STILL IN THE FIGHT.

Local Shippers Working in a Pittsburg Freight Bureau.

A LETTER FROM GEO. T. OLIVER.

He Gives Interesting Facts and Figures on Discrimination.

THE COMMITTEE MEETING YESTERDAY

The Committee on Transportation and Railways, of the Chamber of Commerce, held a meeting yesterday merning. Chairman James B. Scott presided. The committee discussed freight discriminations and reviewed the work already done, but did not take up any new business. They will hold another meeting some day this week, but which day has not yet been de-

The freight discrimination agitators have not given up the fight by any means. The gentlemen who have been endeavoring to obtain a freight bureau for Pittsburg are still hopeful of obtaining such an institution, notwithstanding the apparent lack of interest that has been shown by the manufacturers and merchants of the city. Mr. George T. Oliver, who has given a great deal of attention to the subject, has addressed the following letter to James B. Scott, Chairman of the Committee on Railroads and Transportation of the Chamber of Com-

DEAR SIR-I notice by the daily papers that at a meeting of the Chamber of Com-merce your committee reported progress, and volunteered the statement that you were disappointed at the slight interest taken by the business men of Pittsburg in the subject of freight rates, which is now under consideration by your committee, and that you further stated that your committee was diagnosing the case, etc. The Effect of an Invitation.

Allow me to suggest the possibility that have kept away from your meetings many business men, who knew that the evil of inimical freight rates existed, but did not have the necessary knowledge of details to have the necessary knowledge of details to present the lacts clearly before your committee. In short, an impression has gone abroad that the committee is not altogether friendly to the movement to secure better freight rates for the city. It is unfortunate that this is the case, for I believe the committee is sincerely desirous of effecting all the reforms that are possible in this direction.

It seems to me (and I know that my opinion is shared by many others) that the facts already presented amply justify a recommendation by your committee in favor of mendation by your committee in favor of the establishment of a bureau or association to look after the freight interests of this community; but once you desire further facts, I have one of two of them which have letely been celled to my attention, and facts, I have one of two of them which have lately been called to my attention, and which I now bee leave to submit to you.

The city of Buffalo occupies exactly the same relative position on the Northern Trunk lines as the city of Pittsburg on the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohlo systems. Each of the cities is the dividing point between the Eastern and Western divisions of their respective lines. They are equi-distant from New York, while Pittsburg has the natural advantage of being 72 miles nearer to Chicago than Buffalo. On a fair adjustment of freights, therefore, the same rates should apply between New York and Pittsburg as between New York and Buffalo, while Pittsburg should have a slight advantage in Western rates.

Now what reasonable explanation can be given for the above condition of affairs, ex-cept that Buffalo has public spirited citi-zens who look out for her interests, while Pittsburg has none. We cannot expect your committee, nor can your committee expect any ordinary business man, or men, to make committee, nor can your committee expect any ordinary business man, or men, to make it their business to right this wrong, but if we would all combine we could, without taking too much of the time of any one of us, secure for Pittsburg the place which rightfully belongs to her. During the last decade the population of Buffalo increased from 185,134 to 285,694, or 64 per cent, while Pittsburg and Allegheny combined increased only 46 per cent, and this notwithstanding the fact that during this period, natural gas was discovered and developed right in our midst. The city of Buffalo is filling up with small manufactures which bring to the community an industrious population, who contribute to swell the deposits in the savings banks, and are endowed with every element of good citizenship. We on the contrary, are increasing (if at all) only in the line of heavy manufacturing, which attracts in the main only common laborers. The publication of the way in which the raffroads treat Buffalo as compared with Pittaburg, will perhaps afford some explantation of the difference in the relative progress of the two cities.

It is my opinion that a careful examination will develop the fact that the troight rates in and out of Pittsburg are relatively higher than those of any other city in the country of equal size and importance. I refer chiefly to the regular classified freight, and not to special commodities upon which individual shippers have secured exceptionally low rates.

individual shippers have secured exception

United Effort Will Be Sufficient.

