GIFTS FOR THE POOR.

Gusky's Break the Record in Giving Thanksgiving Turkeys to the Poor.

MANY BIG DINNERS GIVEN AWAY.

Two and a Half Hours Required to Accommodate the Crowds.

FIVE THOUSAND PEOPLE MADE HAPPY

It was a happy and expectant throng that crowded Market street yesterday morning in front of Gusky's clothing emporium. Long before the employes put in their appearance to begin the day's usual business, the sidewalk about the main entrance to the store was blockaded, and passing pedestrians had to take the other side of the street or wriggle through the surging mass of humanity. It was a cold morning, but they didn't mind that. Nor did they grumble when the wind came around the corner and threatened to blow many of the little tots away; for the little children and burly men were alike crowded together. The reason of all this good nature was not hard to find; for on one side of the store was a window piled high with turkeys. Each one in that happy throng apparently had a ticket carefully stowed away that at the proper time would be produced, and one of those big fat, plump fowls would be theirs.

Gusky's Thanksgiving Day.

It was Gusky's Thanksgiving Day. That meant a great deal to the poor of the two cities. For years past it has been the custom of this well-known firm, that is presided over by Mrs. J. M. Gusky, and that has won a high place in Pittsburg commercial circles, to distribute to the cities' poor hundreds of turkeys and trimmings for Thanksgiving dinner. It has become an established practice, and it is with pleasure they look forward to this as one of the happiest days in the whole year. Such munificence as practiced by Gusky's is worthy of high commendation. It brings pleasure to many a heart and satisfaction to many a stomach that would go unsatisfied were it not for the few who so liberally distribute this world's goods with which they have been so bountifully supplied.

Promptly at 8 o'clock the doors on the south side of the mammoth establishment were thrown open and the rush began. As the happy people filed in their faces and general make-up were a study worthy the trained eye of the closest student of nature. Men, women and children jostled each other and pushed forward for a common purpose—the receiving of a turkey. The representatives of every civilized nation on the face of the earth were noticed, and all stood side by side and expected to receive the same gift. People of all sorts, conditions races and occupations could be seen crowding through the doorway, and then down and lining up in front of the window, which was piled high with the things that bring cheer to a cold stomach and gladness to a sad heart.

Distributing the Turkeys.

Within a few minutes the large and capacious aisle was filled to overflowing and a halt had to be called. The door was closed so as to relieve the pressure and the work of distribution begun. That the turkey holds a warm place in the hearts of the people is attested by the eagerness with which it was sought yesterday. The fact that it was free also may have contributed to the general eagerness of the lucky ones who held a ticket which entitled them to one of the birds that is enshrined in the hearts of the American people, particularly on a holiday. At such times the eagle may scream, but when it comes to a matter of close counting and a question of fine discrimination of what is tasteful and beautiful and that lends joy to the sorrows of the whole world, the eagle is strictly not "in it" with the turkey. Such was the case yesterday. Everyone wanted a turkey. They apparently didn't care a snap for the rest of the world or what might be going on at that particular moment on other parts of this mundane sphere and they generally succeeded. If they didn't they either did not have a ticket or had neglected some other necessary qualification and had themselves to blame. The management was perfect. Not a hitch occurred. Every move of the experienced attendants was productive of some good work and the distribution of the gifts went on at a rapid rate. It was a happy moment for many a poor heart.

The Trimmings Went With It.

First the ticket was presented, and the size of the family for which the turkey was intended was whispered to the ticket receiver, who called out to his right-hand man, and he passed the good news on to the next. The fowl was selected and handed to the happy applicant. A quart or two of cranberries was next tossed into the basket or arms of the fortunate person. Turning to the right a patch of celery was encountered. No one was allowed to leave it until the stock of the firm had been diminished by at least two bunches or when the family was unusually large and a magnificent turkey graced the recipient of favors the gift was increased to three bunches. The ceremony was over. The effort had been made and the prize was won.

The next move was to get out of the store and home. If a record of all the happy thoughts, words of praise and exclamations of thanksgiving that escaped from the lips of the many who walked in and then walked out that store yesterday, for the one who was so thoughtful as to remember the less fortunate beings of this world and who tried to make them enjoy the good things of this life, they would indeed be a worthy record for anyone's life. Anyone who watched the people come and go could fully realize the memory of that old maxim, "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

Every Applicant Got a Turkey.

The hour for the distribution of the turkeys had been set early, so as to allow ample time for the preparation of the Thanksgiving dinner. It took nearly two hours to dispose of all the good things held in readiness for the anxious people. They came in such numbers that when the first supply was exhausted many more stood waiting their turn. Tardiness is the bane of humanity, and there will always be a few stragglers, whether after the good or bad things of this life. Some were there who had no ticket or had left them "lying on the table at home." These were stood aside to wait until the rush was past if they seemed to be in particular need. These did not all remain, but wended their way out of the store after watching the people come and go for a few moments. When the first stock had been distributed others were ordered and no deserving person went away without a Thanksgiving dinner. In all there were 700 turkeys given away, and into so many homes of Pittsburg and Allegheny were carried gladness and joy. The custom has become one of the features of the management of the Gusky firm, this being the seventh time it has been repeated.

