

ARMY VETS FOR CLEVELAND.

Hill, Flower and Other Big Chiefs Say the Tiger Is in Line.

THE SAME OLD STORIES

About Protection Being a Delusion and a Snare.

Grover's Name was Mentioned and Howled At—The Force Bill Cry Gets a Boost—Overload Meetings at Several Points—120 Speakers Proached the Democratic Gospel to the Throng in Four Languages—Sickles Now Pointing With Pride to Cleveland's Pension Veto—A Great Night for the Democracy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Tammany has rallied. With the glow and flash of red fire in the tranquil sky, with the roar and shock of many cheering throngs, with the acclaim of thousands of loyal braves the Democratic society made known to-night that it was loyal to the Democratic nominees. While yet the walls of Big Tammany Hall shook and rocked and swayed to the welcome of Senator Hill, and while yet the throng about the 12 open air overflow stands filled up the streets and paralyzed traffic for blocks around, Tammany leaders declared that it was the most gigantic mass meeting that the metropolis of America had ever seen.

When the doors were thrown open at 7 o'clock the throng that had stood clamoring for two hours at the entrance rushed into the hall with cheers of enthusiasm. In a few minutes the building was packed, yet it seemed that there was but a slight diminution in the crowd outside. Then came a wait of an hour. The interval was filled in by the band playing the national airs of America, France, Germany and Italy, the crowd repeatedly breaking out in cheers and calling for Cleveland and Stevenson, Hill, Flower and Gilroy.

The Hostlers Warmly Welcomed. National Chairman Harrity, accompanied by National Committeemen Don M. Dickinson and B. B. Smalley, and many other prominent Democrats, came into the hall and went into a box reserved for them. The applause that greeted them had scarcely died away when a hurricane of cheers went forth as a welcome to the speakers of the evening, who came upon the stage escorted by the leaders of Tammany Hall. When quiet was restored State Senator George F. Roosevelt, in a short speech, introduced Governor Roswell P. Flower as Chairman. Mr. Flower attempted several times to speak, but his words were drowned by the crowd, who cheered him again and again. He finally secured order, and after a few informal remarks, in which he spoke of the sympathy the political opponents of President Harrison had shown in his bereavement, the Governor said that the Democrats were working for Democratic victory, because they believed that would bring their government and a better living for the masses. The action of the Chicago Convention had not hid from them that it had actually hidden them to prove their unswerving and they were going to do it, though the Democracy of the Empire state, through its regularly constituted delegation, declared in favor of another candidate, but the majority of the country had not so decided. He had loyally submitted to the wisdom of that majority, and throughout the entire country no party machinery was doing greater work for Democratic success in this campaign than the Democratic organization of the State of New York. No local political organization anywhere was doing more for the Democratic cause than the Tammany organization. He then went into a discussion of the issues from his point of view, and was frequently cheered, especially whenever he mentioned Cleveland's name.

Following Mr. Flower's speech came the reading by Secretary McGoldrick of the list of Vice Presidents and Secretaries, and then the unanimous adoption of resolutions, which, after endorsing Cleveland and Stevenson and condemning the force bill, say:

To our brethren throughout the country we pledge such decisive majority in this city for the Democratic candidate as will secure the electoral vote of this State for Cleveland and Stevenson, and the promotion of peace and good will among the sections, and for the commercial emancipation of the industrial masses of this country from the restrictions and onerous burdens imposed upon them by Republican class legislation.

Governor Flower next introduced Senator David R. Hill. At the meeting of the ex-Governor's name there was another great outburst of cheers. The name of "Hill," "Hill," was shouted time after time. It spread to the street and was taken up by the multitude and only died away when the people became exhausted. The Senator awaited patiently for the restoration of order and then began his speech. He said:

This occasion is the first time I have had the honor of addressing the Democracy of New York in this ancient and honored temple of Democracy. I am not unmindful of the fact that the Democracy of Tammany Hall were among my staunchest supporters during all that period from the memorable election of 1852, through the great contest of 1858, and to the last occasion when the Democracy of the Empire State honored me with their confidence at Albany and Chicago. To-day the great reliance of intelligent political observers for the success of our national candidates in this State, upon the immense majority which is expected to be rolled up in the city under the auspices of the magnificent organization of Tammany Hall, which in recent years has known no such word as defeat, and to which eyes are now turned, and upon which our eyes are now centered.

