WORKING FOR THE LEGISLATURE.

McKinley Makes Two Rousing Speeches in West Virginia.

FASSETT WAKES UP THE OIL COUNTRY

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 17 .- With the end of the contest in sight both the old parties are claiming Indiana. The Democrati think they are as sure to be successful as election day is to come. About the committee headquarters the majority is placed as high as 15,000. The Republicans are not doing much bragging, but the managers of the campaign say they feel confident the State will give its vote for Harrison and the whole Republican ticket.

Both State Committees report that there has been considerable of an awakening the last ten days, and at both headquarters the feeling is expressed that from now on the fight will be active enough to be interesting. It is reported that there was a marked improvement in the crowds that listened to speakers last week, and a noticeable inclination all along the line to take hold of the work of the campaign and make the three remaining weeks of the campaign count. The dealers in campaign goods bave, it is said, gone off the road, utterly disgusted with politics.

During the week the Republicans will make their nominations for joint Senators and joint Representatives and for members of the Legislature in such counties as have not as yet nominated, and will have them all certified to the election commissioner by next Monday.

"I believe we have a fair chance to elect a majority of the members of the Legislature," said a member of the Republican Committee to-day. "The tax law will also cut a considerable figure in the Legislative contests, and it would not be surprising if several Democrats in Democratic counties are defeated on that issue. It looks to me as though the Republicans have an excellent chance to carry the Legislature, if they work with a will between now and election

Secretary Reilly, of the Democratic State Committee, laughs at the idea of the Republicans electing a majority of the Legislature. "We will have our usual majority," says he. "There is nothing in the claim the Republicans make. None of our candidates will be defeated by reason of the tax law. There were a few of the members of the last Legislature renominated, and those who are candidates again will all be re-elected. You going to sweep things."

FASSETT IN THE OIL COUNTRY.

He Speaks to Large Crowds at Oil City and Franklin.

OIL CITY, Oct. 17. -[Special.] - The politi-l meeting held here to-night, at which on, J. Sloat Fassett, of Elmira, N. Y .. was the principal speaker, was the greatest opera house. Senator Fassett made a most we great parties, and contrasted their resent positions on the living issues of this ampaign. The other speakers were Major Alexander McDowell, of Sharon, candidate for Congressman at Large, and Colonel Willis J. Hulings, of this city. Senator Fassett's speech was generally conceded to be the ablest one heard here since the last Presidental campaign.

A special from Franklin says: The first Republican gun was fired to-night at Frank lin, preliminary to the greater demonstra-tion at Oil City. J. Sloat Fassett arrived here at 4:20 o'clock, and was the guest of his uncle, Colonel L. H. Fassett. At 6:30 o'clock a public reception was tendered him at the Exchange, where all the prominent residents of the city met the distinguished visitor. More than 1,000 voters assembled on the streets. Mr Fossett made a brief speech, nearly every sentence being ap-plauded, and, with an escort of about 100, took the train for Oil City. The city, while he was here, was one blaze of fireworks, with brass bands and Republican enthusi Major Alexander McDowell and el W. J. Hulings were the other speakers. Old campaigners say the meet-ing was one of the largest and best ever held in old Venango.

M'KINLEY IN WEST VIRGINIA

Talks to Many Thousand People in a Day, and Some Sense to All.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 17. - [Special. Governor McKinley spoke to 12,000 people at Charleston, this afternoon. Eight thousand cheering Republicans were in the parade that preceded the meeting. It was the greatest outpouring of Republicanism ever known in the Kanawha Valley. Tonight he spoke at the Republican wigwam in Huntington. The great building could not hold half the people who came to hear the apostle of protection. For 90 minutes he held the immense audience in alternate periods of eagerly intent silence and thun-derous applause. He talked of the tariff and the money issues.

The Democrats held a well-attended meeting in the Opera House, addressed by Congressman Josiah Patterson, of Memphia. Governor McKinley leaves for Wheeling in Governor Camden's private car, which has been teffdered him during his stay in West Virginia.

COLLEGIANS IN THE CAMPAIGN.

A Monster Meeting of Them to Be Addressed by Smith and Reed.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17 .- The Republican Club of the University of Pennsylvania has engaged the Academy of Music here for the evening of November 3, and will hold a large mass meeting on that date. Hon. Charles Emory Smith, ex-Minister to Russia, will preside, and speeches will probably be made by ex-Governor Foraker, ex-Adjutant General D. H. Hastings, of Pennsylvania; Hon. J. M. Thurston and Hon. Thomas B. Reed, of Maine.

The Republicans of Princeton, Lehigh, Haverford, Swarthmore and other neighboring colleges have been invited to send delegates. The University Club has 500 members, and has adopted a uniform in the college colors, red and blue.

