WHY THE BRITISH ARE EVER RESPECTED

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 .- At one of the most enthusiastic Republican meetings of the campaign, this evening, held at Cooper Union, Patrick Egan, Minister to Chile, spoke as follows:

My first duty is to thank your honorable committee for the honor it has done me in inviting me to preside at this important meeting, and the second is to thank you for the very cordial American welcome which you have extended to me here this evening -a welcome of which any man in this great nation might feel justly proud. I presume-nay, I know-that the renson why I have been selected for this honor is the fact that I am singled out by the un-American Mug-wumps and by the pro-British section--of the Democratic press and party, as the but of all their bile and venom a aninst those of the Irish race who will not tamely been their meeks to the voke of the Demo-cratic party. I have dused to form for my-self an independent opinion in American politics, without consulting the Democratic bosses, and, therefore, at any and every cost, I must be downed, even if it necessi-tates the calling up of their last reserve in the person of Mr. Grover Cleveland's part-net, Wayne MacVeach, to do it. Mugwumps in Line With London. nation might feel justly proud. I presume-

Mugwumps in Line With London.

From the first day that my name was men tioned for the Chilean mission the Mugwump and the Democratic press, with som few honorable exceptions, kept time with the London Times in assailing me. In Chile while legally endeavoring to uphold the national honor, I was treacherously attacked from the rear by those people, and but for the thoroughly American stand maintained by President Harrison, Mr.

but for the thoroughly American stand maintained by President Harrison, Mr. Braise, Secretary Tracy and the other mem-bers of the Cabinet, American prestige and American honor would have suffered a de-teat from which they would have taken many long years to recover. The reason way the English flag is so much respected throughout the world-out-side of Ireland-is the fact that the humblest Englishman abroad can feel that if he be un-justly deprived of his liberty, if his rights be unjustly invaded, or his person unjustly assatied, he has the whole force of the Brit-ish Empire at his back, and that the British may, if within hall, will be ready to promptly deband, and, if necessary, promptly exact, satisfaction. In reterring to the unfortunate affairs of the assault upon the suffors of the Baltimore in Valparaise, now so happily and honor-ably arranged between Chile and the United States, an officer high in command in the English navy said to the commander of one of our ships on that cost that if a similar assault should be constituted upon his men-he would promptly settle the matter at the muzzles of his gues and make all the expla-rations to his Government afterward. Why cannot Americans act in this way? Simply because there are so many unconverted yotake the part of any foreign foe against once be raised for the head of the officer who should dare to do so. Not Mistaken in the President.

Not Mistaken in the President,

I felt and I feel as an American that the giorious flag of this republic should wave at least as proudly as the standard of England, and that every American citizen and every American interest in a foreign land should be at least as secure as those of any other nation in the world. I thought, too, that I understood that these were the sentiments understood that these were the sentiments of the Republican party and of its standard bearer, Fresident Harrison, and I found that I was not mistaken. I therefore adopted the course that I have pursued in Chile, and I am prond to come before you, my fellow eitizens, to night, and to be able to say that my every act and every word in that connection met with the inqualified approval of such representa-tives of American patriotism as President Harrison and James G. Blaine, and with the approbation of the entire Republican press and party.

Harrison and James G. Blaine, and with the approbation of the entire Republican press and party. It is unnecessary to say to you that the object of this meeting is to impress not only upon you here present, but upon the people of this great city and upon the country at large the advisability—nay, the necessity— of co-operating, by every legitimate means, in securing the re-election of the man who, ior the past four years, has given to this Re-public one of the most brilliant, the most manly, the most henorable and the most practically American administrations it has ever enjoyed since the days of Washington —President Harrison.
