The Ex-Senator Delivers a Speech in Brooklyn to Five Thousand,

ALL EAGER TO HEAR HIM.

A Most Enthusiastic Rally for the Republican Ticket.

DEMOCRATIC POLICIES ATTACKED

And Those of the Grand Old Party Upheld as They Stand.

SOME OTHER MEETINGS AND SPEAKERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.-The big Republican meeting at Brooklyn at the Clermont avenue rink, to-night, was a most enthusiastic rally for the Republican National ticket. Five thousand people attended the demonstration and cheered and applauded the atterances of Hon. William M. Evarts and the other speakers. Upon being introduced to the audience Mr. Evarts said:

"Two surprises occurred at the Democratic Convention at Chicago, one in relation to its candidates and the other in relation to its party. When the Democratic party met in convention it said in substance: Now, what can we do? Carry New York as far as the candidacy is concerned, for without New York we cannot carry the country, and with New York we may be able to carry it. Then they asked the delegation of 2 members from New York who the candidate; was, 'Our candidate is David B. Hili, was the answer. 'Well,' the convention replied, 'it is very kind of you to give us your opinion, but he won't receive the support of the country. We want you to nominate ex-President Cleveland. We think the rest of the country will support him. What will your State do about him?" and with one voice the New York members replied: 'We won't vote for him?'

The Question of Constitutionality. "The convention resolved itself, as far as I can understand, into a constitutional convention, and proceeded to make over again the Constitution of the United States. They went to work with the currency banking system, and they pronounced the sys-tem all wrong by which our money is safe and sound, and so universally that one carries what money he has in the shape of hills in his pocket or keeps it in his desk lithout knowing or earing to know what bank anyone of these bills is from. [Cheers.] This constitutional convention decided that it is unconstitutional to have good money for the whole country, but constitutional to have had money in every State of it." At the conclusion of Mr. Evarts' speech the following resolution was adopted by a

Resolved, That the Republicans and citizens of Brooklyn, here assembled, desire to express to Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States, their profound sympathy and condolence in his recent affliction and

Ex-Governor John S. Wise, of Virginia, was then introduced. Mr. Wise paid a glowing tribute to the administration of President Harrison. Under President Har-rison's administration, he said, there was more employment for workingmen and wages had increased. The country was presperous and the number of business failhad decreased. Therefore, the people will show by their votes on election day that they do not want any Democrat wildcat money. In 1884 Mr. Cleveland's atti-tude was altogether different to what it was to-day. Now he had taken Tammany Hall

Where the Workingmen Are.

"Where are the workingmen?" continued the speaker, "who cry out against the bur-dens of this protective tariff? No you don't hear them, but if you want to find out where the shoe pinches, read the English journals. England only gave up protec-tion when she became so rich that she thought she could compete with the nations of the world. If you want to bear Mr. Cleveland and the Democratic free trade party lauded to the skies, read the English ers. Why, we are at this moment on the verge of a prosperity we never dreamed of, and yet the Democratic party wants us to give up a certainty and try an oft-dis-credited experiment." Speaking of the force bill, Governor Wise said that the men who are crying out loudest against that measure are men who have been making force bills themselves during the past 20 years, by stuffing the ballot boxes and corrupting elections in the South. Cooper Union, this city, was crowded to the doors to-night with an audience that applauded wildly at every mention of the names of President Harrison and Governor McKindey. C. E. Chittenden, ex-Register of the Treasury, presided. Other speakers were Edward T. Bartlett and Ben Butter-

WAYNE M'VEAGH FURTHER AWAY From the Party That Has in the Past S

greeted Wayne MacVeagh at the Democratic rally in Tremont Temple this evening. He spoke in part as follows: GENTLEMEN-As a Pennsylvanian I tell you you ought to think yourselves fortunate in the character of your splendid standard bearers. The Republican party to-day is defending an agglomeration of outrages upon the American people, no outrages upon the American people, no single one of which any intelligent man would undertake to delend, so that the tariff resolves itself into a moral question—not whether the whole mass of the people would be benefited by such a measure as the McKinley bill, for nobody really believes that, but whether it is a good form of government to tax the great mass of the people in order to give the taxes thus raised to a cheric of invortic capitalists. Before they could reach the McKinley bill they had to sirke down a great safeguard of good government in altering the rules of the House of Representatives, and when the door was opened and the McKinley bill passed, it was impossible to shut it, and so you came to have that grotesque legislation on the silver question.

