

VOICE OF A VICTOR

Raised to Exult in the Results of the Recent National Campaign.

STEVENSON IS SHOUTING.

He Neatly Refers to the High Worth of the Foe He Fought,

WHAT HIS PARTY EXPECTS TO DO.

The Canvass Marked by a Singular Era of Good Feeling.

ISSUES NO LESS DISTINCTLY MARKED

BLOOMINGTON, ILL., Nov. 14.—At a political demonstration to-night Vice President-elect Stevenson said: "While as Democrats we rejoice over the great victory we have achieved, we should not forget that we are all Americans. Democrats and Republicans alike, we have one country, one destiny. The glory which attaches to the American name and to American achievements belongs exclusively to no party or section, but is the common heritage of all our countrymen. Nor should we forget that we are equally interested in having wise legislation and honest methods in Government."

"I may be pardoned for saying that the campaign just closed has been singularly free from personal vilification. This should be a matter of rejoicing to all men who place a high estimate upon personal character, and who value the good name of those to whom are confided important public trusts. I take pleasure in bearing testimony now, as I did while the contest was yet undetermined, to the ability and high personal character of the gentlemen who were candidates for high office upon the opposing tickets. In his great domestic benevolence the President of the United States has the heartfelt sympathy of all of his countrymen."

"An Example for Future Campaigns. "It has been truly said that the late campaign recalled the era of good feeling which marked the administration of President Monroe. May we not hope that the great political struggle of 1892 between those two eminent citizens, Harrison and Cleveland, the chosen representatives of the two great parties, will inaugurate a new era in American politics, and that calm discussion and respectful consideration for the opinions of our opponents will characterize the Presidential contests of the future?"

"While this contest has been waged upon a high plane the issues involved have been none the less clearly and distinctly defined. We firmly believe that the people of our country and of its humblest citizens are bound up in the success of the great historic party of which we are members. We favor a larger measure of commercial trade leading to employment to be given our own skilled labor, and that the United States be the successful competitor in the markets of the world. We favor the free admission of raw material."

"The Tariff Still Called a Tax. "It is part of our political creed that tariff is a tax, and that it is paid by the consumer. We earnestly favor the reduction to a minimum of tariff taxes upon the necessities of life. We believe the power to tax is limited by the public necessities. To the end that we may have stable government in the States, avoid race disturbances, and secure to all sections of our country the prosperity and happiness which spring from good government, we are unalterably opposed to the passage of the tariff bill. We favor the strictest economy in expenditures of public money."

"The verdict of the people has been pronounced against a prohibitory tariff. But let no apprehension be felt that the business interests of the country will be imperiled. A reduction of the tariff within safe lines will conserve, not destroy, the business interests of the country. For the first time in almost a third of a century the Democratic party will control all departments of the Government. With this great power will come grave responsibilities. You have selected the highest office known to our institutions. The man whose administration has stood a critical test and is a guarantee of what is to follow. Rest assured that with Grover Cleveland at the head, and with the Senate and House controlled by men of his political faith, the Government will be safely administered and legislation will be in the interest of all the people."

PROHIBITIONISTS IN OHIO.

Their strength of 30,000 in the late Election Encourages Them.

ALLIANCE, O., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—L. B. Logan, of this city, Chairman of the Prohibition State Committee, makes some surprising announcements in regard to the party's vote in the late election. Official returns from all the counties in the State of Ohio show a total vote of 30,000 for the Bidwell electors, a gain of 10,000 over the Ashburns' vote for Governor last year, and a 15 per cent gain over the Fisk vote of four years ago. To-day Mr. Logan said: "It has been decided that the party in this State will keep up its county organizations, and after three weeks' rest will resume active operations in preparation for the campaign of 1893."

BREWERS WATCHING A CHANCE

To Put Up a Plant in South Dakota When the Law Allows.

