BAD SHIN BONE SORE

Grew Worse Under Many Doctors and Many Remedies. Entirely Cured by Cuticura.

In September, 1887, I had a sore come on my shin bone, just above the ankle. It began to pain me so much that I thought best to consult a doctor. He said it was a bad looking sore, and it might be a month or two before it got well. I thought I could not endure it that length of time. I tried his remedies, and the sore kept growing worse. Then I tried another doctor, and received no help. Then another, who was sure he could help me, but still the sore kept growing worse, kept growing larger all the time. I had another doctor examine it. He thought that perhaps the bone was affected, and I had better go up to Albany. I had a good surgeon examine it, and he said the bone was not affected, and that it could be cured, but I had to sit with my foot elevated. A surgeon doctor, from the city of New York, stopping at our house, said the same thing. In September, 1859, I was about my work as usual, I went to put on something to case the pain. a stream of blood poured out. Got a doctor as soon as possible. It was thirteen weeks and two days before I went out of the house again. A gentleman boarding with us wrote you for your book. His wife had told me what a wonderful remedy CUTICURA was, and what it had done for her little girl. I said to the lady. 'I have a mind to try CUTICURA.' She said. 'I have some with me I will give you.'' I commenced at once, and it was the first olntment that I ever put on that agreed with the sore. Then I felt encouraged, for I had used so many different kinds and received no good. Then I got the CUTICURA CUTICURA SOAP and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, and the sore is entirely healed, and has been for the eight or nine months. I say CUTICURA cured me. I shall ever speak in highest terms of it, as I think and know that it did me agreat deal of good. Wish more people would try it.

FIGURES THAT TALK,

New York Republicans Make Out a Majority for the Protection Ticket

IN REGISTRATION LISTS.

They Show the Losses Have Been in Democratic Districts.

THE GREAT FRAUDS ON THAT SIDE

Oregon Democrats Are Still Divided on the Fusion Question.

LOTS OF POLITICAL MEETINGS NOW

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.-The Republican National Committee gave out this afternoon an analysis of the registry lists of this city. After a careful review of the situation they have reached the conclusion that the Democratic vote will reach 170,000, or 58.5 per cent of the full vote, which is estimated at 291,000, and they will then have a plurality of 55,000, which is the most they can in any degree of reason expect.

The analysis of the registery lists of the City of New York says in part: "One of the most important facts is that the registration for 1892 below Fortleth street, or in that part of the town where the Democrats are specially strong, is 3,601 less than it was in 1888. Above Fortieth street the registration this year stands 149,363, against 122,274, an increase of 27,049, or 22.12 per cent. The entire increase in registration, therefore, is above Fortieth street.

Why the Republicans Are Confident. "Comparing the registration by Assembly districts as at present constituted with the total vote cast in 1891 in these districts, the fact appears that in the districts casting heavy Democratic majorities the increase of the registration over the vote cast is about 25 per cent, while the increase in districts giving a small Democratic or a Republican plurality is about 37 per cent.
"On the basis of the natural increase over the registration of 1888 there should now be, on the registry lists of this city, 342,000 names, but there are only 309,830, and the loss lies in the Democratic districts. In those districts, however, there has been an enormous amount of false and illegal regis-

At both headquarters the absorbing question of the hour is arithmetic. Fig-ures of all kinds are under discussion, and wres of all kinds are under discussion, and chiefly to-day, those of New York. At Democratic headquarters the managers have decided that the State will be carried for Cleveland by 20,000—this upon the theory that the Republican majority above the city will not exceed 85,000 and that Democrats will carry to the Westchester line a majority of 105,000.

The Necessity of a Full Vote.

These figures go upon the theory that a full vote will be polled and no effort spared to see that there are no laggards. Some interesting figuring is being done upon the question as to which party will suffer the most from the uninterested, and Democratic managers figure it that the Republicans will be the greatest losers in the country districts. In the 32 cities of the State the Albany Argus gives the total registration of 766,115 against 664,365 last year. The 30 cities outside of New York and Brooklyn show an increase ever last year of 30,000. Last year these 30 cities gave a net Democratic majority of 10,000. Four years ago the net Republican majority was 8,000.

Doesn't Look Much Like Anathy.

As an evidence of the so-called lack of enthusiasm, it was stated to-day at headquarters that during the present week in this State there will be over 3,700 Republican meetings held.

