HIDDEN FROM GENIUS.

A Child-Like Spirit Better Than Great Wisdom or Knowledge.

THE WANT OF THE HUMAN SOUL.

Dedication of the First Presbyterian Church of Allegheny.

TOPICS TOUCHED UPON BY PASTORS

The Rev. Dr. Sutherland, of the Second Presbyterian Church, preached yesterday morning on "The Things Hidden From Genius," from Matthew xi., 25: "I thank Thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because Thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and revealed them unto babes."

"The things to which Christ here refers," said the pastor, "are the great spiritual truths and realities of the divine kingdom. Does it not seem strange on the face of it that God should hide these things from men of large mental capacity and genius and make them known to the lowly, and, stranger still, that Christ should thank Him for so doing? Is there not something startling as well as strange in the words of the text? What a damper it must put upon the ardor of those who are in the habit of worshiping at the shrine of intellect! Before whom does the world bow in differential homage? Is it not before the wise and the prudent? And yet Christ here clearly intimates that it is not to these that God makes his greatest disclosures. 'God's ways are not as our ways,' in this as in other things.

"How many people worship intellect?—Jesus Christ never did. On the other hand how he glorifies the child-spirit. He showed that it was not along the line of genius that men would find rest unto their souls.

Two Divisions of God's Kingdom.

"There are two spheres into which the kingdom of God is divided—the literary and the spiritual. In the literary the 'wise and the prudent' have ample opportunity for investigation and research. The literature of the kingdom of God is the fullest and richest in the world. What literary work penned within the last 200 years or before that has made an abiding impression upon the world that does not owe its impression and influence to its direct or indirect bearing upon God's spiritual and eternal kingdom? Not one. But the semi-religious literary spirit, though interested in religious development and controversy, and progress of an intellectual or ecclesiastical kind, is not necessarily a religious or Christian spirit at all. It may be and may not. Yea will many of those to whom our Savior does not say, nor do his words imply, that God hides the spiritual truths and realities of His kingdom from the 'wise and prudent' who are at the same time childlike in spirit.

"Some of the grandest disclosures regarding His spiritual kingdom which God has ever made he has made to men of mighty intellect, of exceptional genius. But they were at the same time men who bowed before Him in humble and adoring reverence. Paul, the greatest of Christian apologists, would stand in the front rank and be easily the first in the front rank of the world's intellectual giants, and yet what profound and far-reaching spiritual insight was his to enjoy and to use for the advancement and enrichment of the church then and all down the Christian centuries to our own day many of those in closest touch with heaven and heavenly things have been men of large mental capacity and power.

Men of Humble, Childlike Spirit.

"But this was not their only, nor was it their chief, gratification for the privilege and honor conferred upon them. In addition to this they were men of humble, childlike spirit—men whose souls were aflame with love to God and love for their fellowmen. Theirs were intellects consecrated to God and to truth and lives consecrated to duty.

"We have many conspicuous instances of such consecration of great minds in our own day. For example, that of the matchless statesman and intellectual giant who, at the advanced age of 83 years, is molding the policy and directing the affairs of one of the greatest empires in the world—William E. Gladstone. In answer to a recent inquiry from this side of the Atlantic as to his convictions regarding our Lord's divinity, he sent this characteristic reply: 'All that I think and write and do and hope for is centered in the divinity of Jesus Christ.'

"The same thing was true of the great poet, the greatest of our age, and in my humble judgment there have been few greater in any age—who has just passed away. His towering genius was softened and mellowed and glorified by the light of God! And throughout his splendid creations there breathes the spirit of simple childlike trust in profound reverence for God. Who of us doubts that he saw his Pilot face to face when he crossed the bar? Let us remember that grace is genius, and that our Heavenly Father has promised to give grace to the humble. To such life is a triumph, death is a victory, and heaven is a coronation."

THE NEED OF THE SOUL.

Dr. R. B. Mansell's First Sermon in the Fifth Avenue M. E. Church.