SIOUX FALLS, S. DAK., Nov. 14.—Returns from 39 of the 59 counties in the State give Harrison 27,937; Weaver, 19,097; and Cleveland, 7,196, a plurality of 8,276 for Harrison. The remaining counties will probably make little change in the plurality. So far as heard from the Senate stands: Republicans, 30; Independents, 5; Democrats, 2. The House stands: Republicans, 88; Independents, 13; Democrats, 4. It is believed that the Legislature is favorable to the submission of the prohibition amendment, and Rochester, N. Y., parties are already contemplating the establishment of a $50,000 brewery in the city.

PECK OUT OF HIS TROUBLE.

His Demurrer to the Indictment Against Him is Sustained.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 14.—Labor Commissioner Charles F. Peck and his stenographer, Elbert Rodgers, were successful for a second time, to-day, in another proceeding brought against them for destroying public records in the shape of tariff circulars on which the Commissioner based his report, which was given to the public several weeks before election. In the Court of Sessions, to-day, Judge Clute sustained the demurrer to the indictment found against Mr. Peck and Mr. Rodgers, and discharged both gentlemen.

Ohio's Majority Now is 1,039.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 14.—Official returns from 18 counties at the office of the Secretary of State. The result is a slight gain for Taylor, Republican, for Secretary of State, over his unofficial figures, and places his plurality at 1,039.

Koeb Means to Be Governor.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Nov. 14.—The

Alabama Legislature meets to-morrow, and among the members already arrived Kolb's declared purpose to be inaugurated Governor of Alabama is freely discussed. The Kolb members refuse to divulge their plans, but claim that they have perfected means to seat Kolb.

CAMPAIGN REMINDERS.

A Big Printing Bill Unpaid.—The Republican Committee at Least $50,000 Behind.—John T. Davenport Pursued by Creditors.—Harrisburg Says the Democrats Owe Nobody Anything.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Deputy Sheriff Young received an attachment to-day for $19,424 against the Brodix Publishing Company, in favor of Reuben Freeman & Bro., printers, for work done and materials furnished between August 4 and October 27. The printing was done for the Republican National Campaign Committee. The Brodix Company, which has been in business in Washington for four years, opened a branch in this city in August last, to do the work of the Republican Campaign Committee. The company, it is said, sublet the contract to Freeman & Bro. for $25,000, and the latter firm has credited but $6,000 on account of the work done, and has attached for the rest.

The Sheriff served the attachment to-day on a number of persons, including Cornelius Bliss, Treasurer of the Republican National Committee. Mr. Bliss told the Sheriff that it was impossible to say how much the committee owed the Brodix for printing until he had consulted with the secretary of the committee, J. Foster & Co. said they had about $10,000 worth of paper in storage belonging to the Brodix Company. The Republican National Committee came out of the fight $20,000 in debt. Judgment was entered to-day against Supervisor John I. Davenport for the rent of his former apartments on Fifth avenue. Execution was issued to the Sheriff, who will try and find property to satisfy the judgment, which is for $303 47. The complaint sets forth that the last attempt of court to collect the bill was made November 1, 1892. Then the attorney found Mr. Davenport at 501 Fifth Street, and asked him to settle. "Oh, I'm too busy to attend to that now," remarked the author of the force bill as he turned on his heel and walked away.

"I hope you will not be too busy to attend to this," said the sheriff, and showed in the election expert's hands the summons in the case decided against him to-day.

When a reporter asked a clerk of the City Court for the papers in the judgment against John Davenport, the clerk looked weary and said: "Which judgment? We have dozens of them here." A telegram from Philadelphia says: "Chairman Harrisburg, of the Democratic National Committee, today said that the recent contest Pennsylvania Democrats had contributed most largely to the campaign fund, and that most of the money had been collected in very small amounts. The committee, he says, was enabled to pay the expenses of the campaign from the liberal contributions received, and is free from debt. Mr. Harrisburg is about leaving the city with his family for a few days' vacation, after which he will resume his duties as Harrisburg, as Secretary of the Commonwealth."

OHIO WENT IT ALONE.

