FOUR JURISTS TALK.

Judge Kennedy Favors a Liberal Construction of the Baker Law.

COMMON SENSE TO RULE.

Only the Official Ballot Is Legal According to the Others.

A DEFENSE MADE BY JUDGE MAGRE

Honorable Mr. Ewing Condemns the New Voting System as Absurd.

HE SEES NO REMEDY FOR THE MUDDLE The Baker ballot muddle continues to be the chief subject of discussion among voters in these exciting times. For the present the campaign hurrahing and the burning of red fire have been pushed into the background, for what does it accomplish, people argue, to waste strength, beating the air? If citizens will be unable to vote through no fault of their own, they want to know it in time. Everybedy is hoping for the best, and all agree that the timely agitation can do no harm. It is apparent that some features of the law should be changed, and it is well to have them discussed. Some of the county judges were interviewed about the voting complications yesterday. None of them had any remedy to suggest. Judge Ewing was one of the first seen. He had just finished the job of making a lot of citizens, and was very willing to talk. "I haven't read the Baker ballot law," he said, "and I don't intend to go over it until I am compelled to in the trial of a case that may come before me

A Difficult Law to Learn. "The law is so complicated and cumbersome that I am proud of my record. I have been picking up information about it from other people, and between now and the election I will try to learn how to vote. The law is absurd. I have always said that you can't substitute honesty and virtue in voters and election boards through legal machinery. I don't blame the Legislature for passing the act. The they tried to meet a popular clamor for reform in voting. Now we have the reform, and what is it?-a complicated work that nobody seems to under-stand. The best kind of election law is the simplest, one that is easily understood by the masses. A few simple safeguards printed. I want to see the law thoroughly should be put around the polls, and that is all that can be done. For the rest we must depend on the honesty of the voters. You can't make people virtuous by legislative enactments. Tricky men will continue to be full of expedients to circumvent the law in spite of the Legislature. If this kind of ballot reform keeps up there won't be enough taxes raised to pay the expense of elections. Some impractical people filled with the idea that imaginary frauds existed and should be rectified are responsible for the complication." "But suppose the supply of ballots or election day is not sufficient, what then?" "Indeed, I don't know. If I went to the pells and found none of the official ballots there I would prepare one, and offer it to indict the board?" "I don't know what I would do. You can't blame an election board for observing the requirements of the law. If a board was indicted, this would bring the question before the courts, but I don't believe any election officer would be found guilty under

"Wouldn't judges be liberal in their interpretations of the law in view of the "I don't see how judges can get away from the law. They are guided in their opinions by it. I can see no remedy, and if voters are disfranchised, it is because of a bad election act. Nothing remains to be done but to make the last of the Baker law. ## extra session of the Legislature. But the time is too short." NO SAMPLE BALLOT YET,

But the Commissioners Will Take Chance

in Letting the Contract. The County Commissioners are still waiting for the official notice about the size of the ballot. Mr. Mercer thinks he is justified in making arrangements for the printing of the county tickets on the basis that the size will be 52 inches by 22. He thinks if the official sample ballot does not arrive by to-morrow room can be left on the ticket for the names of all the candidates. He does | chise the voters of the State, and, therefore, spirit of the law, though the act stipulates that the ballots must be uniform. It is absolutely necessary for the printers to notify Mercer is not atraid that the Allegheny oters will be without tickets on election inv. He says he will have them printed and distributed on time, but he thinks commissioners from the interior counties the wait until the last minute will be sadly

The Commissioners have purchased 725 booths and 2,009 annexes. There are 440 election districts. An annex must be pro vided for every 50 voters or fractional part thereof. Pittsburg will require 244 booths and 674 annexes, Allegheny 132 booths and 401 annexes, boroughs 80 booths and 255 an-nexes, and 196 booths and 515 annexes for ### the townships. LET COMMON BENSE RULE.

Judge Kennedy Believes in a Liberal In terpretation of the Law. Judge Kennedy read the act shortly a'ter it became a law, but he said he had forgotten most of the provisions. He thought if the law worked to the disfranchisement of voters that the courts would be very liberal in the interpretation of the act in cases where citizens had voted or offered a ticket of their own manu-

"This may not be strict law," continued the Judge, "but it is common sense. It was pever contemplated that voters should be distranchised by statute. It is a right that belongs to all men under the Constitution, and the latter would be considered first. I had no idea the machinery of the Baker law would be so complicated. The legal questions involved I am not propared to discuss now. I must study the law in detail. I remember when I first went over the act I was im-pressed with its intricacy. A number of the provisions I did not like. I expect a great many mistakes will be made in vot-ing, but if lawsuits arise in consequence the intent should be considered. I hardly think it would be fair to throw out votes because citizens had blundered a little in making the marks. I realize that it will be difficult for the printers to comply with the requirements, but every effort should be put forth to have the ballots ready. The disfranchisement of voters would result in a revolution. The people would not stand it under any circumstances."