The new pastor of Fifth Avenue M. E. Church, Rev. R. B. Mansell, D. D., founded his first sermon yesterday on Proverbs iii.,6: "In all thy ways acknowledge Him and He shall direct thy paths." Mr. Mansell said: God is the supreme want of the human soul, and until He is found we are as fickle and unstable as the waves of the sea. There may be temporary satisfaction with ourselves until we come in sight of some danger signal which at once arouses our fears and makes us conscious of insecurity. The strongest human resources are soon exhausted, and willing or unwilling all must go to God at last.

"We become righteous by placing ourselves in right relations with God. Our will is lost in God's will, and God's love becomes our love. We are made to rejoice in the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, and with our elder brother say, 'Lo, I come to do thy will, O God.' But many have difficulty in observing the this fundamental law owing to their confused idea of God and lack of vital union with him. They have never felt conscious worship, and are strangers to the beauties revealed by placing to the soul's eye the telescope of faith. This eternal Jehovah accommodates Himself to our own necessities, and shines upon us in the face of Jesus Christ. He limits and localizes himself for our own accommodation and comfort. So the true Christian God is not a dim shadowy abstraction, but a visible reality. He repeats His own incarnation in our sanctified manhood and womanhood. God is no longer thought of as dwelling far away in the solitudes of His own eternity, for He resides as a constant guest in the contrite heart.

"To acknowledge God in all our ways means that we place ourselves completely under divine control; that we accept God in Christ as an abiding guest; that we ever recognize His wisdom and power as superior to ours, so that we will not trust ourselves to take a single step without divine permission, ever conscious that He does not direct our paths through both night and morning."

CHRIST AS A TEACHER.

He Was Humble and Attracted the Multitude by His Simple Teachings.

Rev. W. H. Rodenbaugh, pastor of the Duquesne Heights Church, preached yesterday on "How Can I best Help the Church." He took his text from Luke vii., 14. After pointing out the nature of Christ as a teacher, the nature of His hearers and opposers of His teachings, he said: "Christ as a preacher grew. He used no rhetorical language, but was plain and practical in all His teaching. Therefore the multitude pressed upon Him to hear the word of God. In order to be a successful teacher one must linger near the cross, and wait to be influenced by that life which attracted the multitude. Christ was a teacher, not an exactor. His principle was to lead by love. He needed no propitiation on our part, but He Himself became a propitiation for us. The heathen mother is willing to make a propitiation for her offense, and will cast her child in the Ganges to appease the wrath of her god. We have no sacrifice to make. Christ became a sacrifice for us, and when we press near to Him His touch heals our infirmities. Christ preached a gospel for the poor. When the messengers sent by John came to Christ, He opened the eyes of the blind and healed the ears of the deaf and then said: 'Go and tell John that the poor have the Gospel preached to them.'"

THEIR FOURTH BUILDING.

The New First Presbyterian Church of Allegheny Dedicated by the Pastor and Congregation—A Relic of the First Church—Nearly Free From Debt.

Dedicatory services of the fourth building of the First Presbyterian Church of Allegheny, located on the corner of Arch and South Diamond streets, took place yesterday. At the morning services Dr. Moffat, President of the Washington and Jefferson College, preached the dedicatory sermon. The services, held in the auditorium, which has a seating capacity of 800, were listened to by over 1,100 people. They were very beautiful and impressive. Dr. Allison, editor of the Presbyterian Banner; Dr. Thomas H. Robinson, professor in the Western Theological Seminary, and Rev. Mr. Kennedy, pastor of the church, occupied the platform.

After a short scriptural reading the financial statement of the church was read, showing that the building and lot cost $74,000, and that the whole, with the exception of a few thousand dollars, is free from incumbrances. The building was then transferred from the Building Committee to the Board of Trustees as the legal custodians, and then transferred from the trustees to the Session, as the spiritual overseers to dedicate and use for divine worship according to the Presbyterian order.

The afternoon services were held in the lecture room, and consisted of dedicatory services by the Bible class, an address by Rev. H. T. McClelland D. D., brief addresses by former teachers and remarks by present teachers. An interesting relic of the First Presbyterian Church built in Dr. Stockton's time, was shown to the audience by the pastor. It is an old Bible, "presented to the church by a member January 1, 1848." It was rebound in 1882, and is highly valued by both the pastor and the members of the church. On the walls of the auditorium are two brass tablets. Upon one is the following inscription: "Elisha, P. Swift, born in Williamstown, Mass., August 12, 1792. Ordained September 3, 1817. Installed pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Allegheny, October 1, 1833. Died April 2, 1865." At the time of Dr. Swift's death his son, Elliott E. Swift, was co-pastor with his father and took charge at that time and was pastor for 26 years. The other tablet contains an inscription sacred to the memory of the latter.

More than 1,200 people listened to the evening exercises of the dedication of the First Presbyterian Church, on Arch street, Allegheny, last night, and perhaps 200 others failed to find standing room. The opening address was by Rev. Dr. D. R. Sutherland, of the Second Presbyterian Church, Pittsburg. His remarks were intensely practical and were based upon the effect of consolidation and co-operation upon individuality. He said that while co-operation is necessary to success in every phase of existence, that too much of it destroyed individual effort, and he did not hesitate to pronounce consolidation a curse in almost every instance.

Rev. Dr. John Fox, of North Church, Allegheny, spoke at some length upon the history of the Presbyterian churches and particularly of this church. Rev. Dr. M. B. Riddle, of the Theological Seminary, followed him with a somewhat similar talk, and showed the relation which the church has always borne to the seminary and to the other churches of the city. At the close of his address, prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Kennedy, pastor of the church. After the singing of a hymn, the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Riddle, of the Theological Seminary.

CHRISTIANS SHOULD BE FAITHFUL.

A Church Member Should Not Renounce His Faith for Worldly Gain.

Rev. J. H. Patterson supplied the pulpit of the First Presbyterian Church yesterday. Taking "Be thou faithful unto death" as his text, he delivered an eloquent plea for Christian steadfastness and faithfulness to duty. Illustrating his theme with the example of constancy, he related how, when the Roman Emperor came to the throne, he issued an edict that the subjects in his employ should either resign their positions or renounce the Christian religion. The larger part resigned. The next day he reappointed all those who had done so to their old positions and banished those who had disclaimed their faith in the hope of winning his favor. He went on to state that Christians are to be faithful to their vows and that it is a Christian's highest privilege to be persecuted. This was the Christian's reward, and was the distinguishing feature of Christianity. No other religion was to be compared with it. God's light would illumine a mountain as easily as a mole hill.

Continuing, he said that the World's Fair was now demanding the attention of the Church, and that Christians should be steadfast in their demands to have it closed on the Sabbath. Every State had its Sunday laws except California. That the saloon keepers of Chicago were petitioning to have the Fair open on Sunday was evidence enough that the Church should urge that it be closed. He closed with a general exhortation to faithfulness in observing the laws of both God and man.

REV. LOCKE'S SUCCESSOR.

Rev. Mr. Ellis Preaches Two Sermons to His New Congregation.

Rev. Mr. Ellis, the new pastor of the Smithfield Street M. E. Church, preached his first sermon to his Pittsburg congregation yesterday morning. He filled the pulpit last night also, and at both services large congregations attended.

Mr. Ellis was a former Pittsburg printer. He attended college with Charles Edward Locke, his predecessor, at the Smithfield Street M. E. Church, and the two, about the same age, have been warm friends since college days. Mr. Ellis came to Pittsburg from Jamestown, N. Y., where he had been located for five years.

At yesterday morning's services Rev. Ellis talked in a kindly way of the Rev. Charles Edward Locke. He told of the itinerant system in the Methodist Church which provides a minister for every church and a church for every minister. He pledged himself to labor industriously for the spiritual good of his new congregation and he asked that they help him as they had helped their former pastor, and if he failed to please or fill the place to the satisfaction of his people, he hoped that he might first find it out.

