insanity. A insanity theory is well disposed of by the terms of a note written to a friend just as the act, which shows that the delinquent was premeditated, but apparently a thought that came after the inevitable events of the morning. His confidential clerk asserts that his affairs were in good condition. There was no reason for mutilation of any of the papers destroyed. He could gain nothing by it, nor did he cover up anything whose exposure had damaged him.

"The Mystery of Marie Rogot."

It is expected, however, that some light will be thrown upon it in a few days, as there is more official, private, professional and amateur detective work being done upon it than upon any other case ever known in the sensational annals of the Capital.

Mr. Harrison Much Improved.

Though Mr. Harrison is yet in a condition that gives hope, the hope of permanent recovery, she has shown much improvement during the week that has elapsed since her return from Loon Lake, and the physicians are much pleased at the change. As far as the public is concerned, the change at the White House on such as they did when the mistress was able to bear a part in the proceedings. Many of the visitors of the week of the improvement are still in the city, as all of the reduced fare tickets are good until October 15, and the crowd that will be expected to see the great East Room was filled to suffocation, and the President patiently took the heat of all who wished to see him there. Mr. Harrison is looking exceedingly well, despite his continued watching and anxiety, and shows the constitution of a man.

The ability to rest well has been Mrs. Harrison's good fortune all week. Dr. Gardner, when he came down stairs this morning, said that she was resting better than she had for months. Otherwise her condition remains about the same, with perhaps some slight improvement in the interest of the household that she is decidedly better, because her days are spent without pain and without the evidences of a return of strength. The trained nurse, has charge of her every night. Her duties commence at the hour when the family retires. In the morning she is up and dressed, and she has the ladies of the household, who with Mrs. Harrison's maid, Josephine, are in attendance, one after the other, all day long.

Consular Nearing All the Time.

The President will spend the hours from luncheon to dinner at the sick room, unless he defers to Mrs. Harrison's expressed wish and goes out for a walk or a ride. The President's secretary, Mr. Russell Harrison, is going out on spending just as much time as he can with his children.

Dimmick's peculiar affection for her aunt has been a source of trouble to the household. All the summer, until the last critical change occurred, she was entirely in the hands of the aunt, and she has returned here she is scarcely ever absent from the sick room all day long, and especially during the night, when the family sleep so much time about Mrs. Harrison.

He then went on to say that the one instance where Republicans had removed the tariff, namely, on sugars, they had by that same bill taken $15,000,000 a year for 15 years from the people to pay the sugar growers a bounty—clearly a case of one class rich at the expense of the country.

There would be as much justice," said he, "in paying an equal amount of bounty to the corn raisers of Ohio."

He traced the history of the increase of the tariff from 1840, when the Walker bill was introduced. He did not remain at his post, but, according to the statements of the Consul General, he signed in blank a number of consular certificates, and absented himself from Steintz. Kellogg was promptly removed from office by the Secretary of State, and Kellogg was removed from office and neglect of official duty. The report of Mr. Edwards says:

I have the honor to report that I arrived at Cleveland on the 20th inst., and found that Kellogg had been removed from office. I have no doubt that Kellogg was removed from office because he was a Republican.

He then went on to say that the one instance where Republicans had removed the tariff, namely, on sugars, they had by that same bill taken $15,000,000 a year for 15 years from the people to pay the sugar growers a bounty—clearly a case of one class rich at the expense of the country.

There would be as much justice," said he, "in paying an equal amount of bounty to the corn raisers of Ohio."

He traced the history of the increase of the tariff from 1840, when the Walker bill was introduced. He did not remain at his post, but, according to the statements of the Consul General, he signed in blank a number of consular certificates, and absented himself from Steintz. Kellogg was promptly removed from office by the Secretary of State, and Kellogg was removed from office and neglect of official duty. The report of Mr. Edwards says:

I have the honor to report that I arrived at Cleveland on the 20th inst., and found that Kellogg had been removed from office. I have no doubt that Kellogg was removed from office because he was a Republican.

He then went on to say that the one instance where Republicans had removed the tariff, namely, on sugars, they had by that same bill taken $15,000,000 a year for 15 years from the people to pay the sugar growers a bounty—clearly a case of one class rich at the expense of the country.

There would be as much justice," said he, "in paying an equal amount of bounty to the corn raisers of Ohio."