The Booths Will All Be Ready.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 17 .- E. L. Reinhold Manager of the Marietta Manufacturing Company, which has the contract for supplying the State with booths and annexes, was here to-day. Mr. Reinhold says all the appliances for voting under the new system will be completed this week. Two weeks ago his firm shipped the booths for Washington and Greene counties. The railroad company has lost trace of the car, but expects to locate it in a few days.

Wisconsin's Legislature in Sessio MADISON, WIS., Oct. 17 .- The Legislature met in special session to-night under the call of Governor Peck to reapportion the State into Senate and Assembly districts, the last apportionment act having been declared unconstitutional. J. J. Hogan, of La Crosse, was re-elected Speaker of the Assembly. Both houses adjourned till to-morrow morning.

MAGEE AND STEVENSON

Whooping Things Up on Both Sides Among

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., Oot. 17 .- [Special.] —C. L. Magee, the Pennsylvania politician, is carrying out his original plan to unite Republicans in Alabama and have them suppublicaus in Alabama and have them sup-port the fusion ticket with Kolbites and Third partyites. Wm. Vaughan, the straight Republican nominee for Congress in the Ninth district, withdrew to-day, leaving the field to Parson, fusionist, and Tarpin, Democrat. Mr. Magee held a conference with the committee of the Stevens faction, but the latter's friends say no result was reached. Vaughan was the nominee of the Stevens faction.

Stevens faction.

Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic Vice Presidental candidate, arrived here last night and was met at the station by a large crowd of enthusiastic Democrats, including Congressmen Livingston and Moses, of Georgia, who are now stumping Alabama. He left the city at 4 o'clock for Opelika, where he spoke to-day. He will return to Birmingham to-morrow and will speak at the fair grounds, where a barbecue will be prepared for 10,000 people.

A SENSATION IN VIRGINIA.

Congressman Bowden Withdraws at the Request of the National Committee. NORFOLK, VA., Oct. 17 .- A tremendous sensation was created in the Second Congressional district of Virginia this evening by the announcement that Hon. George E. Bowden, who had served the district for two terms in Congress and had been regularly nominated by the Republican party convention, had withdrawn from the contest. This action of Mr. Bowden was the result of a decision recently reached by the National Republican Congressional Committee through the efforts of General Mahone.

The regular Republicans of the district, reserving this interference, are furious at the section of the committee and it is better the committee and it is the comm the action of the committee, and it is be-lieved that no satisfactory nomination can be made, and that the election of the Demo-cratic nominee, Hon. D. Gardner Tyler, is herefore assured

THE AUDITOR'S REPORT.

Allegheny Departments Are in Good Shape-Back Accounts to Be Tackled Next-Auditor Bigger Says He Does Not Need an Assista

The Allegheny Auditing Committee met last evening. The report of Auditor Bigger on the accounts of the Clerk of Markets, Bureau of Health, Police and Engineering, the Diamond scales and Mayor's office was read and approved. The receipts for the first six months of the year from the mar-kets was $1,168 82. All money collected in the above departments has been turned into the City Treasurer.

It was decided that hereafter the auditor show a summary of the receipts in the dif-ferent departments. Auditor Bigger said that his next work would be on the bureaus of highways and sewers and wharves and landings, also the delinquent tax collector's office and the city solicitor. Chairman Gilliford said the committee should know what accounts the auditor proposes to work on the ensuing month. He doesn't meet with the sub-committee and meet with the sub-committee. with the sub-committee any more and mem-bers of this committee should know what he is doing. They may have information

The question of an assistant to the auditor was brought up, but the auditor said that he could do the work very well with-out assistance, and after some little discus-

At the request of City Solicitor Elphin-stone, Mr. Lowe moved that the City Solic-itor's accounts be taken up first. A motion was adopted that the City Solicitor give a written opinion as to the power of the city to enforce the ordinances against the natu-ral gas companies for taxes and fees at so much per foot for pipes laid.

ANNUAL TRACK INSPECTION.

Officials of the Pennsylvania Road Will Go Over the Line To-Day.

The annual track inspection of the Pennsylvania road will begin to-day. The point of rendezvous is Pittsburg, and it is estimated that fully 300 supervisors, division superintendents, train masters, engineers, etc., were in the city last evening. The crowd swamped the Monongahela House and the Duquesne. They will start over the road this morning in eight trains of four cars each. Arrangements have been made to stop at Sang Hollow an hour for dinner.

The inspection will be in charge of General Manager Charles E Pugh. He will have with him General Superintendent Sheppard, Chief Engineer W. H. Brown and other officials. A number of prizes are awarded annually to the supervisors whose divisions are in the best condition In this way the Pennsylvania road stimulates its trackmen to do their best.