FAITH IN THE LAW.

Judge Mager Says Too Much Fuss Is Being Made Over the Baker Ballot Act-He

Claims the System Is All Right. Judge Magee thinks too much fuss is be ing made about the law and he says voters will have all the ballots they want on election day. He believes the printers can issue them on time and in abundance. "A great many people," he began, "are doing all they possibly can to belittle the Baker act. They don't want to see an election system introduced in this State that has proved a success and protection to voters elsewhere. I know many would like to have the act repealed, and they are raising a hue and cry against it. I am aware that the law is not perfect, but it has many good features. We will learn by experience and detects can be remedied. I do not believe for one moment that any voter will be disfranchised as a result of the law, and you will see that all the difficulties in the way now will be removed It wouldn't do to have the tickets printed months in advance and scattered all over the country. This is one of the features I

Possesses Some Excellent Features. "The preparation of the ballot and the afeguards thrown around it are also excellent ideas. This law will effectu-ally put a stop to fraudulent voting, and I know some people won't like that. No more will workers put a prepared ballot in the voter's hand, then lead him to the polls and hold a club over him until he deposits the ticket. It was to stop this practice that the law was passed in response to a popular demand for honest elections. "I don't expect the law to work smoothly this time. The people must be taught, and in the future what seems like a great complication now will be very simple. Talk about the scarcity of ballots. Why, I have been in wards often where such a thing as a Democratic ticket could not be found. To be sure, I never missed my vote on that

No Advantage to Either Party. "The Baker law is as fair for one side as the other, and no advantage is given to either party. Admitting, however, that the tickets can't be printed, then the result would be very serious. Every man has the right to vote, and when a law comes into conflict with any of the principles of the Constitution, it will fall, but that must be determined by the courts. Under the old system nothing was specified about the kind of ticket to be used, and a voter members were working under pressure, and | could write the name of his candidates on a sheet of paper, if he saw fit. The Baker law prescribes how the ticket must be prepared, and, of course, courts would in-sist on these requirements being carried out. But, frankly, I am not worried about the supply of paper in the country, or the impossibility of having the tickets > tried. Let the people give the act a chance, and I will guarantee the result will be satisfactory. TICKETS MUST BE OFFICIAL.

Judge McClung Thinks Only Regular Ballots Will Be Sustained. Judge McClung was not inclined to talk as bad as reported that it is a serious affair.

"This is a queer law," he said, "it is so intricate and complicated. I suppose I will have some trouble in casting my vote. If the people of the complement of the complement of the casting my vote. If the people of the casting my vote in the casting my vote. If the people of the casting my vote is a serious affair.

If the people want such a law, a skilled lawyer should be hired to go into the booth with every man to guide him in the preparation of the ballot.

This act is a fault of our system

"I don't know. That would have to be decided. I think courts would adhere to the election law unless it was declared unconstitutional."

"I would not in itself render the law owing to the inability of the printment to turn out the ballots, I am not prepared to say that that would make the Baker law unconstitutional. As for voters making their own tickets where the official ballots are missing, I do not think this is allowable, or would be sustained by the courts. The law specifies how the the courts. The law specifies how the tickets should be fixed, and nothing is left for a judge to do but to follow the law. I feel positive that no other ticket except the official one will be held legal. The

the act." BRENNEN IS UNCERTAIN.

He Believes the Legislature Has No Power to Disfranchise Voters.

Chairman Brennen, of the Democratic County Committee, hesitates to talk on the subject of the Baker ballot. He admits that the people are greatly confused and bewildered in the matter. He is hopeful, however, that some intelligent light will be rown on the subject before election day. "I have great confidence that the courts will sustain the intention of the voters, and if ballots are not provided it strikes me that a written ballot would be counted. Not even the courts seem to understand the intention or purpose of the Legislature in passing the ballot law, and even the Legislature does not have authority to disfrathe intention of the voter must be accepted.

"That, however, is only one view of the case. I hold that the law after being established and declared constitutional is supreme. I am hopeful that we will be able to get the puzzle worked out in time to get out our tickets. There is one thing certain, neither party will benefit much by the confusion that surrounds the Baker ballot system."

ALL WILL GET A VOTE.

Chairman Gripp Says There Will Be Plenty of Ballots in This County.

Magistrate Gripp, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, says there is no doubt that ballots will be furnished to every voter in Allegheny county, momenter what difficulty is experienced in the other counties of the State. "We have been in consultation with the server two Pittshurs and there are two Pittshurs and the server work. The retirement of Mrs. Stevenson from the active manageevery voter in Allegheny county, no matter what difficulty is experienced in the other counties of the State. "We have been in consultation with one or two Pittsburg printers, and they have encouraged us to believe that they can do all the work in plenty of time to give our people a vote.