Immense Registration at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 29 .- This was the last day for registration of voters. The final figures are not yet in, but it is clear that the registration will exceed 70,000. The larges registration hitherto made was something over (6,000. In Covington and Newport the registration is also very full, all indicating a heavy vote at the coming election

Political Tips From All Around. Tur Republicans of Kittaning had a great rally last evening. WHITELAW REID spoke at Jersey City, N. J., last evening to an enthusiastic audience on local and national issues.

SENATOR SHERMAN spoke at Columbian O., last evening in the interests of T. R. Morgan's Congressional canvass. FIFTEEN THOUSAND Republicans attended a mily at Portland, Ind., yesterday. Patrick O'Donnell and General Fishback were the orators.

THE four days' registration of Detroit ended last night. Although all the boards have not made their returns, it is estimated that the registration is 10,000 in excess of four years ago, or more than 50,000. W. BOURKE COCKRAN addressed a rousing Democratic rally at New Haven, Ct., last night. The force bill and the reciprocity feature of the McKinley bill be denounced on the ground that both were unconstitu-tional.

DEMOCRATIC newspapers are circulating a report, for which they claim "good authority," that General James Lonestreet, of Virginia, will vote for Cleveland, giving the force bill issue as his reason. He accepted office under Graut. Office under Grant.

Chaunery M. Derew spoke to about $,000 people at Finshing, N. Y., last night. He talked about two hours, most of the time being given to Grover Cleveland and his message. He admires Cleveland's courage,

THE Democracy of Huntingdon and Charles red yesterday. Hon, Adlai E. Stevenson was the chief speaker. The muster of Democrats was the largest and most en-thusiastic ever held at both places.

SECRETARY FOSTER WIll leave Washington o-morrow afternoon to speak at the rollowlowing places: Martinsburg, W. Va., November I; Bellaire, O., November 2: Steubenville, O., November 3: Salem, O., November 4; Bowling Green, O., November 5, and Fostoria, O., November 7.

Two or three slight errors have been disvered in the official certificates sent out from the State Department at Harrisburg. They were corrected yesterday by amended certificates. In the ballot for the Third Congressional district, Philadelphia, the name "Independent-Citizens' party" was omitted from McAleer's name, under the head "by nominations papers." The Philadelphia Commissioners were wired to make the correction.

ILL STARRED ROUMANIA.

Death Comes to Her Passengers at Night in a Dense Fog and Surprises Them in Their Berths - Several Nude Bodies Washed Ashore.

LISBON, Oct. 29.-The place where the Anchor line steamship Roumania was lost was a little north of Cape Carvonaire, almost the extreme westerly point of Portugal. The steamer struck in front of a tiny sea const village called Gronho, which lies between Peniche and Fez d'Arello. The scene of the wreck is desolation itself. Beyond a few huts occupied by miserably poor fishermen there is not a sign of human life in the vicinity. Instead of being well off shore, as was supposed, the vessel was off her course and headed directly for the Heavy fog prevailed at the time she struck. A heavy sea is still running about the wreck. Seven bodies in a nearly nude condition have been washed ashore, and the fact that they were unclothed is taken to indicate that many of the people on board were in their berths when the steamer struck, and had no chance to save themselves.

The bodies of several children have also been recovered. It has been learned here had are Mrs. Beatty, an that among the dead are Mrs. Beatty, an Irish missionary who was returning to her husband, and Miss McGeorge, a medical missionary of the Irish Presbyterian Church. The currents around the land of Car vonaire are very treacherous and many of the dead will be carried long distances from the scene of the wreck. When the first news of the wreck reached Peniche, a party of seafaring men started for the range of sand hills in the face of a blinding rain and a wind that was blowing with terrific tury. The spray from the sea was blowing far inland, and wherever it struck their exposed skin it stung like nettles. The journey was a long and tollsome one, but the brave-hearted tollers of the sea surmounted all difficulties and finally reached Gronno, where on the bleak shore they found Captain Hamilton, who is an officer in the British Indian army, with six Lascars, part of 'the Roumania's

These men were all perfectly naked. They had been completely exhausted by their struggies to reach the shore, and they had fallen on the beach where they were, the in-coming waves throwing the water around them. Had they remained in this position, they would have died from exposure, or

KILLED BY A CAR.

