

THE DAY AFTERWARD.

How the Clevelands Put in the Time Receiving Congratulations.

WHOLE BARRELS OF TELEGRAMS

And Tens of Thousands Find Their Way to the Next President's.

PLENTRY OF PLEASURE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Mr. Cleveland did not go to bed until 4:30 o'clock this morning. He was the last to leave the telegraph instrument that had brought the news of his election into the study or a private wire. It was not only election returns that kept him up so late, but a host of congratulatory dispatches from friends in every State. These messages began to come in about midnight and continued up to the time when the President-elect left his chair beside the key and went into his bedroom.

At midnight, after all the ladies who had been hearing the returns in company with Mrs. Cleveland had gone, and only two or three of Mr. Cleveland's close friends remained, an enthusiastic crowd began to gather outside the house. At that hour, in spite of Republican efforts to make the result appear doubtful, there was no question that there had been a great Democratic sweep all over the country, and the joyous Democratic crowds in the streets upturn were bent upon celebrating.

Cleveland Had to Make a Speech. Many wanted a glimpse of Mr. Cleveland, and, in spite of the hour, a considerable crowd gathered in front of the house. They cheered and sang and called for a speech. For two hours the crowd persisted, and finally had its way. It happened that about 1 o'clock in the morning William F. Barry, Chairman of the National Democratic Committee, suggested to several of those with him in his room at the national headquarters that they run uptown and congratulate Mr. Cleveland in person. The proposition was accepted and several carriages were called. Into these Mr. Barry, Don M. Dickinson, Charles S. Fairchild, William C. Whitney, C. C. Baldwin, Henry V. Ward and others drove to Fifty-first street.

receive half of the many callers. Congratulations continued to come in from every part of the country, and dozens of bouquets were received. Grover's Wife a Happy Woman. Mrs. Cleveland and baby Ruth were up and dressed at the usual hour, and the prattle of the baby and the caressing tones of the mother came up pleasantly from the breakfast room. Mr. O'Brien, Mr. Cleveland's private secretary, said that Mrs. Cleveland was elected in her own quiet way as the result of the battle of the ballots, and that she had received the congratulations of several of her women friends.

Mrs. Cleveland was in high spirits this morning. She said simply: "Of course we were all very much pleased with the news from the election, but Mr. Cleveland's pleasure was not demonstrative. He seemed to be simply in the enjoyment of perfect satisfaction." FOR THE SMALLEST NEWSBOY. A Novel Donation Made to the Press Club Benefit. The design of the programme to be used as a souvenir at the Press Club benefit on Friday afternoon, November 18, is of the most original character. Nothing prettier in the manner of lithograph work could be more unique. The cover is handsomely engraved and inlaid with a mixture of the softest colors beautifully blended. The inside pages are artistically decorated and maintain an appearance of the richest style.

There are 16 pages in all, set up in the most original fashion, and in every way adding to the appearance of the card as a souvenir. Secretary Evans yesterday received the following letter: "MY DEAR SIR—Permit me to tender my hearty sympathy with your benefit to be given on November 18. With the enclosed $5 bill please buy for the smallest newsboy in the city a reserved seat in the orchestra at the expense of Yours invariably, TED D. MARKS, Manager of Charles Frohman's 'Glorian' Company."

IN THE ASCENDANCY.

The Duquesne School Flourishing Under the New Management. The Duquesne public school in the First ward was given an additional teacher yesterday. Some years ago there were 12 teachers at this school, but owing to the decided decrease in scholarship the force was reduced to a principal and two teachers. Last spring when Prof. McMahon was elected principal he made it a point to visit the families in that section with a view to increasing the number of pupils.

The result of his efforts was that the attendance became larger every week until another teacher was needed. A number of other pupils will attend the school this winter, and it is expected two more teachers will be added to the force. The Duquesne will send three candidates to the High School examination this year, and a night school is to be opened there Monday.

A Partial Inquest Held. Coroner McDowell yesterday held a partial inquest in the case of Mrs. Minnie Shuett, who was killed by springing from the third story of O'Brien's building during the fire Monday night. At the inquest William Shuett testified that about 11:30 o'clock his wife told him the house was in flames. While he was searching for something with which to lower them his wife and sister-in-law jumped out into the street.

Still Defy the Police. In the East End burglars still defy the police. On Sunday night the house of Charles Dyer, on Tioga street, Braunton, was entered, and on the following evening thieves visited the houses of John Stewart and George Davis, on Park and River avenues respectively. In the residences of Mr. Dyer and Mr. Stewart, the burglars were frightened off, but in the house of Mr. Davis the lawbreakers secured some booty.

Fell From a Scaffold. Two stone masons, James Hedway, colored, and James Wilson, at work on the new Home building, fell from a scaffold a distance of about twenty feet Monday morning. They were both removed to the Mercy Hospital, where Nelson died three hours later.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS. RHEUMACURA SURE CURE FOR RHEUMATISM GOUT & LUMBAGO. McKinnis & Chessman Mfg. Co., City. GENTLEMEN—For the last 18 months I was a great sufferer from Rheumatic Gout, when I purchased a bottle of Rheumacura and after taking six or seven doses I was, to my great astonishment, perfectly well. I then gave the bottle to Louis Schowholzer, who is in my employ, and who was also a great sufferer from Rheumatism, and before he had taken half of what was left it cured him. He then gave the balance of the bottle to Albert Kinnich, a butcher, who was suffering intense pain from Rheumatism, and he was cured with the remainder of the bottle, which we think is the most wonderful thing after we all had taken all kinds of medicine and doped with all kinds of opium and then be cured with such a small amount of Rheumacura was beyond our comprehension. I have no hesitancy in saying that I think it is the only medicine that is worth a cent for the cure of Rheumatism or Gout. Yours very truly, GEORGE DEMLING, 17 Diamond Square.
