The consumption of the United States is 342,211 tons larger than two years ago. It may be that the new administration will consider these facts and leave the bounty law alone, as it is in the nature of a Govern-ment contract given to Louisiana and other producing States, in order that the whole country may have free sugar.

General business was restricted somewhat during the week by the election and its sensational results, but now that national politics has been eliminated as a factor in the situation people will again turn their attention to trade and the study of those conditions which control the values of staples. Aside from whatever influence the change in the administration and the guessing as to what the Democrats may do to change existing conditions, may have, it is unquestionably true, that most influences favor a large volume of business in mercantile and manufacturing lines. The iron trade is growing steadily in health and activity; railroad earnings are large; crops are satisfactory, with indications pointing to a higher range of prices; labor is fully employed, excepting at one or two points, and the tone of the money market is more reassuring than it was a few weeks since.

chasing power strong, which indicates that sales will be large during the remainder of the year. As a rule the tendency of prices have advanced: a dollar a barrel have advanced: a dollar a barrel has been added to the price of pork: butter, cheese and eggs have found a higher range of value; foreign and domestic dried and evaporated fruits have increased in cost, and a number of other articles have ruled in favor of sellers. Sugar declined a fraction. Corn, fish and feed were somewhat easier, and dones about unchanged.

The Sugar Situation.

Willett & Gray's weekly sugar circular says: When we advocated the promotion of the best root sugar industry in the United States it was not expected that the policy o the country was to be so abruptly changed from "protection" to "tariff reform." The change is considered to be a severe blow to the extension of the raw beet and cane sugar industry, for capital, which was ready to go into the business, is now inclined to wait until some definite action is taken on wait until some definite action is taken on the bounty law. It is the opinion of con-stitutional lawyers that the bounty law must remain in force until its expiration and apply to all present sugar producing estates or factories, but that it may be re-stricted to such and be cancelled as to any new enterprises. As the consumption of the world is increasing steadily each year, the repeal of the bounty law would necessitate an increased production of raw Shorts had covered very freely on yesterday's excitement, and there was little demand from that source while longs, who had a profit, were making active efforts to sell and secure it. Then there was a prospect of another generous increase in the visible supply. Perhaps the weakest feature, or at least the most de-pressing one, was the persistent short sell-ing by Pardridge and other leading bears. The pressure of these offerings on the mar-ket with trades dull and narrow was most demoralizing. Later there was a substan-tial rally on the advance in the closing cables and the small receipts at primary points. For the week of 1891 corresponding with this week the exchanges were $13,137,639 27. The early strength was attributed to the bullish nature of Prime's report, which reiterated what has been so of en said before, that the results of the huskings were everywhere disappointing and added that the crop would not equal in weight 70 percent of an average. Only were heavy in the face of some very bullish sen-timents in Prime's report.