When in Unison, Woe Betakes Poor Misled London Girls.

THE MURDERER'S TRIAL BEGINS.

A Female Companion of His Tells How He Pursued One Victim.

HE THE FIRST TO MENTION THE DRUG

LONDON, Oct. 17.-The trial of Thomas Neill Cream on charges of wilful murder in connection with what are known as the Lambeth poisoning cases, opened before Justice Hawkins this morning in the Old Bailey. The Attorney General, Sir Charles Russell, Q. C., M. P.; the Hon. Bernard Coleridge, Q. C., M. P.; H. Sutton and Mr. Gill appear on behalf of the Treasury, and the prisoner is detended by Mr. Geoghegan and H. Warburton.

The prisoner walked composedly into the lock, whence he surveyed the crowd in the court room with an air of the greatest unconcern. Neill was charged in the indictment with having murdered Matilda Clover, Ellen Donworth, Alice Marsh and Emma Shrivell; attempting to poison Louisa Harvey or Harris, and attempting to blackmail Dr. Broadbent and Dr. Harper. Neill pleaded "not guilty."

An enormous crowd besieged the Old Bailey, but only about 5 per cent of those seeking admission were able to get in. Sir Charles Russell began his speech at 1:50 and did not conclude until 3:45.

Neill the First to Speak of Polson. He wished to emphasize the fact that Neill asked his landlady's daughter to ascertain if the Clover girl had died from the effects of poison, at a time when no one suspected that she had been poisoned. Neill had, also, charged Dr. Broadbent with poisoning the girl with struchning when noody except the murderer knew that strychnine had been employed to kill her.

Sir Charles then gave many details of Neill's visit to America, and his friendship, on his return to London, with Haynes, who acted as a spy on Neill's actions. Neill told Haynes that the son of Dr. Harper had poisoned Louisa Harvey, who was alive and would give evidence against the pris-

The first witness examined was Edward The first witness examined was Edward Levi, who identified Neill as a physician he had known in Chicago. Elizabeth Masters testified that she is a married woman separated from her husband. On a Tuesday night at the beginning of October last year, she remembered a gentleman speaking to her at Ludgate Hill. She went into the King Lud public house with him, and from there to the Orient buildings. She recogni here to the Orient buildings. She recognized the prisoner as the man.

He Ought to Be Well Identified. She then went to Gattis' Music Hall, and while there saw a friend of hers, Elizabeth May. The prisoner wore a flat top feit hat, and had on a waterproof. While at Gattis' he told her he was a student at St. Thomas' Hospital, and that he had come from abroad. He showed her two photographs, one of which he said was of his brother and the other of his mother. He took off his hat to show her that he was like the photo-graph. She looked at him and noticed that he was cross-eyed and bald. He told her that he was staying at a hotel in Fleet

After the performance was over the witness, the prisoner and May left the music hall together and rode to Ludgate Circus. Neill said he would write to her in a few days when he was settled, and took down her address. He said he was going to leave the hotel and take some rooms.

On the following Friday she received a letter from him. She showed the letter to Elizabeth May. She kept it for some time and then destroyed it. She was carrying a basket and was walking toward Lambeth road. She knew the girl by sight, having often seen her pass the house. She saw the girl look back and smile at the prisoner. A photo-graph of Matilda Glover was here shown to the witness and she identified it as a picture of the girl she saw the prisoner follow-

The witness said she and May went down the street to see what Neill did, and they followed him and the girl. She saw the girl go to 27 Lambeth road. She stood at the door with the handle in her hand and waited for the prisoner, who went up to the door and went in with her. May waited for about half an hour to see if he came out. He did not, however, and they went away. She did not again see the prisoner, but her friend May spoke to her about him.

The steam-ship struck on a sand island of the group known as the Pesdadores, or Fishers' islands, called Pheng-Hoo by the Chinese, in the channel of Fokien in the Chineses. The weather was terrible, and the raging waters quenched the fires on the steamer. The steamer became unmanageable and sank and the commander and a majority of the officers and crew were lost. EIGHT THIEVES DONE FOR.

All Killed in a Desperate Battle and Their Dead Bodies Strung Up. Boies, Idano, Oct. 17. -Particulars of a bloody battle, which occurred near Deer Flat, in the northern part of this State, were received here last night from a courier. A gang of eight horse thieves was wiped off the earth. The outlaws had stolen horses which they had run into British Columbia and thence into the eastern provinces of Canada or into the Atlantic States.