He traced the history of the increase of the tariff from 1840, when the Walker bill was introduced. He did not remain at his post, but, according to the statements of the Consul General, he signed in blank a number of consular certificates, and absented himself from Steintz. Kellogg was promptly removed from office by the Secretary of State, and Kellogg was removed from office and neglect of official duty. The report of Mr. Edwards says:

I have the honor to report that I arrived at Cleveland on the 20th inst., and found that Kellogg had been removed from office. I have no doubt that Kellogg was removed from office because he was a Republican.

He then went on to say that the one instance where Republicans had removed the tariff, namely, on sugars, they had by that same bill taken $15,000,000 a year for 15 years from the people to pay the sugar growers a bounty—clearly a case of one class rich at the expense of the country.

There would be as much justice," said he, "in paying an equal amount of bounty to the corn raisers of Ohio."

He traced the history of the increase of the tariff from 1840, when the Walker bill was introduced. He did not remain at his post, but, according to the statements of the Consul General, he signed in blank a number of consular certificates, and absented himself from Steintz. Kellogg was promptly removed from office by the Secretary of State, and Kellogg was removed from office and neglect of official duty. The report of Mr. Edwards says:

I have the honor to report that I arrived at Cleveland on the 20th inst., and found that Kellogg had been removed from office. I have no doubt that Kellogg was removed from office because he was a Republican.

He then went on to say that the one instance where Republicans had removed the tariff, namely, on sugars, they had by that same bill taken $15,000,000 a year for 15 years from the people to pay the sugar growers a bounty—clearly a case of one class rich at the expense of the country.

There would be as much justice," said he, "in paying an equal amount of bounty to the corn raisers of Ohio."

POLITICS WARMS UP.

Listless Apathy Giving Way to Bustling Work in Ohio.

GEN. STEVENSON AT WOODSDALE, And Governor McKinley at a Huge Meeting in Cincinnati.

PENROTH TALKING OUT IN OREGON.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 1.—The Democratic campaign opened in Ohio to-day with a meeting at Wooddale Island, near Hamilton, Butler county. It was estimated that fully 4,000 people were in attendance.

His administration is admitted, even by the Democrats, to have been an honest one. There were no scandals attached to any of his appointments. The United States bonds were paid in full, and the Treasury is now in a position to meet all its obligations.

The question that was asked of the crowd was the one which has been asked of the nation, and that is, "What is the real reason of the tariff?"

He then went on to say that the one instance where Republicans had removed the tariff, namely, on sugars, they had by that same bill taken $15,000,000 a year for 15 years from the people to pay the sugar growers a bounty—clearly a case of one class rich at the expense of the country.

There would be as much justice," said he, "in paying an equal amount of bounty to the corn raisers of Ohio."

He traced the history of the increase of the tariff from 1840, when the Walker bill was introduced. He did not remain at his post, but, according to the statements of the Consul General, he signed in blank a number of consular certificates, and absented himself from Steintz. Kellogg was promptly removed from office by the Secretary of State, and Kellogg was removed from office and neglect of official duty. The report of Mr. Edwards says:

I have the honor to report that I arrived at Cleveland on the 20th inst., and found that Kellogg had been removed from office. I have no doubt that Kellogg was removed from office because he was a Republican.

He then went on to say that the one instance where Republicans had removed the tariff, namely, on sugars, they had by that same bill taken $15,000,000 a year for 15 years from the people to pay the sugar growers a bounty—clearly a case of one class rich at the expense of the country.

There would be as much justice," said he, "in paying an equal amount of bounty to the corn raisers of Ohio."

He traced the history of the increase of the tariff from 1840, when the Walker bill was introduced. He did not remain at his post, but, according to the statements of the Consul General, he signed in blank a number of consular certificates, and absented himself from Steintz. Kellogg was promptly removed from office by the Secretary of State, and Kellogg was removed from office and neglect of official duty. The report of Mr. Edwards says:

I have the honor to report that I arrived at Cleveland on the 20th inst., and found that Kellogg had been removed from office. I have no doubt that Kellogg was removed from office because he was a Republican.

He then went on to say that the one instance where Republicans had removed the tariff, namely, on sugars, they had by that same bill taken $15,000,000 a year for 15 years from the people to pay the sugar growers a bounty—clearly a case of one class rich at the expense of the country.

There would be as much justice," said he, "in paying an equal amount of bounty to the corn raisers of Ohio."