Hill Singing the Same Old Song. Mr. Hill then turned his attention to the tariff, and made an exhaustive argument against the constitutionality of Republican protection. He continued:

I suggest to our opponents that their bill would declare upon its face something like this: "Whereas, No more revenue than is ready provided for, is now needed for the support of the Government, but it is desirable that certain public industries of the country should be encouraged and protected, public expense, therefore, under the tax-giving power vested in Congress, the following duties are hereby imposed for the purpose of affording the encouragement and protection desired." Such a recital would fairly give the precise question at issue between two parties, and its determination would see one or the other of them in the wrong. Mr. Hill contended that the Chicago platform did not advocate free trade. He denounced Republican protection as a fraud on the benefit of the few, and said: "It will be observed that it is Republican protection that is thus denounced—not the mild protection of our early history to infant industries when the excuse for it was more feasible." He also denounced the force bill, and concluded with a strong appeal for votes for the ticket.

When Hill was Cheered Loudest. Senator Hill was applauded throughout. He mentioned the names of Cleveland and Stevenson the cheering was deafening. Lieutenant Governor E. E. Talliaferro, General E. T. Talliaferro, ferro, of Alabama, was the next speaker. He devoted his remarks to the force bill. General Daniel E. Sickles called upon the veterans to read Mr. Cleveland's letter of acceptance and to fix their eyes upon the paragraph which relates to their interests and to their expressions. Congressman Amos J. Cummings spoke of the hopes of the Democracy, and said that he could see in the prospects only brightness and assured success. While the great indoor meeting was in progress speeches were being made from eight stands which had been erected along Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, from Broadway to Third avenue. One hundred and twenty speakers had been divided among these different stands. They included all the New York Democratic Congressmen and candidates for Congress, prominent Democrats from other States and local orators. Speeches were made in German, French and Italian.

M'KINLEY IN MISSOURI.

He Talks in Many Towns and Has an Oration at St. Louis.

St. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 25.—The rapid transit tour of Missouri by Governor McKinley, of Ohio, began yesterday and ended at St. Louis to-night. Mr. McKinley spoke at Warrensburg, Savate, Sedalia, California, Verona City, Chambers, Herman, Washington and Pacific Mo., at all of which places large crowds were assembled. His special train arrived in St. Louis early in the evening, and at 8 o'clock the Governor addressed fully 6,000 people in the Music Hall. He spoke for nearly two hours, devoting most of the time to a discussion of the tariff from his world-known standpoint. He made some allusions to the State bank matter and other minor issues, closing his address, which had been most liberally punctuated with applause, with the words of a triumphant election of Harrison and Reid.

FIXING THE TICKETS.

The Twenty-Fourth District Complication the Cause of Trouble.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 25.—Ernest Acheson, the candidate for Congress in the Twenty-fourth district, who has been compelled to show cause why his name should not be taken off the official certificate and that of Campbell Jones placed upon it, was in the city to-day preparing his answer to Secretary Harrity's petition. It is alleged that in behalf of the certificate of nomination filed by Jones with the State Department is invalid because he was not the choice of the district, but merely of Greene county, and that Acheson is the regular candidate of the district conference. The matter is returnable Thursday. The second nomination papers filed by Jones, in which he appeared under the head "Return Republican," have been declared invalid. Ex-Representative John E. Cox, another Republican, will appear on the ballot for the same office under the head "by nomination papers."

A BIG BALLOT MIX.

South Dakota's Vote Liable to Be Badly Muddled by the Delays.

PITTSBURG, S. D., Oct. 25.—The chances are that South Dakota will be unable to clear up the muddle about ballots printed according to the new law. To-day the Secretary of State accepted the resignation of Wood, one of the Democratic nominees for Congress. Half of the ballots were already printed and will now have to be reprinted. The law requires that the ballots shall be in the hands of the Auditor at least ten days before election. Even now the new ballots could be printed in that time, but the prohibitionists yesterday applied to the court to compel the Secretary of State to add to the official ballot. The case will be heard Thursday and, if they win, the names will have to be printed on the tickets. But it will be a physical impossibility to have the ballots printed in the time allowed by law.

RECLAIMING THE DESERTERS.

A Personal Canvass of Factories and Potteries Brings the Men in Line.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Oct. 25.—(Special.)—Thomas B. Morgan, of Alliance, Republican candidate for Congress in this district, was in the city to-day, leaving in time to attend the Republican meeting at Columbus where Judge Tenny, of New York, speaks. While here Mr. Morgan made a personal canvass of all the potteries and other manufacturing, and he stated to-night that he had reclaimed everyone of the Republican deserters. Republican campaign managers in this district promise a local political sensation, in the way of an exposure of a bogus trades union endorsement of Dr. Kirk, Mr. Morgan's opponent, which alleged fraud has been exposed by the hearing effect against the Republican nominee.

