

HAMPERED FOR ROOM.

Columbus Day Parade May Be Too Big for the Southside.

THE ROUTE OF THE PROCESSION.

About 7,000 Iibernians With a Regiment of Rifles to Be in Line.

IT WILL BE A MONSTER DEMONSTRATION

Major Denniston, Chief Marshal of the Columbus Day demonstration, is now confirmed in the belief that the parade on that occasion will be one of the largest ever seen in Pittsburgh. In fact, so many organizations and societies have indicated to him their determination to take part in the celebration that he is fearful that the parade cannot be formed on the Southside, as was first contemplated. Major Denniston and his staff will go to the Southside this morning to examine the territory there. If they do not find sufficient space upon which to form a parade of 20,000 people, the number calculated upon, then the first arrangement will be changed and the parade will be formed in Allegheny.

If the parade is formed on the Southside the route of procession will be down Carson street to the Tenth street bridge, across the bridge to Second avenue, along Second avenue to Grant street, along Grant street to Sixth avenue, down Sixth avenue to Liberty street, to Sixth street and across the bridge to Allegheny and through the principal streets of the Northside. If it is found necessary to form the parade in Allegheny, then about the same route will be gone over, heading, however, in the other direction.

Will Turn Out 7,000 Iibernians. The officials of the Ancient Order of Iibernians yesterday notified Major Denniston that their organization will turn out 7,000 strong. Colonel Felix McKnight also served notice that his regiment of eight companies of the Iibernian Rifles would be in the parade. Other societies and organizations sent similar notices.

"The parade I am satisfied now will be a monster," Major Denniston said. "Everybody seems to be thoroughly aroused over the celebration, and many societies, of which I never before heard, have indicated their desire to turn out and make the demonstration complete. The outside towns are being heard from, also, and our only difficulty now is to get the details so arranged that we will be able to move the great body of men without conflict or collision. We are confident that everything will be satisfactorily arranged, however."

Looking for a Large Space. "My assistants are industrious in their efforts, and what we most need now is sufficient space upon which to form the different organizations into one solid body. And," the Major concluded, "we will find that before 24 hours."

Mayor Gourley yesterday received a communication from A. Buffalo, President of the United Italian Societies of Western Pennsylvania, in which he stated that the societies intended erecting a monument to Christopher Columbus. The desire is to erect the monument in Schenley Park, and the societies want the sanction of the Mayor and Councils and want them to select the site so that the ground can be broken and work commenced on Columbus Day, October 21. The Mayor will turn the matter over to Chief Bigelow, who has the power to grant the request asked for without the aid of Councils.

I Can Walk a Mile

Easily, although for a long time before taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I could not walk a step without help. I had a terrible running sore on my leg, resulting from milk. The flesh was black around the sore, which seemed to be eating into the bone.

My mother says she never saw such a sore leg. Nothing did me any good till I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. The pain grew less until it ceased wholly, the dark color disappeared, the sore has healed, and the limb is perfectly healthy. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

People are surprised at the wonderful change in my general appearance." Mrs. CHAS. ASHLEY, Avon, Mass.

HOOD'S PILLS should be in every family medicine chest. Once used, they are preferred.