He traced the history of the increase of the tariff from 1840, when the Walker bill was introduced. He did not remain at his post, but, according to the statements of the Consul General, he signed in blank a number of consular certificates, and absented himself from Steintz. Kellogg was promptly removed from office by the Secretary of State, and Kellogg was removed from office and neglect of official duty. The report of Mr. Edwards says:

I have the honor to report that I arrived at Cleveland on the 20th inst., and found that Kellogg had been removed from office. I have no doubt that Kellogg was removed from office because he was a Republican.

He then went on to say that the one instance where Republicans had removed the tariff, namely, on sugars, they had by that same bill taken $15,000,000 a year for 15 years from the people to pay the sugar growers a bounty—clearly a case of one class rich at the expense of the country.

There would be as much justice," said he, "in paying an equal amount of bounty to the corn raisers of Ohio."

He traced the history of the increase of the tariff from 1840, when the Walker bill was introduced. He did not remain at his post, but, according to the statements of the Consul General, he signed in blank a number of consular certificates, and absented himself from Steintz. Kellogg was promptly removed from office by the Secretary of State, and Kellogg was removed from office and neglect of official duty. The report of Mr. Edwards says:

I have the honor to report that I arrived at Cleveland on the 20th inst., and found that Kellogg had been removed from office. I have no doubt that Kellogg was removed from office because he was a Republican.

He then went on to say that the one instance where Republicans had removed the tariff, namely, on sugars, they had by that same bill taken $15,000,000 a year for 15 years from the people to pay the sugar growers a bounty—clearly a case of one class rich at the expense of the country.

There would be as much justice," said he, "in paying an equal amount of bounty to the corn raisers of Ohio."

He traced the history of the increase of the tariff from 1840, when the Walker bill was introduced. He did not remain at his post, but, according to the statements of the Consul General, he signed in blank a number of consular certificates, and absented himself from Steintz. Kellogg was promptly removed from office by the Secretary of State, and Kellogg was removed from office and neglect of official duty. The report of Mr. Edwards says:

METHODIST CHANGES.

The List of Conference Appointments to Be Published Monday.

SMITH FOR SMITHFIELD STREET.

Dr. Strong Comes From Cincinnati to the North Avenue Church.

NEWS FROM SEVERAL NEARBY TOWNS.

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 1.—At Conference this morning, Bishop Newman again addressed the young ministers. His subject was oratory, a continuation of yesterday's address on "The Art of Preaching."

He then went on to say that the one instance where Republicans had removed the tariff, namely, on sugars, they had by that same bill taken $15,000,000 a year for 15 years from the people to pay the sugar growers a bounty—clearly a case of one class rich at the expense of the country.

There would be as much justice," said he, "in paying an equal amount of bounty to the corn raisers of Ohio."

He traced the history of the increase of the tariff from 1840, when the Walker bill was introduced. He did not remain at his post, but, according to the statements of the Consul General, he signed in blank a number of consular certificates, and absented himself from Steintz. Kellogg was promptly removed from office by the Secretary of State, and Kellogg was removed from office and neglect of official duty. The report of Mr. Edwards says:

I have the honor to report that I arrived at Cleveland on the 20th inst., and found that Kellogg had been removed from office. I have no doubt that Kellogg was removed from office because he was a Republican.

He then went on to say that the one instance where Republicans had removed the tariff, namely, on sugars, they had by that same bill taken $15,000,000 a year for 15 years from the people to pay the sugar growers a bounty—clearly a case of one class rich at the expense of the country.

There would be as much justice," said he, "in paying an equal amount of bounty to the corn raisers of Ohio."

He traced the history of the increase of the tariff from 1840, when the Walker bill was introduced. He did not remain at his post, but, according to the statements of the Consul General, he signed in blank a number of consular certificates, and absented himself from Steintz. Kellogg was promptly removed from office by the Secretary of State, and Kellogg was removed from office and neglect of official duty. The report of Mr. Edwards says:

I have the honor to report that I arrived at Cleveland on the 20th inst., and found that Kellogg had been removed from office. I have no doubt that Kellogg was removed from office because he was a Republican.

He then went on to say that the one instance where Republicans had removed the tariff, namely, on sugars, they had by that same bill taken $15,000,000 a year for 15 years from the people to pay the sugar growers a bounty—clearly a case of one class rich at the expense of the country.

There would be as much justice," said he, "in paying an equal amount of bounty to the corn raisers of Ohio."