A posse of officers surprised the thieves at dinner at a spring near the head of a narrow basin. Finding themselves surrounded, the thieves shot five or six of the tolen horses, and, intrenched between the breastworks of quivering flesh, made a stubborn resistance. The bullets of the posse soon ended the existence of the saddle animals of the rustlers and wour some of the thieves. After an hour's bat-tle and no fatalities, save to the horses, the posse held a consultation, after which a majority of the pursuers ranged themselves in a long line about half a mile to the leeward of the thieves. Then the few men left on the windward side set the prairie grass afire. The rustlers dropped everything except their rifles and ran toward a ravine, but were shet down betore they had gone 1,000 vards. The prairie fire did not destroy the wounded rustlers left at the springs, though it singed off their hair, beards and eyebrows and burned their faces and hands. They, together with the bodies of their five dead companions, were strung to the limbs of a tree.

CONSPIRACY IS CHARGED.

The Officers Who Kidnaped Editor Roynianek to Be Arrested To-Day.

Peter V. Rovnianek, the editor of the Salvonic paper, who last Thursday was kidnaped and taken to Wilkesbarre, arrived home yesterday. He immediately met his attorneys, A. and W. A. Blakely and A brief report from the committee on through them made information against Detective P. J. Murphy, Constable D. J. Gallagher and Rev. Joseph Kossalke, charging them with conspiracy. The information was made before Alderman McKelvey, of Allegheny, and the men will be arrested to-day.

The information sets forth about the same statements of facts as were published in THE DISPATCH last Friday. It says that Detective Murphy left the train soon after leaving Pittsburg. From there until Wilkesbarre was reached Constable Gallagher carried out the purpose and plan of the conspiracy. The conspiracy is claimed to have been formed and entered into within one month preceding its execution.

Mr. Rovnianek secured bail as soon as he got to Wilkesbarre, it having been arranged for by wire while he was en route. He then went on to New York on business and returned to Pittsburg yesterday. He says that he can easily prove that there was a conspiracy formed between Father Kossalke and the two officers. The priest wanted to get him in Wilkesbarre and put him in jail.

Thompson, it was charged, went into Porter's restaurant on Liberty street and had a quarrel with Thomas Ranson, the porter in the place. He tried to shoot Ranson, but his revolver was taken from him and he was ejected from the place. A half hour later he re-turned with another revolver and a box of cartridges. He started for Ranson, but had only fired one shot when he was seized and disarmed and turned over to the police. His one shot did no damage.

Rev. Dr. Henry W. Nelson, of Western New York, presented a voluminous report on the Hymnal. Dr. Nelson presented a resolution that the present Hymnal be used until the next General Convention in addition to the revised one, which omits a number of hymns, restores others and makes one change in wording. An animated dis-cussion ensued. Rev. Mr. Davis, of Mis-souri, offered a resolution that the pro-posed Hymnal be permitted for use until the next General Convention.

While the discussion was at its height, Secretary Tatlock appeared from the House of Bishops with message No. 47. This message stated that the Upper House had passed a resolution adopting the report of the Joint Commission of the Hymnal, with these changes: Omit hemps 92 part 2 208 the Joint Commission of the Hymnal, with these changes: Omit hymns 93, part 2, 208 and 632; restore hymns 248, 398, 318, 504; to add a doxology to hymn 136, and to prefix the first verse of hymn 314 to hymn 630. These changes were greeted with cries of "Good," one of the hymns restored being the old favorite, "How Firm a Founda-tion".

Mr. Foster, of Pittsburg, said the hymnal is not yet perfect. The Bishops had made changes in the report and others should be made, and would be, if the house took time for consideration. Motions and resolutions were made in ex-tricable confusion. Mr. Biddle, of Pennsylvania, said there was no hurry to get through with the report. A motion to lay on the table was voted down, and a vote by dioceses on a motion to concur with the House of Bishops was carried.

The desire for sensation is a peculiarity of the age, but the sensation experienced by the individual who for the first time realizes from some of its symptoms that he has heart disease is not to be envied him. M. L. By untiring zeal, energy and perseverance we have been enabled to keep our word, and with the rising of another sun the thousands of citizens of these two great cities will be cordially welcomed to our gigantic establishment. A memorable event indeed will be the swinging open of the doors of this massive business block, as it means the dawn of another era in the retail clothing trade of Western Pennsylvania. We fearlessly and justly proclaim that nowhere in this city will purchasers find a more desirable house for shopping, whether in the quality or price of merchandise, or in the courteous treatment by the employes.

Old-fashioned methods of conducting business, old ideas and old prices will be completely routed. Only the latest and most approved ideas will find an abiding place here. Bear in mind that not a single garment in our spacious establishment is of a season or several seasons' age. In purchasing of us you have the assurance of receiving a brand new article fresh and fair

We are now busily engaged in the vast preparations incident to the Grand Reception and Dedication which will take place within the next two weeks. Due notice of date and day will be given in our advertising columns.