"Mr. Harrity is responsible for all the confusion about the ballot law. He should attend to his duties in Harrisburg, where he and the Attorney-General could reach some conclusion. It looks much like a scheme to attract the attention of politicians to Pennsylvania and keep them out of other

"The ballot law must stand. It has stood the test of the Supreme Court, and it must stand the test of the people before the Legislature can even attempt to alter it. No, sir," Judge Gripp concluded, "all this confusion will be cleared up before election

No Need for the Rattles. Attorney James S. Young remarked that voters should not be rattled by all the talk of a scarcity of ballots. He adds that the people should hang on to the good features and eliminate the bad ones. A great move has been made toward securing honest elections, and citizens would be foolish to give up all that has been accomplished in this directions.

TEACHING CHILDREN TO SAVE MONEY

The first session of the Girls' Industrial School connected with the Fourth U. P. Church, corner Montgomery avenue and Arch street, Allegheny, was held yesterday afternoon. This is the eighth year of this institution's existence. One of the features of the opening session was the in-stallation of Mrs. Jean L. Williams as Superintendent. Mrs. Williams occupies the sition which Mra. N. W. Stevenson held successfully for the past seven years. The purpose of this school is to teach children who have no opportunities at home how to sew. It is the only graded sewing school in the country. The officers who act with the Superintendent are: Miss May Monroe, Cashier; Miss Anna Vincent, Treasurer, and Miss Jessie Mc-Naugher, Secretary. The school consists of an average of 280 pupils, divided into 30 classes, each class being provided with a teacher. This year the number of ladies who responded to the call is below the average. As the school is constantly increasing the officers are very desirous that any one who can will offer their services. It is not a severe task, as the school meets but once a week, Saturday. Testing the New Pupil's Ability. The school is organized on a systematic asis. When a pupil makes application she is taken into a large room, where the church's city missionary, Mr. Nelson, examines them, asking their names, residences, etc. She is then given a needle, thread and a piece of cloth and is told to sew. After the inspectors examine the work done they assign her to one of the four grades accord-ing to the knowledge she displays in her work. In the room yesterday there were some 20 little tots working away like busy

Buying Their Own Work at Cost.

A pupil is kept in a grade until she has become proficient in the work required of her. The scholars have the privilege of buving their work at the cost of the material. Outsiders have to pay a percentage. In order to encourage prompt attendance a ticket having a scriptural verse is given to every scholar who is in her place when the bell tops for the opening. Each of these tickets is equal to a penny in purchasing work. In other words, a garment worth 20 cents could be bought for 20 tickets. Aside from the future of a sewing school, the ladies have introduced a penny savings bank system for the little ones. It is run

The Allegheny sub-Committee on Public Works will hold a meeting on Tuesday evening for the purpose of suggesting names for its duplicate streets of the city, and preparing a report to be presented to the general committee at its next meeting. City Engineer Swan said yesterday after-soon that it was surprising how many duplicate streets avenues and alleys there are in the city of Allegheny. For instance, there are 5 streets and 3 alleys named Short, 3 streets, 1 avenue and 2 alleys named Spring, 5 streets and 2 alleys named Vine, 4 streets and 1 alley named Vill 2 streets 2 avenues and 1 alley named Hill, 3 streets, 2 avenues and 1 alley named Center, 4 streets named Ann, and so on. Mr. Swan said the reason of these duplications Swan said the reason of these duplications is that when the boroughs of Manchester, Duquesne and others were taken into the city of Allegheny the names of the streets were retained. Tuesday night's meeting is for the purpose of giving these duplicate streets, avenues and alleys new names, and hereafter no two streets, avenues nor alleys will have the same name.

A Wonderful Discovery.

The Wm. Radam Microbe Killer Co. has just opened a branch office at 701 Smithfield street, room 4. McCance block. To all who send or call at this office, the company gives away, free or ohar e, u 80 page book. This little book gives the history of this wonderful medicine, also testimonial of prominent doctors, clerzymen and business men of high standing, as to its great curative powers. From the thousands of testimonials the company has at hand, surely it has good grounds to base its claims that the medicine called Microbe Killer or Germ Destroyer will cure any disease that human flesh is heir to. It would be well for people in ill-health to investigate this matter.

EXPOSITION—Miss Clementine Devere, the beautiful and accomplished prima downs, afternoon and evening, with Brooks' mag-nificent band.

In the matter of the contested election of Herman Rohrkaste, Councilman from the Twenty-fifth ward, an order was made yesterday allowing K. T. Meade, the Commis-sioner, to open the ballot boxes and take out for examination the registry list, list of voters and other election papers except the

The trust in the case put the price up. In the second case compel you to pay their prices, or do without. The third and last trust is the greatest monster of them all; like the highway man who holds you up by the throat, he makes you pay extra profit to the trust and also the had debts or others. Do you catch on to the little game?