He traced the history of the increase of the tariff from 1840, when the Walker bill was introduced. He did not remain at his post, but, according to the statements of the Consul General, he signed in blank a number of consular certificates, and absented himself from Steintz. Kellogg was promptly removed from office by the Secretary of State, and Kellogg was removed from office and neglect of official duty. The report of Mr. Edwards says:

I have the honor to report that I arrived at Cleveland on the 20th inst., and found that Kellogg had been removed from office. I have no doubt that Kellogg was removed from office because he was a Republican.

He then went on to say that the one instance where Republicans had removed the tariff, namely, on sugars, they had by that same bill taken $15,000,000 a year for 15 years from the people to pay the sugar growers a bounty—clearly a case of one class rich at the expense of the country.

There would be as much justice," said he, "in paying an equal amount of bounty to the corn raisers of Ohio."

He traced the history of the increase of the tariff from 1840, when the Walker bill was introduced. He did not remain at his post, but, according to the statements of the Consul General, he signed in blank a number of consular certificates, and absented himself from Steintz. Kellogg was promptly removed from office by the Secretary of State, and Kellogg was removed from office and neglect of official duty. The report of Mr. Edwards says:

I have the honor to report that I arrived at Cleveland on the 20th inst., and found that Kellogg had been removed from office. I have no doubt that Kellogg was removed from office because he was a Republican.

He then went on to say that the one instance where Republicans had removed the tariff, namely, on sugars, they had by that same bill taken $15,000,000 a year for 15 years from the people to pay the sugar growers a bounty—clearly a case of one class rich at the expense of the country.

There would be as much justice," said he, "in paying an equal amount of bounty to the corn raisers of Ohio."

He traced the history of the increase of the tariff from 1840, when the Walker bill was introduced. He did not remain at his post, but, according to the statements of the Consul General, he signed in blank a number of consular certificates, and absented himself from Steintz. Kellogg was promptly removed from office by the Secretary of State, and Kellogg was removed from office and neglect of official duty. The report of Mr. Edwards says:

I have the honor to report that I arrived at Cleveland on the 20th inst., and found that Kellogg had been removed from office. I have no doubt that Kellogg was removed from office because he was a Republican.

THE WEATHER.

For Western Pennsylvania: Fair, Continued Cold East Wind.

For Ohio: Fair, Winds Shifting to Southeast, Slightly Warmer on Northern Part.

For the Virginia: Fair, with a Breeze, Becoming Variable; Cooler Sunday Morning, Followed by Rising Temperature.

The area of high pressure extends over the Northern States and from the Atlantic coast to the Upper Mississippi Valley. The barometer being higher near Lake Huron. The pressure has declined slightly in the Southern States and in the extreme Northwest, with rains along the Gulf and Florida coasts and occasional showers in Montana and northern portions of the lake regions.

Brisk and higher northerly winds prevail on the Atlantic coast, north of Florida, due to the advance of the high pressure north of the lake regions. The temperature has fallen from 18° to 28° from the Upper Mississippi Valley eastward to the New England coast. It is warmer in the Dakotas and cooler in Montana. Elsewhere the temperature has remained about stationary. Fair weather will probably continue in the Atlantic coast districts, the lake regions and the Central Valley.

Comparative Temperature.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 1.—The Local Forecast Office of the Weather Bureau in this city furnishes the following:

Oct. 1, 1892. Oct. 1, 1891.

RAIN 54. HAIL 0. WIND 54. TEMPERATURE 54.

Maximum temperature, 78. Minimum, 38. Mean, 58.

NET WITH ALL HONORS.

The First Modern War Vessel Arrives for the Columbian Parade.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The Italian ironclad Bousan arrived at Quarantine at 10:30 o'clock this morning, with flags flying and drums beating. She was met there by the United States cruiser Philadelphia, the gunboat Vesuvius, which welcomed her with salutes of 21 guns. The Bousan returned the salutes and the Vesuvius and Philadelphia escorted her up to the naval anchorage in the North River.

The vessel is here for the purpose of representing Italy in the naval parade, which will be one of the principal features of the Columbian Exposition. The Italian Contingent, which holds the position of Lieutenant in the navy, will represent King Humbert and the Italian royal family, which will be accompanied by the Italian Government will be represented by Giuseppe Nonati, the Captain of the Bousan.

A Fearful Offending Bavaria.

His colleagues in the Prussian Ministry hesitate to approve the suggestion. Such a measure would be certain to cause intense irritation in Bavaria. Whatever measures are adopted, the Prussian Ministry will be bound to oppose them. Some independent Conservatives are joining them, and these are the only ones who will render the Government majority insecure.