The Democratic Committee Not Responsible for the Surprise There.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 14.—[Special.]—The Democracy of Ohio having won a signal victory by scaling the Republican plurality down to a thousand or thereabouts, and offering not only a surprise to those who are opponents but the country at large, the question of interest to the uninitiated which follows is "How did it come about?" The general view furnished by a score of leading Democrats in the city is directly contradictory of that which even hints that the State Committee knew anything of what was going on. Some plain facts, apparent to every Democrat who has visited the committee rooms during the canvass, are that the committee from the first to the last was a nonentity. It did not require political acumen to judge this. The merest novice in politics could see in a five minutes' visit that there was nothing more being done there than could be performed by one man aided by a single stenographer. In short, the Democratic Committee, as an organization, was a burlesque.

Chairman Farley went home on Friday preceding the election, but previous to this the headquarters were practically closed the Monday before. Secretary Hyman, when asked for an estimate of the vote on Friday, laughed and to a friend said: "What can we expect? Take the Republicans' calculations." Tuesday night at 12 o'clock, Chairman Farley conceded the State to the Republicans, and in the morning he conceded the victory. He then was as little prepared for what followed as when he took charge of the committee. Colonel W. A. Taylor, the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State, with all the courtesy due a committee from a candidate, says it was the committee's still hunt which won the victory. The Colonel during the campaign was constant in his entreaties to go slow and jound in his unselfish declarations of "no sacrifice" if the committee wanted to make a buzzing campaign and draw off the Ohio orators from other States.

Three weeks before the election Governor Campbell sent out a 500 autograph letters to confidential followers throughout the State. They were mailed from New York, and entreated them to "exert yourself, as it is the event of your life. Make success at all hazards and you will not regret it. Even if we cannot carry Ohio you will not be forgotten, as Cleveland will certainly be elected President and our boys be on top."

If the State Committee does not know of this history perhaps Congressmen-elect Johnson, Harter, Icker, Ritchie and Pearson can enlighten them, and a coincidence—each one of them was a Cleveland man from the first.

ANOTHER WOMAN ELECTED.

But Mrs. Eisenhuth May Not Be Allowed to Qualify, After All.

BISMARCK, N. D., Nov. 14.—From reports now in and a careful estimate upon those yet to come it is evident the entire Republican ticket has been snowed under, with the exception of Congressman and Secretary of State. The candidates for these two offices on the Republican ticket were both Scandinavians. A question has been raised as to the eligibility of Mrs. Eisenhuth to qualify as Superintendent of Public Instruction. She evidently has the most votes, but it is probable a fierce contest will be waged against her taking charge of the office on the grounds that she cannot fill the requirements of the law.

Pattison for President in '96.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 14.—A couple thousand men marched in the Democratic procession to-night, in jubilation over Cleveland's election. All the surrounding towns were represented. "Pattison for President in 1896" was an inscription on one of the banners.

MONEY FOR MAKING RAIN.

Texas People Subscribe Toward General Dryden's Experiments.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., Nov. 14.—A meeting of prominent citizens and business men was held at the Board of Trade rooms here this morning, and it was decided by them to raise a fund of $2,000 to be added to the $10,000 fund already secured by the Government. The experiments to be expended in their proposed experiments here this week. General Dryden and party will arrive here to-morrow, and it is expected that everything will be in readiness by Thursday for beginning the experiment.

NEILL'S END IS NEAR.

He Will Be Hanged at Newgate Prison Early This Morning.

NO CONFESSION MADE AS YET.

A CABINET CRISIS BOBS UP IN FRANCE

LONDON, Nov. 14.—All the preparations for the execution of Thomas Neill, otherwise Cream, are completed. The execution will be strictly private, the only persons who will be present being Kynaston Metcalf, Under-Sheriff of the County of London; the executioner and the prison officials. Since Neill was sentenced the closest watch has been kept upon him at Newgate prison. He was not permitted access to the prisoner, beyond the corridor which leads to the condemned man's cell. Through this corridor Neill will pass alive to-morrow, to be brought back a corpse, soon afterward.

