made the contest just as close as it possibly could be. It was a see-saw affair. There were stages when the home players looked sure winners and suddenly the scene changed and the visitors seemed to have vic-tory certain. The argument was nothing like settled until the last man was out in the ninth inning and then everybody wondered how it all had happened.

The weather was somewhat threatening but there were about 1,300 or 1,400 people present and most of them found numerous opportunities to cheer. In the sixth inning matters looked as if the home sluggers were never going to cease hitting the ball.

PRINCETON, Oct. 3.—[Speciol.]—To-day, for the first time, Princeton's bootball team tested their endurance in a game of two 30-minute halves. They were coached by Peter Poe, of the famous '89 team, who is now studying law in Maryland University. Bulliet, who was slightly hurt in Saturday's game, watched the playing from the ropes. His place at right guard was filled by Parke Davis who resized his position as Captain

Davis who resigned his position as Captain of the scrub team in favor of Turner. Fulfer, whom Captain King is playing for Fuller, whom Captain King is playing for substitute half-back, made four 40-yard runs, assisted by Trenchard's effective interference, and each time scored a touchdown. Vincent, who has been at his home for a few days, is expected at the training table again to-night.

The interview with Captain King regarding the Harvard-Princeton game, reported in a New York paper to-day, was not correct.' Captain King, when asked about it to-night, said: "I was not correctly reported. I have no opinion as to what the graduates of Harvard and Princeton may do to settle the difference between the colleges as to the game. From the present outlook there is no prospect of a game with Harvard will year."

Should this be the case it will be a great disappointment to Princeton men. They are anxious to play Harvard this year and are willing to make any equitable arrangements in the matter. Harvard, however, by reserving only November 8, on which Princeton's team is already contracted to play the Orange Athletic Club. seems to have signi-

CAPTAIN S. S. BROWN WINS A BIG RACE

MORRIS PARK BACE TRACK, Oct 3 -Favorites won every one of the six races on o-day's programme. The bookmakers were hard hit, while the plungers were correspondingly happy. The weather was threatening, but no rain fell, and barring the accident in the Brookdale handicap, when Reckon and Sleipner fell, the sport was fairly interesting. Masher, 5 to 1, was winning the opening six furlong dash for maidens, but when asked to go a little faster and shake off Elmer, the 4 to 5 favorite, he stopped almost to a walk, letting Elmer get up and win by a head. The Iron Master was the only one of the originally entered seven to money favorite for the maiden 2-year-old race, third on the program, won in a gallop, and another filly, Miss Maude, 4 to 5, cap-tured the Fashion stakes in impressive style. Dr. Hasbrouck opened and closed favorite for the Brookdale handicap, and thanks to Reckon and Sleipner falling and Cox's incompetency he won by a head after a desperate finish with Nomad, 30 to 1. Hayward, Sleipner's rider, was not injured, but Fred Littlefield, who rode Reckon, was badly cut and bruised. He was removed from the track to Trainer Wyndham Waldan's house.

"I did not expect to see Shugart in the game to-day. His work is completely demoralizing the balance of the team, and it is evident to me that Shugart's utility to us has vanished. That's all there is in it and we must have a change."

In reply to the letter of "A Baseball 'Jnauk," which appeared in this paper yesterday, a correspondent writes: "There is no comparison between Glasscock and Shugart as players. Their records for this year speak for themselves, I will give the records of each man for this year up to last September. Glasscock played in 114 games, and ranked second among the shortstops. He had a fielding average of .278, and had 49 errors. Shugart played in 106 games, and ranked thiteenth among the shortstops, and had a fielding average of .880. His batting was .275, and he had 82 errors.

"Now these figures speak for themselvos, and if good ball players are wanted instead of Shudart. The latter has collapsed, and is ruining the team by his loose and uncertain work. For one I mean never to patronize a game in which Shugart plays if I know it." cept in two innings Clausen pitched a good game, but he was certainly thumped to the Queen's taste in those two innings. The young man was made very weary, indeed. Jennings played a good game, as did the In the first inning Brown started off with a single to left, and a muffed throw by Beckley allowed Taylor to reach first and Brown was all right at second. Weaver made a single and Brown scored. A wild throw by Mack and a sacrifice each by Pfeffer and Bassett scored the other two

"I am doing pretty well these days without fighting," said he, 'and if everything turns out as I expect it will, the probabilities are that I will have $50,000 in the bank at the end of the present season. I wish Corbett no harm and hope he will make a lot of money."

The fierald will also print an interview with Sullivan, in which the ex-champion said: "Of course I have some peculiar ideas about the causes which led to my defeat, but for the present I prefer that they remain untoid. The time may come, however, when I will see fit to talk, and when I do some people will be greatly gurprised. I do not believe in making excuses for my defeat."

"Do you intend to fight Corbett again?" was asked.

"Well," replied the ex-champion slowly, "I will not fight him at present, though I may do so at some later day. I'm one of those Edwin Booth fellows, or rather an actor, now. I'm going to stick to acting as long as I can, and after I am through with the stage there is no telling exactly whom I will fight,"

The Britishers to Be Called Upon for Some

Boston, Oct. 3 .- It is asserted to-day with authority that the Britishers are to be orced to defend the two American cups which they now hold in their own waters for Mr. Archibald Rogers, of New York, is having built at the Herreshoff Works a steel cutter of 84-foot load water line, which is to go over next season and do battle for the Brenton's Keef Escape May Cups. Mr. Rogers now, owns the Bedouin and the Wasp and was formerly Rear Commodore of the New York Yacht Club. Captain Charlie Barr will be on board—and, by the way, he is an American citizen, having taken out his papers.

There is a growing feeling among a few to sail across with the challenger, and it would not be surprising if the Constellation, Aicma, Iroquois, Marguerite and others went over. The schooner Yampa is now on her way over with Mr. Royal Phelps Carroll on board and the chances are that he has authority to close a match.

done, however, as I understand all the clubs have lost money except the Cleveland club, and there is no telling how we will stand at the close of the senson."
"Will the Cleveland club stand an assessment to pay these debts you speak of?" was asked.

EXPENSES TOO HIGH

President Hart Talks About the Genera State of Baseball. CHICAGO, Oct. 3.-Reviewing the basebal Chicago, Oct. 3.—Reviewing the baseball season, President Hart said to-day:
"The only cities which show a falling off in gate receipts are St. Louis, Chicago, Boston and New York. The position St. Louis occupies in the race explains why its patronage has been so small. Aside from Boston the attendance at Chicago, St. Louis and New York was about as good as the performance. ances of their teams justified. While the attendance in two-thirds of the league cities has largely exceeded that of last year, the season has not been a financial success in has largely exceeded that of last year, the season has not been a financial success in more than two cities in the circuit. Expenses have been out of all proportion to the income. In former years, under the old National League laws, the visiting club was allowed 8½ cents for each person entering the gronnes, this share to be guaranteed to reach $150. Thus the big towns secured their attractions at a trivial price, practically retaining all their gross receipts, while they compelled the smaller cities, where the attendance seldom reached the L800 persons necessary to pay the stipulated guarantee, to pay out more than they could afford to. The big cities gave away about one-tenth of their receipts, but got about one-tail of those in the smaller towns. Under this system the big cities paid extravagant salaries, and there are up all the profits. Now all League cities are on equal terms, gate receipts being equally divided. Next year salaries will be reduced to their proper level. The teams will be more evenly balanced than ever, and in a year or so the game will regain all its old time popularity."
