GENERAL SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH, ] NEW YORK, Nov. 10.-That old story of reinstatement of athletes in the ranks of the A. A. U. who have plastered themselves with professionalism, seems to be revived again, now that the board of managers is on the eve of holding its annual meeting. It has ever been a bone of contention in the executive sessions of the A. A. U., this question of the eligibility of certain sprinters, walkers and bikers, and it would seem as if the time had come to formulate some specific legislation in the A. A. U. which would define the status to a T of the athletes now under the ban.

There is this much about amateur athletics and amateur athletes: No more puzgling or intricate questions, calling for fair and impartial decisions, have arisen in the world of sport, than those developed in the ranks of amateurdom. Purity is, above all, the first requisite of the truly honest amateur.

Whatever else he strives for should not be sullied by the gloss of gold. And yetwell, it's not essential at this point to indite a homily on the ethics of amateur athletics. By and by, maybe, we'll see such laws regulating amateur sports that will come pretty close to approaching the

The All-Round Champions. The athletes who figured conspicuously in the various championship contests throughout the year are now busy with a mathematical problem which promises further honors to a fortunate few. Rule 15 of the Amateur Athletic Union provides that prizes shall be awarded each year for all-round individual excellence in national championships, and for special individual excellence in certain subdivisions of amateur sport in all championships, national and association. Scoring is estimated on the basis of 5 points for first place, 3 for second and I for third in each contest from January 1 to December 31, inclusive, of each year. All championships have now been decided for the current year, except those for boxing and wrestling, which are not calculated to affect the issue. Notwith-standing this fact, the official compilation time has expired.

For all-round individual excellence, in For all-round individual excellence, in which the first, second and third prizes will be awarded respectively to the three athletes making the highest three aggregate scores in all events, for which national championships are offered by the A. A. U., James S. Mitchell, N. Y. A. C., comes through the season's campaign a clear winner with the savgerale score of 13 points. through the season's campaign a clear win-ner with the aggregate score of 13 pointspall earned at the national field championships, at Manhattan field, October 1, as follows: Won at throwing the 16-pound hammer, score, 5 points; won at throwing the 56-pound weight, score 5 points; won second place at putting the 16-pound shot, score, 3 will not be announced until the stipulated points. Hjertberg a Close Second. Ernie Hjertberg, New Jersey A. C., finishes a close second, with an aggregate score of 11 points, as follows: Won second place in the one-mile national championship at Manhattan Field October 1; score, 3 points. Won second place in the 10-mile national championship at Manhattan Field October 22; score, 3 points. Won the twomile steeplechase at national championship, Manhattan Field October 22; score, 5

For the third medal three men tie with an aggregate of 10 points each. These are: C. Bayer, New York Tura Verein, who won the horizontal bar, 5 points, and parallel bar, 5 points, at the national championships on April 2; Harry Jewett, Detroit A. C. won 100 yards, 5 points, and 220 yards, 5 points, at the national championships Mar hattan Field October 1; and F. C. Puffer, Manhattan A. C., who won 120-vard hurdles, 5 points, and 220-yard hurdles, 5 points, at the national championships Manhattan Field October 1

WHERE THE INTEREST CENTERS.

Blocks of Seats Going Off for the Big Football Game To-Morrow. The reserved seats for Saturday's game between the A. A. A. and P. A. C. football teams went off rapidly yesterday at Pratt's. Purchasers bought them in blocks of five and ten, and one block of 28 was sold to a party of East Enders. The indications are, therefore, that there will be anywhere from 5,000 to 10,000 people present if the weather is at all pleasant. The game will commence promptly at 3 o'clock, but no one but the managers of both teams knows how they managers of both teams knows now they will line up.

There have been vague rumors of substitutes of heavy caliber being placed in important positions on both teams, but the managers deny that any startling change is to be made. It is possible, though, that in several instances the regular men will not be in condition to play, in which case as good men as can be found will be put in their places. It is expected that everybody will wear colors, either the crimson and will wear colors, either the crimson and white or the blue and white, and banners or these colors will be plentful. The carriages and vehicles will also be decorated with the and venicles will also be decorated with the colors, and canes are already being turned into wands for the occasion. Especial arrangements have been made with the car company to run extra cars on that day, and provisions will be made at the grounds to accommodate everybody.