The warden vouchsafed only the information that Neill, though ill, had returned to writing throughout the day, frequently leaving off, being obliged to rest. He is silent, irritable and moody. The warden had their early relief from the responsibility of their charge. Their vigil has been an anxious one, as they are haunted with a suspicion that this adept in the fatal use of poison has some unknown resources which he may effectually employ at the last moment to cheat the avenger of justice.

The Hangman Inspects Him.

Billington, the hangman, saw Neill to-day through an inspection wicket, taking note of his height and build, while the convict paced to and fro in his cell. Usually the hangman has an interview with the condemned, making the closest survey of his physique and taking an eye measurement of the strength of the neck and gauging the weight of the body. This appears to have been spared Neill. The hangman will not appear at the cell until nearly 9 o'clock. Billington performs the work of pinioning in five minutes.

From the cell along a flagged corridor is a minute's walk to the scaffold, where a movable gibbet, is erected in the court yard within an inclosure, making it invisible from any point on surrounding buildings. The drop will be made promptly at 9 o'clock, and at the same instant a black flag will be hoisted on the prison flagstaff to make known to the outside world that justice has been satisfied.

No Confession Yet Made.

The inquest will take place at noon and will be followed immediately by the burial. The body will be placed in a coffin filled with quicklime and placed under the flagstones in the corridor over which the doomed man treads on his way to the scaffold. In the wall, perhaps, the faintest spot in the world. Under the flagging of this corridor have been buried the bodies of a long succession of notable and obscure criminals. Initials, or numbers cut in the walls indicate the more recent sepulchres. Earlier inscriptions have been defaced by time and the grime.

GENERAL BORONOK'S DEATH

Suspicion of Poisoning to Prevent Disclosure of Official Irregularities.

MOSCOW, Nov. 14.—A sensation has been caused here by the death at Tashkend, in Asiatic Russia, of General Boronok. Some time ago General Boronok was appointed a special commissioner to examine into the administration of the province in which Tashkend is situated. He made an exhaustive examination into the affairs of the office, with the result that he discovered irregularities involving a number of officials. General Boronok was upon the point of returning to Moscow, when he was taken suddenly ill and died in a few minutes. It is suspected that some of the officials whose dishonesty was brought to light by General Boronok are responsible for his death. They feared that his disclosures would result in their punishment, as possible exile to Siberia. A post mortem examination will be made to learn if he was poisoned.

States. Secretary Helm, of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, is reported as saying that since the defeat on the issue the Republicans also will want to reduce the tariff to conform with the will of the great majority of the people of the United States. He does not look for any speedy change, and disagrees with his friend Atkinson, of Boston, that the adoption of free trade in America will destroy English commerce. There will doubtless be some considerable temporary distinction of trade, but each country will settle down to its special manufactures and the exchange of products will be enormously increased. The cost of carriage nowadays, he thinks, is a small consideration.

A leading Manchester manufacturer and dealer largely with Americans, declared that American purchasers insisted upon English goods at any price. "The lowering of the American tariff," said he, "may have the effect of creating a boom in the cheaper lines of goods, and enable us to apply our hitherto profitable English dress to cheap lines. This perhaps is an exaggeration, but I should say that the relaxation of American tariff will soon stimulate the industry and that 50 mills would start at Oldham, and our particular line will be improved and employment will be found for thousands of additional hands."

Sir Edward Harland, the shipbuilder of Belfast, believes the downfall of McKinley is a certainty and the advent of Cleveland will be of incalculable benefit, while the World's Fair will attract thousands of additional visitors.

The Belfast Linen Trade Society's report, notes steadily improving shipments as "American exports." It says, "will be considerably increased as a result of the election, but not for some time." The President of the Belfast Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Ewart, a great linen manufacturer, rejoices that the tariff which would have become operative against Irish linens in 1894 and practically extinguished the trade, will probably never be enforced.