William Anderson Meets Death Pleasant Valley Line.

William Anderson was struck by a street, Allegheny at 10:45 last night, and was instantly killed. Anderson in company with H. J. Braun was crossing Anderson street between Robinson street and River avenue, the two intending to enter a tailor shop where Braun wanted to pur-chase a suit of clothes. Car No. 120, a blue car on the Pleasant Valley line, was com-ing down the grade from the Ninth street bridge at a rapid rate and Anderson did not get out of its way in time.

The body was taken to Ebbert's undertaking rooms on Ohio street and the Coroner was notified. William Sigman, the motorman of the car, was arrested and taken to the lockup. Later, he was released on $1,000 bail, given by President Henry, of the company, to await the action of the Coroner's jury.

Anderson was 28 years of age and single, and lived at No. 75 River avenue. He was employed as a labor boss in Shoenberger's

TOWN WIPED OUT.

A Few Small Scattering Buildings All That Is Now Left of the VILLAGE OF CALLERY JUNCTION. The Loss is Only $16,000, but There Is

NEWS FROM SEVERAL NEARBY TOWNS

Very Small Insurance.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 BUTLER, Oct. 29 .- At 5 o'clock this morning fire broke out in Murray's restaurant at Callery Junction. High winds were blowing at the time, and almost before anything could be done to prevent the spread of the fire the buildings on both sides of the restaurant were ablaze. Then the fire spread rapidly in both directions. The buildings were all of wood, old and dry, and made a fierce fire.

Soon after it started away from the point where it began, the fire reached across the street and consumed the Pittsburg and Western railroad station. A stubborn fight was made to prevent the loss of the station, but as the only apparatus to fight fire was a line of old hose borrowed from the pump station of the National Transit Company, there was little accomplished; and to make matters worse, the water supply here, as elsewhere, was short. Seeing the uselessness of trying to stop the spread of the flames the people turned their attention to efforts to save some of their movable property. From all the buildings, except those first attacked, the household belongings were pretty generally saved. The railroad employes got all the freight out of the station and saved all but one car loaded with lumber. First reports of the losses were greatly exaggerated. A careful estimate this even-ing is that it will not exceed $16,000, but there is very little insurance. The buildings burned were as follows: Murray's billiard hall and restaurant, Van Voy's boarding house, the postoffice building, Hunt's Hotel, Hunt's block, Pittaburg and Western depot, two houses belonging to Jerry Harkless, James Little's store and restaurant, T. Kane's house and barn, H. & B. Goddard's house, and the residences of A. Beers and A. Footz. With the exception of a few straggling buildings at a dis-tance from the station, the little town is wiped out. The railroad tracks were ren-dered impassable, and trains were delayed until new rails could be laid.

When all the leaves of this stamp book have been filled, another can be obtained from the bank's authorized representative, or from the bank direct, upon application.

If preferred, the deposit of full leaves of stamps can be taken by the depositior to the bank in person. As soon as the stamp book is received, the name of the owner should be signed on the back of each lear, which will prevent its use if lost, by anyone else, so when signed with depositor's name, it will be used only for the credit thereby expressed.

will be used only for the credit thereby expressed.

The following leading druggists and other merchants have kindly consented to keep the savings bank stamps on sale in their places of business for the accommodation of the public and encouragement of saving. Great care has been exercised in selecting the most reliable, courteous, enterprising and best located druggists in each locality. These gentlemen are heartily recommended as deserving of patronage from their efforts to serve the public, not only by keeping the purest drugs and most reliable medicines, as well as a complete stock of general toilet articles and other goods usually sold in a drug store, but by having postage stamps, telephones, directories and other conveniences which their patrons may avail themselves of, and from which they make no profit and keep solely for accommodation.

They are particularly chosen by the doctors in their neighborhood to compound important prescriptions from the perfect knowledge of their business and accuracy. They are absolutely reliable, and worthy of public appreciation and patronage.