Princetons Knocked Out.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 10. - Saturday's fierce game has completely crippled Prince-ton's football team. It is decided that there will be no more games on their field this season, owing to the physically dilapidated condition of the Princeton men.

NEW BASEBALL SCHEME.

A St. Louis Man Wants to Put Up $100,-

000 for a New Venture. St. Louis, Nov. 10.—[Special.]—A certain St. Louis capitalist is willing to risk $100,000 in baseball provided the old American Association is reorganized. This daring plunger is a shrewd business man worth $1,000,000 at least. Ed. Cutbbert, the veteran ball player, said this morning:

"The idea of the man who stands ready to put his money into the game is that the clubs representing the original Association cities will pay a handsome percentage on the investment. If he can see his way clear he will solicit the League with a view to se-curing those cities in the League which were curing those cities in the League which were originally in the Association. It would be an easy matter for the twelve ciub League to split and the organization that withdraws put up their notes for the money they owe." One of the first moves that will be taken is a solicitation to President Von der Ahe with a view to purchasing the franchise of the St. Louis Browns. If this deal proves successful then an effort will be made to secure the old Association clubs. Those cities that are spoken of for the Western organization are St. Louis, Cincinnati, Louisville and Detroit. Brooklyn, Baltimore, Washington and Philadelphia in the East. In Philadelphia an entirely new plant could be established. The Brooklyn management could be induced to come into a new organization. It is not the object of the projectors of this new scheme to antagonize the League. Quite the contrary. The gentleman who is willing to contribute $100,000 to this new enterprise is a particular friend of William Johnson, the electric street railway magnate, and brother of Congressman Tom Johnson, of Cleveland Players' League fame.

Col. North's Horse Beaten. LONDON, NOV. 10 .- A match race between Colonel North's 6-year-old bay horse Nun-thorp and Lord Rosslyn's 4-year-old bay colt thorp and Lord Rosslyn's 4-year-old bay colt Buccaneer was run to-day at Portsmouth Park. It was won by Buccaneer. The prize was a cup valued at £500, offered by the Portsmouth Park executive. The match caused much discussion in the sporting world and at one time it looked as though the negotiations to bring about the race would end in a row between Colonel North and Lord Rosslyn.

The America's Cup.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 .- It seems that there will be a race for the America's cup in 1898. Lord Dunraven's challenge for the timehonored trophy is on its way to this country honored trophy is on its way to this country and bears the indorsement of the Boyal Yacht Squadron of Great Britain. H. Maitland Kersey, the agent of the White Star Line and the American representative of the English Earl, received a cablegram at noon to-day from Dunraven. He wires that the challenge for the cup is coming through the mails of the steamer Germanic, which left Liverpool yesterday and Queenstown to-day. The ship will reach this country a week from to-morrow.

MANSPIELD AS NERO.

A Patchwork of Bloody Deeds Elaborately

Set Forth as a Play. "Nero," which Mr. Mansfield put on last night at the Alvin, should have a sub-title; something like this: "Or, Pages From the Roman Police Gazette." It is a lurid chroncle of crime, with absolutely nothing in a literary or dramatic way to excuse its projection as a play. It lacks dignity, poetry and true pathos; yet it is a tragedy which its author, F. Russell Sullivan, probably intends to be classical. Mr. Mansfield is intends to be classical. Mr. Mansfield is far too good an actor to waste his taients upon such tawdry and tiresome stuff, and even the lavish expenditure of money upon scenery, costumes and other accessories, which as usual marks Mr. Mansfield's setting of the play, does not save it from being alternately tedious and comic—not exactly what one expects in a tragedy enacted in Imperial Rome with one of the Cæsars, even if the least worthy of them all, as the central figure.