In distributing the turkeys, and asking what sized family it was they served, some surprisingly sized ones were found. There were several numbering from 16 to 18 members each. These were given the heaviest fowls. Fully 5,000 people were made happy by yesterday's gifts, and each will have a word of praise for the donor. Some of these patrons have been regular callers at Gusky's on Thanksgiving, and as they report at the distributing window with each successive year their faces have become familiar. Nearly everyone asks for a large turkey each year, which gives evidence of a prosperous growth. By the worthy practice of giving annual gifts the poor as well as the rich are enabled to celebrate Thanksgiving in true American style, and many a sad heart is made glad.

OIL WELLS SHUT DOWN.

Contractors and Drillers Go Home for Thanksgiving—Drop of 500 Barrels in McDonald's Production—Work on the New Pipe Lines—Indiana Operations.

There was a general suspension of operations yesterday throughout the oil fields. It was as quiet as on a Sunday. In the Allegheny county fields many of the contractors and drillers live in Washington, Butler and other outlying points, and in the great majority of cases the drilling wells were shut down Wednesday afternoon and evening, and the men went to their homes.

There were no reports of the pipe line runs and shipments, with the exception of the W. L. Mellon lines. Their runs Wednesday amounted to 6,180 barrels, and the deliveries were 6,652 barrels.

The production of the McDonald field was reported to be 19,500 barrels, which is 500 less than on Wednesday. Yesterday morning the Woodland Oil Company's No. 2, on the Scott farm, was making 50 barrels an hour, and the well of Knox Bros. & Co., on the Scott property, was flowing 45 barrels an hour.

The Woodland Oil Company will commence to rig up this morning at its No. 3 on the Scott. It will be drilled by the Gormley Brothers.

In the eastern McCurdy district operators are awaiting developments at the Forest Oil Company's well on the A. P. Clever farm, which is located west of south from their big one on the D. K. Clever, and if it proves dry in the fifth sand they will then expect the pool to go east and west, and will watch Greenlee & Forst's Aiken farm well, which is located to the west.

Greenlee & Forst's well on the Woods farm north of Gregg station is due in the fifth sand to-day or to-morrow.

Undercliff Wells in the Sand.

At Undercliff Wittmer & Co. are in the top of the 30-foot sand on the Gilner farm, and Mercer and McClurg are in the same formation on the Muller property.

Jennings & Co. may reach the third sand to-morrow on the Herman farm, and Patterson & Sohn will be in the bottom of the 30-foot to-day on the Zucker farm. Their Erhmentrout is on top of the fourth sand.

Work on the New Pipe Lines.

The United States Pipe Line Company which is building a line from Titusville through the northern tier counties to a point on the Hudson river, has taken advantage of the late dry weather, and have laid the line across all of the large streams while they were at the low water mark. They will thus avoid any difficulties which they would no doubt have encountered had they attempted to cross the streams during the winter or spring. Much of the pipe has been strung along the proposed route, and by the time the stations are completed they expect to have the pipe connected. This, they say, will be in March or the early part of April.

The Producers and Refiners' line which will connect the United States line and the Titusville refineries with the lower fields is almost completed. Less than half a dozen miles of pipe are yet to be laid.

Increased Activity in Indiana.

The Indiana fields are attracting a great deal of attention just now, and many of the Pennsylvania operators have been visiting the Hoosier pools recently. They claim it is cheaper drilling in that territory, and that the wells which are producers hold up much better than they do in this State. The most extensive operations are in Jay and Wells counties, with a small amount in Adams county. The present production of these is about 6,000 barrels, half of which is in Jay county, 1,500 in Wells and the balance in Adams county.

AN ARISTOCRATIC WEDDING.

The Brazilian Minister's Daughter Married to a Chicago Gentleman.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—[Special.]—The most aristocratic and exclusive wedding of the season was celebrated this evening at the residence of the Brazilian minister, Senor Salvador de Mendonca, when his daughter, Amelia de Mendonca, was married to Archibald McKean, of Chicago. The house of the Legation was beautifully decorated with flowers and with the rare works of art which the Minister looks upon as his most precious possessions. The company was in keeping with the taste of the father of the bride, and instead of the fashionable mob which might have been expected, there was but a small company of the most select of the art and literary circles of the capital.

Remembering the standing of the Minister in society and the customs usual in diplomatic swelldom, it was one of the most remarkable weddings that have ever occurred in the city.

In Olden Times

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action, but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.