BLAMES THE POSTOFFICE.

The Cause of the Delay in Distributing the Lists of Nominations.

HARRISBURG, PA., Oct. 25.—If any delay occurred in the report of the official lists of nominations from the State Department to add to the official ballot. The case here, the packages having been deposited in the office Saturday afternoon in the registry division. They were not sent out until Monday. Postmaster Black says they were sent in the regular order of business.

ISSUED BEER CHECKS.

Five Southsiders Arrested for Selling Liquor Illegally at a Ball.

Richard Fisher, Henry Wege, Louis Beller, Lonek Glook, and Jacob Beller, all of the Southside, were arrested last evening for selling liquor illegally and given a hearing before Judge Succop. They were held for court in $500 bail. The charge was based on the selling of liquor on Monday night during a ball in the new Turner Hall. An admission fee of $1 was charged and ten tickets were given in return, each of which entitled the bearer to a drink at the bar. Inspector Kelly hearing of the practice made information against the parties and had them arrested. The suit will be in the nature of a test case, as the defendants claim they issued the tickets, but only in order to keep track of the guests.

SOUTHSIDE REPUBLICANS.

Hold a Large and Enthusiastic Meeting in Turner Hall.

The Republicans of the Southside held a well attended meeting in the Jane Street Turner Hall last night. As a result of a special effort on the part of Alderman McGarvey, nearly 50 women were in the audience. The A. E. McCandless quartet furnished the music. The Conkling Club attended in a body. James E. Flinn called the meeting to order and E. E. Cotton, Esq., was elected permanent chairman. William Bradley was made secretary, and about 100 vice presidents were announced. Mr. Cotton made a brief address on taking the chair. Hon. Henry Hall made the speech of the evening. F. T. Gilbert was the last speaker.

Held for Horse Stealing.

R. W. Lawson, a colored man, is in the Fourteenth ward station awaiting a hearing before Magistrate Hyndman on a charge of horse stealing. It is alleged that the prisoner stole a horse and a set of harness from a man named Beck who lives at Brantson street and was alleged to have stolen a horse from a colored man named Dawson, who lives on Gazzam's hill. It is thought several other informations will be lodged against the prisoner.

DOIED OUT IN LITTLE BUCKETFULS

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) GREENSBURG, Oct. 25.—The drought and its consequences, heretofore commented on as rather a ludicrous than a serious experience, has at last assumed an alarming phase here. During this week, unless rain falls before the day when the thing will have to be done, the city water supply is to be cut off and the people will have to depend upon their own resources. It is officially stated to-day that what little water is still available will be cut off tomorrow or the next day, in order that the city may not be entirely without means to fight fire.

A Baltimore and Ohio Railroad official is authority for the statement that more than half the engines using the water from the Youghiogheny river are unfit to run, and the destruction of locomotive stock from this source alone during the past summer and fall has been tremendously expensive to the Baltimore and Ohio Company. Engineers allege that the foulness of the river water was the direct cause of the recent explosion at the McKeesport water works. Causing a Coal Famine in Cincinnati. The coal famine in Cincinnati is rapidly becoming most embarrassing. Indeed a famine is not far distant under present conditions. Both the retailer and wholesaler realize this, and are seeking to profit by it, but on different lines. Mine owners are also interested in advancing the price, and the fact is that the supply is running alarmingly short. The exact amount on hand in the yards and elevators and on barges cannot be accurately stated, as wholesaler and retailer desire to keep each other ignorant of their store; but it is confidently asserted that unless a sudden and continued rise comes in the river coal will retail in this market at $5 per ton. It will be $3.50 by the end of the week, and very soon thereafter Cincinnati dealers will be compelled to push the railroad facilities to their limit. To-day a severe cold wave struck the city, and fires are a necessity to secure comfort. This caused a demand that taxed every dealer in the city, but partially owing to the already limited supply on hand, manufacturers are already economizing to the greatest possible extent, and placing hurry orders with railroads.

Philadelphia Getting Scarce.

The water in the Schuylkill river, from which stream the Philadelphia water supply is obtained, is so low that the Director of the Department of Public Works is seriously considering the advisability of issuing a circular cautioning housekeepers and others to be economical in their use of the precious fluid. Unless some such action is taken there is great danger of a water famine.