Mr. Mansfield as Nero was at times able to lift the part out of its natural level. The mocking tone of the bloodthirsty Emperor when he painted picturesquely the horrors of a death in the arens, in order to scare his favorite Menerates, was a piece with Mr. Mansfield's other excellent efforts in the cynical vein. Mr. Mansfield also brought out the contemptible cowardice of the royal butcher with such humor that there was much laughter, even when daggers and poison were in the foreground. Murder is ram-pant in every act. The curtain is hardly up before Nero comes in mandlin drunk, babbling of his latest assassinations, and by the time the act ends a rival of his in love is poisoned before the audience. In acts II. and III. the killing is kindly done in the wings, though the executions are more or less carefully described. In act III. the nearest approach to a lovable character in the play, the dancer Charis, dies of poison suddenly, and lies dead before the audience for ten minutes. There are few of the dramatis persona left when the last act comes, but the author contrives to crowd in a couple of suicides before the curtain finally falls. Of course, some of the killings were welcome; the death of Lysias, for example, welcome; the death of Lysias, for example, was a relief; but such a deluge of blood, with nothing to relieve it but vile debauchery, could hardly fail to swamp any play. There is no honest love interest, no heroic deed, no genuine sorrow to call forth our sympathy. Even Charis, the presumable heroine, falls into Nero's arms far too complacently.

While Mr. Mansfield was powerful at times, and always a Roman worth looking st, for his dress was accurately magnificent.

st, for his dress was accurately magnificent, his associates did not seem at home in classical costumes. Miss Lester did what she could with Acte, and Miss Cameron went a good way toward making Charis a pretty picture, if nothing else. The scenery was good, the costumes better, and Mr. Mansfield's good taste in the arrangement of colors—take the pile of cushions on the throne, for instance—was frequently displayed. The banquet scene was elaborately effective. affective. A very large audience gave the ece a generous hearing.

Her Highness in Honolulu Threatens Flop Over to Uncle Sam.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10 .- [ Special. ]letter from Honolulu of October 21, re ceived late last night, savs: "Business is at a standstill, the Government is almost bankrupt, the Government employes have not been paid for month, the appropriation bill is not through the second reading and the Queen and the Legislature are at loggerheads. That is the situation as the Gaelic leaves this evening. The Queen insists on appointing her own Cabinet. The last Cabinet was removed in just 2 hours and 20 minutes after it was announced. The opposition will not allow an enabling act passed to pay current expenses. The opposition, composed of at least 26 members, will recognize no Cabinet that is not formed by one of the majority, and furthermore any Cabinet formed must first be submitted to the members of the opposition. "The Queen is reported to have said be fore she would acknowledge this principle she would cede the kingdom to the United States. It is asserted the Legislature will be prorogued and a new Constitution pro-claimed under which, if allowing universal suffrage, the Queen would receive an over-whelming indorsement,"

TOLEDO, Nov. 10 .- [Special.]-Charles Neuendorff, one of the seven Councilmen charged with soliciting bribes, was arraigned for trial this afternoon. He was terribly agitated, and despite the encouraging words of his counsel, broke completely down.

He acknowledged every point claimed by the State about the oath-bound gang meeting in the rear of his store at midnight and laying plans for bleeding the rich corporations. tions which sought franchises from the Council. He admitted it all and begged for mercy. B. O. Manchester a Methodist stewart and Sunday school Superintendent, is the next. His trial will commence Mon

And the Measures the State Authorities Are Taking to Combat Them. HARRISBURG, Nov. 10.-The regular held this evening. Secretary Lee submitted his annual report. It embraced a reference to the unusual number of outbreaks of contagious and epidemic diseases, especially smallpox and diphtheria, nearly all of which the board succeeded in controlling. Much of the report was devoted to a review of the action of the board with reference to the cholers epidemic, and a discussion of the narrow limits of its usefulness in case of an actual invasion of the disease, because of a lack of funds to meet such an invasion. Reference is also made to the fact of two lepers being discovered in Philadelphia during the past year, and the board will urge upon the national authorities the making of such unfortunates national wards. In the way of legislation the board will urge a sanitary organization of the entire State which will reach to the rural districts. Dr. Lee was appointed a delegate to the American Public Health Association, which meets in the City of Mexico in November. The board had before it five local outbreaks of smallpox, three of diphtheria and one of dysentery during the last four months. All of these were prevented from spreading. A special meeting of the board will probably be called to consider the danger of an in-