I am further free to confess my belief that this condition exists and is maintained, not by reason of any prejudice existing in the minds of railroad people toward our city, nor from any desire on their part to act city, nor from any desire on their part to act
unfairly toward us, but simply because no carnest and diligent effort has been made on the part of our citizens to bring about a reform. If we can show, as I think we can,
that the revenues of the railroads will not be diminished, but on the contrary will be greatly increased by the readjustment of rates in the interest of our people, I am confident that the brainy men who dictate the policies of the various railroads will be quick to see the advantage that will accrue
to them, and will give us the concessions which or right belong to us. To bring them to this point, however, will require more time and attention than any volunteer can give to the task. It will also require more knowledge of the details of the business
than is possessed by any ordinary business
than is possessed by any ordinary business man. In short, it will require a railroad man of large experience and extensive information on the subject in question. I helieve that such a man can be found, and that the business men of Pittsburg will be willing to compensate him when the movement is once fairly organized.

The above letter will be read at the next meeting of the committee, and an effort will be made to have more light thrown upon the subject.

THE OPENING

OF KAUFMANNS NEW DRYGOODS DE-PARTMENT YESTERDAY.

uine and Most Agreeable Surprise to the Throngs Who Attended.

the Throngs Who Attended.

The latest enterprise of Kaufmanns', their new drygoods department, was yesterday successfully launched on the commercial ocean, in which it shall ever rank "A I" in the estimation of competent judges.

Nothing occurred to mar the brilliancy nor detract from the success of the occasion. A superb stock had been prepared to delight the eyes and please the taste of thousands of ladies who attended this important event. The markets of the world had been drawn on to provine novelties and fashionable fabrics, and the most courteous and willing assistance was rendered by a small army of salespeople to enable every visitor to see the grand result of months of unremitting work and careful preparation.

When Kaufmanns, some years ago, decided to add a ladies' cloak department to their already gigantic mart, wouldbe prophets predicted immediate disaster to the new enterprise, as the idea of carrying such goods in conjunction with men's apparel was an entirely new one in Pittsburg. The cloak addition proved a high success, however, and now Kaufmanns take another step forward in the path of progress with their immense new drygoods department, always and now Kaufmanns take another step forward in the path of progress with their immense new drygoods department, always assuring their patrons that the same broad policy and liberal methods shall prevail. The brilliant success of the new department is guaranteed alone by the competent joint management of two veteran drygoods men, viz., Mr. Ed E. Stover, until recently the proprietor of a large and prosperous drygoods house in Brooklyn, and Mr. J. A. Johnston, formerly buyer and manager of B. Lowenstine & Bros., of Memphis, Tenn., the largest and most complete establishment in the South.

This assuredly successful preliminary

This assuredly successful preliminary opening, grand as it has proved itself to be, is by no means to be considered the doubly grand formal opening which will be announced when the proper time comes and all la ready.

grand formal opening which will be announced when the proper time comes and all is ready.

Unmistakable evidence is apparent on every hand that a new era in the drygoods trade has dawned. Five weeks of valuable time have already been lost, due to the slowness of the contractor. This time must be made up somehow. Double sales must be made. It was expected that $150,009 worth of drygoods would be sold before Unristmas, and that expectation will undoubtedly be realized, but instead of $150,000 as Kaufmanns' share of the transaction, only $75,000 will come to their money drawer. The other $75,000 will be a sacrifice to the conditions demanding an immediate sale of the goods, and of course, will revert to the benefit of the buyers; a great sacrifice indeed, but the lost time must be made up and in no other way could this be done. The great bargain sale will continue without interruption until Christmas, and all energies will be bent on making up for the delayed opening. Although in reality the opening is rather beforehand, as the building is not as precisely as complete as could be desired as it was deeped advisable to opening is rather beforehand, as the building is not as precisely as complete as could be desired, yet it was deemed advisable to begin. The holiday season is fast approaching and thousands of buyers throng the streets. It would have been the height of folly to keep this elegant stock of drygoods unpacked while waiting the entire completion of the building, which would, in all probability, have preciaded the possibility of permitting the public to view the rare bargains which are now presented to the holiday trade.

Prices might be quoted, but it is best for Prices might be quoted, but it is best for the customer to come, see and judge for himself. A genuine surprise is guaranteed. Take advantage or this grand opportunity. Prompt attention as possible will be given, considering the jam. A well-lighted and comfortable salesroom, with every possible convenience, awaits the buyer.
