The Southside had its political baptism for this campaign last night, but it didn't lose its head on that account. There was plenty of red fire, a superabundance of horns and considerable enthusiasm.

The parade was a success. At least 2,000 men were in line and an excellent appearance was made. The men looked well and handsome uniforms and good marching were the order.

FIGHTING THE CITY. Supreme Court Suits in which the Municipality is Defendant.

ATTACKING THE CURATIVE ACTS. Property Holders Are Dissatisfied With Their Execution.

STREET CONTRACTORS WANT INTEREST. City Attorney Moreland was yesterday served with papers in all the cases which will come before the Supreme Court at its present sitting in which the city is interested.

The cases are all well up in the calendar and some of them are likely to be reached during the present week. There are nine cases altogether, the city appearing as plaintiff in seven, while she is interested in the other two because they insure an attack on existing city legislation.

Six of the suits are aimed at the curative acts passed by the last Legislature to relieve the municipality from paying for improvements under the street laws of 1887 and 1889, declared null and void by the Supreme Court. The Mt. Washington residents who have fought so vigorously to avoid paying for their street improvements are the plaintiffs in five cases.

The appeal in each case is the same. The property holders desire the court to define the practice under the curative law. As it stands the Board of Viewers report to the court. Their report lies 20 days subject to exceptions. When the 20 days have expired the court has power to confirm, modify, quash or send the report to a new board for correction.

The plaintiffs claim the right to have the viewers entirely null until their report has been submitted to the court. In the three Common Pleas courts it has been decided that every person having claims for damages or objection to assessments must appear before the Board of Viewers, submit proof of the claims, file exceptions before the board and file a copy of the report with the court.

It has also been decided in the lower courts that when they go into court appellants must be able to show on the face of their exceptions some indication of injustice. The court holds that it will treat the report of the viewers with respect and the presumption of fairness, especially as the viewers are not only under oath, but to make a personal inspection of the property and to hear all parties in interest, including a hearing on any exceptions filed before them.

What the plaintiffs want in these cases, should they get a favorable decision, will be an ordinance to delay the viewers until their report has been submitted to the court. The Board of Viewers will be practically declared null and void until their report has been submitted to the court.

Another case against the city is that of the Board of Viewers for interest on their money spent in grading and paving South Twenty-eighth street. The lower court decided that according to their contract Booth & Paine could collect interest until two years after the work was completed.

A Demand for Interest. The firm demands interest from the time the work was finished. Since this suit was brought Councils passed an ordinance allowing contractors to collect interest from the time of completion of work. If the appeal is allowed a number of other contracts will be affected.

City officials take deep interest in the case of James McKay versus Rose Trainor, which involves the validity of the registry act of 1871. The act requires all parties desiring to have their names on the city books registered in the City Engineer's office.

McKay contends this act repeals the act of 1871 and that the sale was made in the name of an unknown owner, the sale stands and the property is his. The court below sustained him, but it is to the interest of the city that the lower court be reversed. The registry act of 1871 is a general law, and does not repeal that of 1871, which is a local special law. They claim the two laws stand together and do not conflict.

DIED IN A HOTEL. Captain G. C. Mabou, Chief Government Gauger, Dies After a Brief Illness.

Post Mortem Shows a Fatty Degeneration of the Heart—Taken Home for Burial.

Captain G. C. Mabou, chief government gauger, stationed in this city, died suddenly at the Hotel Albion yesterday morning. Fatty degeneration of the heart was the cause. Captain Mabou was 60 years of age and was born in Pennsylvania.

Several months ago Mabou had been away from home nearly all the time, traveling through this revenue district. On Monday morning he was in the city and spent the day in the vicinity of Uniontown. When he reached the hotel he complained of bowel trouble, saying he had suffered from it more or less for nearly a year.

A remedy was suggested by the clerk and the captain promised to try it. On Friday afternoon he went to his room and remained there until his death. Yesterday morning the porter went to his room and found the captain rolling on the floor in an agony of pain. He was put to bed and Dr. McCann summoned, but five or six hours later the doctor declared him dead.

The coroner was notified and the body was removed to the morgue. It was at first supposed that the death was due to cholera morbus but a post mortem examination showed that fatty degeneration of the heart was the cause.

A HOMESTEAD EDITORIAL. The Official Organ of the Advisory Board Says That the Strike Is Lost. Homestead was surprised yesterday by an editorial in the Local News, that has heretofore been considered the official organ of the Advisory Board.

The Homestead situation today is a peculiar one. On one hand the spectacle is presented of over 2,000 workmen on the mill, among whom are about 200 of the former Homestead employees. A number of skilled workmen from Braddock, Duquesne, Pittsburgh and other places are among the non-union workmen.

The non-union workmen now live in and about the works, and within a few days will be asked to leave the premises. If they do they are blind. That the company has won is admitted by many, but the great majority of the non-union workers are not so convinced.

The only result of the strike is that the present tension of the steel firm has been relieved. The candid observer can come to the conclusion that the strike has been a failure. The great Homestead strike is dying out.