Mr. Ellis is probably 38 years old. He has a rather striking face that beams with good nature and kindliness. He says he was received with marked consideration in Pittsburg, and he was delighted with his congregations yesterday.

THE TEMPTATION OF CHRIST.

Rev. Mr. Long Tells of the Savior's Powers of Endurance.

At the Butler Street M. E. Church yesterday Rev. S. P. Long preached in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Oldham, who is in Harrisburg attending the missionary convention. He took for his text, the "Temptation of Christ." He pointed out a number of different ways of looking at this temptation, and told the story of Christ and the devil on the mountain. "What a wonderful power of resistance must Christ be possessed of," said the speaker, "to deny temptation when dared to prove his own identity."

Rev. Mr. Long has only just been appointed City Missionary by Bishop Newman. The office is a new one. He will be assisted in his work by Mrs. Long, with whom he spent five years in missionary work in Burmah and Rangoon, India. Both are peculiarly fitted to this class of work. During the evening service the Hamilton Quartet rendered some choice music for the congregation.

Read a Labor Day Sermon.

Owing to Rev. William Thompson's absence from the pulpit of the St. James Episcopal Church, Penn avenue, last night, Mr. Bratt, a lay reader from Trinity Church, New York, read the sermon delivered at that church on Labor Day by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Thompson, of Mississippi, on capital and labor. The sermon was a masterly analysis of the subject.

Singing in the County Jail.

Rev. E. R. Donehoo had charge of the religious services at the county jail yesterday. He was assisted by a quartet of singers, who led the prisoners in the music.

CHARGED TO STRIKES.

Wylie Avenue Failures Traced to Labor Difficulties and the ## EVILS OF THE CREDIT SYSTEM.

Stock Assets of Dealers Only a Fraction of the Liabilities.

LARGE EASTERN FIRMS WILL BE LOSERS

The labor troubles of the past six months are held to be largely responsible for the recent business failures in the Wylie avenue district. Within the past week the Sheriff has attached his bills of sale to six drygoods and notion stores in that section. Several of those failing have branch stores in the small towns in this vicinity, which will also go down in the wreck. The general reason advanced for the failures is that the peddlers and small dealers supplied from the Wylie avenue stores failed to meet their obligations, thereby preventing the merchants from settling with their creditors.

The whole system seems to have been one of credit. Little capital was invested by many of the dealers. All depended on their income from sales to meet their payments.

Each Depended on the Others.

The merchants bought on credit from Eastern wholesalers, sold on credit to the peddlers and small stores and they in turn sold largely on credit to their customers. The latter are almost entirely of the mill working class. Homestead has always been considered one of the best fields for the pack peddlers' business in this section, but any colony of foreigners is considered good. When the income of this class was cut off by strikes, etc., they failed to pay. In many cases the peddlers had sold them a considerable quantity of goods on time, but when they couldn't pay there was no way to compel them. The peddlers have nothing to realize on. From this the shortness of money is felt by all parties. The Wylie avenue, people all declare this the dullest season they have experienced for many years.

Large Amount of Money Involved.

The amount involved by the Wylie avenue failures is over $200,000. The first sale by the Sheriff will take place this morning, S. Tapolsky, of No. 83, being the victim. The stock is not large and consists of low priced stuff, but his liabilities amount to nearly $25,000. The sale of J. & S. Friedman, of 67 Wylie avenue was set for to-morrow, the liabilities being estimated at $12,000, but a stay until next Friday is expected to-day. A member of this firm was twice arrested the other day, charged with preparing to abscond and with secreting goods to defraud creditors. The sale of D. Rosenthal's stock is set for to-morrow. His liabilities are said to reach $125,000. His friends claim he will secure a settlement before to-morrow and avoid the sale. There are two other firms, one on Penn avenue, which the Sheriff has levied on, and in which sales will take place shortly. It is said that all the stores contain but a fraction of the amount of their liabilities, and if the Sheriff's sales take place the New York firms will be the losers.