Boiling Out Water by the Bucket.

Of the Mahoney Valley towns, Mahoney City, Shenandoah, Girardville and Ashland are only given from one to two hours' supply daily, while at the same time the towns and mining patches water is doled out by the bucketful only once in two or three days.

The electric light plants and the steam-heating establishments throughout the region have been compelled to either shut down altogether or manage to get along at great disadvantage. The Reading Railroad Company has not been inconvenienced much until within the last few days, but the big Mahoney planes were compelled to shut down for want of water. A number of the smaller collieries have been rendered idle, while the larger operations are kept going with water hauled by railroad from mountain streams near Shamokin, 20 miles away. If it were not for this supply, and the fact that some of the collieries' acid mine water is used after a chemical receding, the collieries of this region would be entirely idle.

Miners Obligated to Suspend.

A dispatch from Hazleton says: The prolonged dry spell is causing much distress in this region, and unless there is a bounteous downpour of rain soon, thousands of men will be out of employment. Already a number of mines have suspended. Operators of the Hazleton mines have announced their intention of suspending rather than haul water by rail, and will probably shut down to-morrow.

Residents of the elevated part of the city have been on a limited allowance of water for several days, and to-day the drought is the most severe felt in the center of the city. Many collieries are being operated with water delivered by rail, but this is expensive and by some operators deemed impracticable. The earth is parched and everything dried up. Mountain fires are raging on every side. Men are fighting the flames, but a copious rainfall would save hundreds of acres of timber land.

Waylaid at Midnight.

Joseph McCloskey, of Arch street, Pittsburgh, a helper on the rolls at Carnegie's Thirty-third street mill, was returning to his home Monday night by way of the Twenty-eighth street bridge and Jones avenue, when two men sprang from concealment and came running toward him, yelling at him to stop. Instead of stopping he turned and ran down the bridge again when they fired two shots at him. Officer Wilkey was notified at Twenty-eighth street and Jones avenue. Upon going to the place he could find no one. McCloskey does not know the men, nor what their object was.

NEW KINKS IN WAR.

Military Telegraph, Free and Captive Balloons, the Hellograph and Whistle Signals—What General Greely Has to Say of All These—Interesting Tests.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—General A. W. Greely, Chief Signal Officer, in his annual report to the Secretary of War, dwells at length upon the value to the country of the 900 miles of military telegraph lines which have been successfully maintained in operation during the year by the Signal Corps. As an instance he cites the use of the Ft. McKinney during the cattle war in Wyoming, and of the line between Forts Brown and Ringgold, Texas, during the Garza troubles. This latter line it is proposed to extend from Ft. Ringgold to Pecos, on the Mexican National Railway.

FACE ALMOST RAW.

Eruption From Birth. Doctor and Simple Remedies Failed. Cured in 3 Weeks by Cuticura.

I wish to thank you for the good that CUTICURA has done my child. I send portrait. A short time after its birth its face broke out with some kind of eruption. I consulted our family doctor about it, and he told me there was not much to be done. He tried some simple remedies, and they all failed to do any good. I then tried CUTICURA. My wife used CUTICURA REMEDIES about four times a day. At the time we first commenced to use CUTICURA, the face was almost raw. It looked the same as a burn would look if the skin was peeled off, and after about three weeks CUTICURA REMEDIES it was cured. I did not think CUTICURA would amount to much, but the result has changed my mind. I will never be without them. W. A. BANG, 174 William St., Newark, N. J.

SEWICKLEY'S BAD WATER.

Burgess Anderson Says It Is Unfit for Domestic Use.

Sewickley is not suffering from a scarcity of water, but rather from the quality of the kind they have. Burgess G. H. Anderson in speaking of it, yesterday afternoon said: "We are not afraid of a water famine, but we do need a better supply of the liquid. The stuff is really unfit for domestic use. It will probably be remedied soon. Just now the borough is paving the town and putting in a new sewer system. This is costing considerable and when it is done the water problem will be tackled."

Killed by an Explosion of Metal.

David Hart, a puddler employed at the mills of the United States Iron Company, at Hay's station, on the Pittsburgh, Virginia and Charleston Railway, met with a horrible death last evening while at work. While in the act of drawing a ball of hot iron out of his furnace the molten metal exploded and tore and burnt his body in a dozen places. He died almost at once. His home was on South Twelfth street, where his body was brought, and an inquest will be held to-day.
