

CERTAIN OF SUCCESS

Are Republican Leaders in Washington, Basing Their Belief ON A NUMBER OF CIRCUMSTANCES. They Count on Votes in the Electoral College From 100,000. IF THEY SHOULD BE FOUND NECESSARY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The "wave" of feeling is still tending with increased strength in favor of the Republicans to-day. There is no diminution of either their party or their letting fever. All the talk is for Harrison and Reid and the tariff, and no blud of the Democrats nor stories of the unpopularity of Reid nor of the secession of this man or that can affect their enthusiasm for a moment.

The increase of Republican confidence here is the best possible thermometer for the indication of the increase of it generally over the country, for it is effected wholly by the information received from every State of the country and from the most reliable and active sources.

One of the queer speculations that have crept out to-day, and which has excited the attention of everybody, is the possibility that though neither the Harrison nor the Cleveland electors may have a clear majority, the election may not be thrown into the House. This means, of course, that if both of the leading candidates fail of a majority the Weaver electors will throw their votes to Harrison rather than permit the election to go to the House of Representatives, with its congested Democratic majority, which would insure the election of Cleveland.

A Strong Sine of Confidence. It is strange that this has not cropped out before, as it has been one of the sources of confidence of the Republican leaders from the first, though they have naturally kept it in the background. While they are more than ever confident that the Republican electors will win hands down, they admit that there is a possibility they may receive a larger vote than the Cleveland electors and yet fall short of an election by unexpected success of the Third party in the West. But in case the balance of power shall be held by the Weaver electors, it is now broached apparently for the first time that it is much more likely Harrison would get them, or a majority of them, at the meeting of the Electoral college, than that Cleveland would.

As this matter has now been brought to the front it may be readily reasoned out that the whole drift of the Third party movement has been in favor of the Republicans, and the whole mind of the Third party leaders has been that of friendliness for the Republicans rather than the Democrats. This may seem strange as regards the Republican States of the West, where Third party people might be expected to favor the Democrats as against the majority, but it must be remembered that the inspiration of the movement has been from the South, and the West has been imbued with that spirit which led for its first impulse the overthrow of the "Solid South."

Third Party Leaders Keeping Mute. The leaders of the Third party knew that until that was accomplished the organization of a formidable third party in the whole country would be difficult, if not impossible. A fraction of the West could not hope to gain much by playing a lone hand. The Eastern and Middle-Northern States could not be moved except by a mighty impulse given from the South and West.

Naturally the South was the more important, as there was the greater discontent spread over the greater area. The bitterness of the Third party people of the South has been turned wholly against the Democrats, as there was really nothing else to fight, and the fellow feeling of the Third party people of the West is that they must do all that lies in their power to prevent the Democrats from gaining any access of power that would retard or destroy the movement to hasten the day when the whole Union should be united in the hope of the Third party dependents.

Republicans Favored as Against Democrats. Over and over again Third party leaders have admitted to the correspondent of THE DISPATCH that as between the Republican and the Democratic parties they would prefer the success of the former, for the reason given above. It is therefore not only possible if the candidates of the old parties fail of an election, and the Third party electors hold the balance of power, that when the meeting of the Electoral College occurs the votes of that party will go in a body to the Republican electors. Another reason why they should do so is the treatment of the people's party candidates by the Democrats of the South. The electoral votes of that party would not be likely to be given to the candidates of the men who pelted them with aged eggs and decayed cabbage unless they are made of unusually queer stuff.

But this is a consideration of vastly less importance than that which is referred to previously. It is a knowledge of this feeling, and with this understanding, that the great fight was undertaken in Alabama, and which, if it result in the election of the Kolb ticket, will certainly take Alabama out of the list of sure Democratic States.

SHOT FOR A TURKEY.

A Hunter's Sad Death While Deceyng Game in the Mountains.

UNIONTOWNS, PA., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—While hunting in the mountains this afternoon George Gates, of Fairchance, was shot and instantly killed. Gates secreted himself in a brush pile and began calling like a turkey, a common decoy trick among hunters.

A man named Dills, who was also out shooting, heard the supposed turkey call and carefully stalked the cover from whence it came. He approached to within a few rods of the heap of brush, and, locating the sound as accurately as possible, fired a load of buckshot into the brush. Several of the shot penetrated Gates' neck and killed him where he lay. The dead man was a well-known contractor.

THE COOLEY REWARD IN DEMAND.

Sheriff McCormick and All His Deputies Put in a Claim for It.

UNIONTOWNS, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—There is a dispute here as to who is entitled to the $1,000 reward offered for the notorious Frank Cooley. The reward was offered conjointly by the County Commissioners, the Georges township school directors and Georges township citizens. At a recent meeting of this school board to settle the matter five persons put in a claim for a share in the reward. The claimants are Sheriff McCormick, Walter W. Laghead, William Hilling, Frank Smith and Albert Johnson. Sheriff McCormick modestly claims that he is entitled to all the rewards, as the other claimants were simply in his employ, but, the latter protest most emphatically against this proposed settlement of the case. The school directors didn't want to settle the contention of hand, so they adjourned without doing anything. The County Commissioners will meet in a few days to decide who shall have the reward they offered.

Both Had Eczema

In Its Worst Form

After Physicians Failed, Hood's Sarsaparilla Perfectly Cured.

Great mental agony is endured by parents who see their children suffering from diseases caused by impure blood, and for which there seems no cure. This is turned to joy when Hood's Sarsaparilla is resorted to, for it expels the foul humors from the blood, and restores the diseased skin to fresh, healthy brightness. Read the following from grateful parents: "To C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: "We think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most valuable medicine on the market for blood and skin diseases. Our two children suffered terribly from Eczema."
