responding with the present, and reports from all distributing points have been of a very encouraging character, not the least important return being the improvement in the iron and steel trade. The publication of the returns of failures, say Henry Clews & Co., has confirmed the feeling that the trade of the country is in an exceptionally sound condition, which has served to strengthen confidence. It appears from the returns that for the past nine months the amount of liabilities involved in business fallures within the United States amounted to $77,000,000, while for the same time in 1891 ouni was $138,800,000, showing a decrease is li months' interval of 44 per cent. In York City the liabilities, for the same the inve tallen from $15,700,000 last year New York City the Habilities, for the same months have fallen from $15,700,000 last year to $1,000,000 this year, or at the rate of 50 per cent. In no year since 1883 has the amount of habilities been so low as at present; and making allowance for the increase of population, the ratio is even much lower than in that exceptional year. Taking an average of the hast ten years, the average amount of failures, within the first name months of the year, has been $107,000,000; which is $30,000,000 above the experience of the current year, making no allowance for an increase of nearly 30 per cent in population during the interval. The losses of the South incident to two years of excessive crops of cotton had prepared us to expect a very uninvorsable showing from that section, and yet there the amount of minres has been only $1,00000 analyst $24,900,000 in 1891. In the depressed Pacific States we should have expected an increase of natures, and yet the habilities there show a slight decrease upon his year's. These are most encouraging year's. These are most encouraging the more so because they admit of no

Prime's report yesterday: Everything very dry west of Mississippi; need rain for tall plowing; pastures even drying up. The movement of corn in the far West is traced largely to the fact that farmers do not care to build cribs. Nearer at home the movearmely arises from the fact of shortness of her crops and farmers being obliged to sell to pay their debts. Fall plowing also being out of the question, as well in the corn and out belts as in winter wheat belt, and the act of splendid country reads have a tendency to make tree movement of grain of all cinds. the Market, Sales and Ch and Closing Prices. Trading in local securities on the Exchange this week fell a little below the late average, the transactions aggregating 3,829 shares of stock, $7,000 bonds and $70 scrip, against 4,045 shares stock, $5,000 bonds and $2,322 scrip last week. Prices of some of the leading shares fluctuated sufficiently to make a good trading market, but a tendency of a positive character was lacking and the market ruled featureless, with the week's operations resulting in nearly an equal division of gains and losses, the majority of which were for slight fractions only. The closing blds to-day, compared with those of last week, show the net changes in the leading shares to be as follows:
