

THAT EXTRA SESSION

Of Congress Will Not Be Called Unless It Is Found Necessary

TO FILL UP THE BARE TREASURY.

So Says Mr. Carlisle, Who Is Just Now Very Close to Cleveland.

IF ONE IS CALLED IT WILL BE IN FALL

(FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—"There will be no extra session of Congress," said one of the most influential members of the present House to the correspondent of THE DISPATCH, to-day. "I have just come from New York and from a call on Mr. Cleveland. The President is to be opposed to an extra session, and, therefore, no matter what the weight of opinion in the party, his wish will settle the whole matter. It is a fact, however, that it would be the brave and logical thing to do to call an extra session and at once proceed to the reorganization of the tariff and of the financial issues. To do otherwise is cowardly, and all the world hates a coward.

"No one can tell what we shall be able to do when we reach the tariff. It may be that we shall find that we can make very few material changes with safety at this time, and that we are forced to admit that much of the existing tariff is necessary in the interests of business and revenue. But no matter if this be the fact, we should at once proceed to a reorganization in accordance with the views of the party leaders, and not postpone the work for the reason that we are afraid to take hold of it, which will be the verdict of the people if we refuse to grapple with the subject at once.

A Congressman Not With Cleveland. "I do not agree with the view of Mr. Cleveland in this affair, and if he adheres to it I feel convinced that it will work harm to the party. The whole meaning of the elections, if they mean anything at all, is that there is a demand for a revision of the laws that have formed the chief bases of dispute, and not that we should merely put out a lot of Republican officeholders and put in a lot of Democratic ones. While I do not believe that we shall be able at any time to make the radical changes from present laws that some seem to expect, I fear that we shall commit a grave, if not a fatal error, if we do not make the changes that are possible without delaying them until the regular session, which would mean that nothing at all would be done for nearly two years."

The view expressed by this Congressman is heartily seconded by Congressman Wilson, of West Virginia, admitted to be one of the most sagacious men in the party, and who has been sent for by Mr. Cleveland with the hope of placing him in the Cabinet. Mr. Wilson is frank and emphatic in his expression in favor of an extra session—not with the belief that the great changes expected by some unthinking persons will be realized, but that whatever is possible may be done promptly and without cowardice.

Carlisle Fears a Session Necessary. Senator Carlisle, of Kentucky, was in the city to-day, and as he has also come directly from Mr. Cleveland, and as he is one of the most careful and conservative men in his party, his opinion is of much importance. "If there is to be an extra session it will probably not meet until late in the fall. It depends on circumstances. The tariff alone will not furnish sufficient reason for an extra session. The financial affairs of the Government may be in such shape as to make an extra session imperative. It appears probable that we shall find that there is not enough money in the Treasury for the needs of the Government.

"There is a situation in the Treasury which every thoughtful man who has considered the matter has foreseen. There is an accumulation of deficiencies and obligations that have been contracted and will come over to us. It may be that this situation will furnish reason enough why an extra session should be called. Upon these things depends the calling of an extra session."

PREPARING FOR THE INAUGURAL. Similar Methods to Those of Eight Years Ago Will Prevail. WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Since the election of Mr. Cleveland the leading Democrats of the District have been considering with more or less interest the proper method of appointing an inaugural committee. The first definite move in that direction was taken at a meeting or conference of Democrats held at the Ebbitt last evening. M. F. Morris, president, and a statement was made by James L. Yerris, the member from the District of the National Committee, to the effect that after consultation with Senator Gorman it had been decided to recommend that the plan adopted eight years ago, when Mr. Cleveland was elected, be followed on this occasion.

This plan in substance is the selection by the National Democratic Committee of 50 citizens of the District of Columbia to take charge of the ceremonies outside the Capitol. The meeting last night prepared such a list, headed by Colonel James G. Berret, who presided over the Inaugural Committee eight years ago, and the list was sent to Chairman Hartwig, of the National Democratic Committee, for approval.

Judicial Vacancies to Be Filled. WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—It is understood that the President in a few days will fill the three vacancies existing in the Federal judiciary. One of these is in the Northern district of Illinois, another in the Territory of Utah, and the third in the District of Columbia. Another judicial vacancy in the District of Columbia will occur December 1 by the retirement of Judge James.

JOHN J. FREUND'S Popular Store on the Southside—Winter Garments for the Ladies.

The "Commercial Palace," corner Seventeenth and Carson streets, Southside, is a busy place these days. John J. Freund, the genial proprietor, is one of the busiest merchants in the city. The commodious building is crowded with all kinds of new goods. The cloak department is especially inviting. The large stock of ladies' and misses' jackets, cloaks and wraps has been selected with great care. Fur capes, muffs and all kinds of winter goods are there, too, in grand variety. Mr. Freund is a tireless worker and his knowledge of business has been acquired through years of experience. He appreciates the fact that the public buys where reliable goods are sold at fair prices, and those dealing with Mr. Freund can bear testimony that his margin of profit is extremely low on every article he sells. The business of the "Commercial Palace" has steadily grown, and to-day it is one of the most substantial mercantile houses in Pennsylvania.

FILED '300 MUNICIPAL LIENS.

The City Attorney Secures Thirty-third Street Sewer Assessments.

Two hundred liens were filed by the city attorney yesterday against properties assessed for the big Thirty-third street sewer. The same number will be filed to-day. By Saturday, when the limit allowed by law expires, the entire number of delinquents will have municipal liens against their properties. Six thousand properties were assessed for the improvement, and it was expected that not more than 80 per cent of them would pay before the liens were filed. That so many did pay, was an agreeable surprise to the city officers.

The liens filed represent about $100,000, in ranging sums from $10 to $1,200. The total cost of the sewer was $275,000, and it is the largest in the city.

THE BEAUTY LECTURE.

Proving Very Interesting to the Ladies of This Vicinity.

The Pittsburgh ladies all seem to be in a flutter of excitement and expectancy over Mrs. Yale's beauty lecture to be given at the Alvin Theatre, on Tuesday next, at 8 o'clock afternoon. They will certainly be very pleasantly and interestingly entertained by the beautiful Mrs. Yale. When one stops to consider that this wonderful woman has treated the world and the world has been entertained by royalty itself, it is not surprising to see the ladies flock for tickets and if the truth be known many of the sterner sex will go there also. As the Madame restores gray hair to its natural color, to complete the living picture of youth, a pertinent query is what are the poor old men going to do if Mrs. Yale makes all the old ladies young?