Regarding the general prosperity of the country, M. L. Davis, of Dansville, N. Y., said: "A very large part of the lands and village and city lots and building in everyone of the States have always been held under land contracts or under mortgage for purchase money, or for money hired to buy other lands or for money borrowed for business or speculation. I have been engaged in the land and I have been engaged in the land and loan business for over 30 years, and there has never been a time when a larger pet centage of the land, village and city prop-erty in the United States was so entirely tree and clear of any incumbrance as in this year of 1892. In no country on earth do so many of the people own the farms they live on and the houses they occupy."

Assisstant District Attorney Wellman had a long interview with Superintendent Byrnes in regard to registration frauda. It was understood that Mr. Wellman and Superintendent Byrnes were considering the evidence already obtained by the police as to the source from which the money to bribe "floaters" to register fraudulently comes. Washburn, of this city, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to Switzerland, has sent in United States to Switzerland, has sent in resignation to the President, dating his letter October 29. His reasons for resigning are of a business nature.

News reached Uniontown this evening that fierce forest fires are raging along the mountains from Ohio Pyle to Delaney's Cave, a distance of 20 miles, and at more than a dozen places on the mountain range fires have broken out within three miles of this place and are spreading rapidly. The Summit, the point at which the National Pike crosses the range, is entirely surrounded with the fire and will soon be burned over. In many cases stock has perished. Every Republican officeholder from Indiana will also follow Mr. Halford's good example, and no stone will be left unturned by the

It cannot be learned here whether the President will do as Mr. Blaine did, and secure a pair, or whether he will let his vote go by default. The President is of course greatly interested in the outcome of the contest, as his future political future is involved, but beyond chatting informally with the few callers whom he receives nowadays he is taking no part whatever in the campaign. His friends and the party managers regret exceedingly the President's enforced inactivity, but they respect his feelings, and since it first became known that Mrs. Harrison's illness would result fataliv, they have made no attempt to bring him into the contest in any way.

Not Engaged in Political Work. Since returning from Indianapolis the President has held aloof from any political work. He has glanced at the papers and talked with such of his Cabinet advisers and talked with such of his Cabinet advisers and other friends whom he has seen about the progress of the campaign, but only in the most informal manner. This morning Private Secretary Halford talked politics with the President for awhile, and afterward said that they were both feeling much encouraged by the evident drift of sentiment in fayor of the Republicans, and confident that the ticket would be carried.

Since Saturday night the President's time has been wholly occupied with the private matters necessary to be attended to personally and with such routine work of a public character the department officials selt required to lay before him. The transaction of official business and consideration of politics, however, cannot divert the of politics, however, cannot divert the President from his recent great sorrow, and it is of this he thinks and ponders to the exclusion of almost everything else.

Reading and Replying to Telegrams. All day yesterday and to-day the President has been secluded in the private office, carefully reading over the numerous messages of sympathy which came to him from all parts of the world on the day that Mrs. Harrison died. These letters and telegrams came in such great numbers that it was absolutely impossible for them all to be read until now. Last week Secretary Halford looked them over and gave out for publication the names of some of the more distinguished persons who sent words of sympathy. The President, however, felt it to be both a pleasure and a duty to read each message himself, for many of them must be replied to by him in his own hand. Yesterday, therefore, the mass of communications was laid before him, and they have since claimed his attention in the intervals of his cessation from work on the matters of official business piled upon his desk.

This reading over of messages of condolence is a very melancholy task, but the President has assumed it with the same willingness that marked his persistent devotion to his sick wife, and apparently without a thought that he is sacrificing his wn interests in ignoring politics for domes-

The Message Not Yet Commenced. The President has not commenced on his of the election will probably have a material effect upon the tone and also the scope of that document. In former years scope of that document. In former years he began work on his message about the lat of October. After accumulating certain data he wished to use he called in his stenographer and dictated to him for several hours at a time, at various intervals, until the message was completed. The President talks easily and fluently for dictation, and it is no more trouble for him to talk to a stenographer top nit is for him to make an stenographer than it is for him to make an offhand speech or write a letter. About 4 o'clock this afternoon, just as the streets near the White House were crowded with department clerks homeward-bound, the President and Mrs. McKee started for a drive in the family carriage. The President looked pale and careworn, and Mrs. McKee was heavily veiled. They drove out Vermont avenue, in the direction of the Soldiers' Home, where Major and Mrs. Parker reside. The Parkers are probable the most unique friends of the President of the Presid ably the most intimate friends of the President in this city.

The only visitors the President received to-day were Secretary of State Foster, Atlor, who has tendered his resignation as Minister to Portugal. The latter said he had a very pleasant conversation with the President, although the latter showed considerable emotion when the death of his wife was indirectly mentioned.

To-morrow will be a public reception day, but the President has not yet decided whether he will undergo the ordeal of facing the crowd of visitors in the East Room at 1 o'clock.