The setting in of colder weather has again rendered the reputation of the Prussian Government. Under the warnings of Prof. Koch, the authorities during the winter will effect such ameliorations as will enable them to cope with the inevitable outbreak of cholera. The commission on the formation of a sanitary law has Prof. Koch, Dr. Von Corder and other scientists to assist it. Surprisingly, the Prussian Government has no share in the work of the commission. A lame excuse is given that he was absent from Berlin at the time the commission was formed. The probable reason is the late discord existing between Prof. Virchow and Prof. Koch. Prof. Virchow has just completed a great ethnic work intended to be published in America, which he intends to send to Chicago. Berlin is free from cholera, and only occasional cases of choleric disorders are reported in the slums of Charleston.

Careful estimates of the effect of the epidemic upon the trade of Hamburg place the decrease at 70 per cent. The people of Hamburg are confident of a speedy restoration of the situation of the city after the catastrophe of the great fire which laid the city in ashes and totally paralyzed its trade, yet it soon became greater than ever.

The Duke of Cumberland claims that the royal library collections, which were partly bought and partly inherited by his father, the King of Hanover, belong to him by the terms of the recent settlement of the Hanoverian estates. The Prussian Government refuses to surrender the treasure on the ground that they belong to Hanover, as a State, has been absorbed by Prussia. Court reports say that when the Emperor goes to visit the Duke of Cumberland and cement their friendship. The Emperor desires the interview so as to bring about a settlement of the question over the goods one belonging to the house of Hanover.

Kicking Against World's Fair Extortion.

The Berlin papers continue their complaints about the discrimination against exhibitors in the Chicago World's Fair. A long article in the Tagblatt claims upon the American press to use its influence to combat the exorbitant charges of the railroad companies. The Prussian Government is reported to be in a miserable condition. Many of them at Cologne have been refused tickets on Prussian railways.

The Duke of Cumberland claims that the royal library collections, which were partly bought and partly inherited by his father, the King of Hanover, belong to him by the terms of the recent settlement of the Hanoverian estates. The Prussian Government refuses to surrender the treasure on the ground that they belong to Hanover, as a State, has been absorbed by Prussia. Court reports say that when the Emperor goes to visit the Duke of Cumberland and cement their friendship. The Emperor desires the interview so as to bring about a settlement of the question over the goods one belonging to the house of Hanover.

Kicking Against World's Fair Extortion.

The Berlin papers continue their complaints about the discrimination against exhibitors in the Chicago World's Fair. A long article in the Tagblatt claims upon the American press to use its influence to combat the exorbitant charges of the railroad companies. The Prussian Government is reported to be in a miserable condition. Many of them at Cologne have been refused tickets on Prussian railways.

The Duke of Cumberland claims that the royal library collections, which were partly bought and partly inherited by his father, the King of Hanover, belong to him by the terms of the recent settlement of the Hanoverian estates. The Prussian Government refuses to surrender the treasure on the ground that they belong to Hanover, as a State, has been absorbed by Prussia. Court reports say that when the Emperor goes to visit the Duke of Cumberland and cement their friendship. The Emperor desires the interview so as to bring about a settlement of the question over the goods one belonging to the house of Hanover.

A CABINET AT STAKE.

Danger of a German Ministerial Crisis When Reichstag Opens.

BISMARCK WILL BE IN THE FRAY, But an Alliance Between the Conservatives and the Catholics.

GIVES VON CAPREVI AN ADVANTAGE.

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—The Reichstag will open October 22, and immediately the sessions begin there will set in a period of great danger of a Ministerial crisis. The Government has determined not to delay the presentation of the budget, which includes the credits arising on account of the army bills.

Prince Bismarck's friends announce as a certainty that the ex-Chancellor's long expected reappearance in the Reichstag will at last occur. He will appear as a hostile critic of the Government's proposals.

In view of the severe party struggle which is expected, the leaders of the different groups are trying to range themselves. The Government will rely for support on a coalition of Conservatives and Centerists, which is now apparently effected. The seal of the new Carle party has been affixed to the coalition through the election of the Conservative candidate for the Reichstag at Lovernberg, who has the Centerists to thank for his return. In 1890 in his district, the Centerists threw their votes for the Conservative candidate, the Conservative who had occupied the seat.

The Catholics Change Their Allies.

Under the new Carle party the Catholic electors are making a somewhat and returning to the Conservatives. The Freinring party