played last Saturday and on the occasion of the second game with the A. A. A. a.'s, and the eleven of the A. A. A.'s that lined up on Columbus Day at Washington, D. C., and at Cleveland. To this proposition no reply has been received from the A. A. A. A. s, but vesterday a member of that associntion said he saw no reason why such a game might not take place.

A Good Close for the Season. It would be a fitting close of the season, he said, and would eliminate the differences which exist between the two organizations.

Learned Some Lessons This Year. Manager Barbour, of the P. A. C.'s, said yesterday that the P. A. C.'s were ready to disband for the season. The team had learned a good deal this season by its games with the college teams and it would profit by it next year. The material of the team as good, as good as was to be found in the college teams, but the services of a coacher were needed and this would be supplied next year. He believed that with proper coaching and the bringing here of such teams as Lehigh and others of a high class, the public would take even a greater inter-

As for the fact that Lomax played in Cleveland with A. A. A. after having promised to play on the P. A. C. team, and disappointing them at the eleventh hour, Mr. Barbour would express no opinion. He anderstood that Lomax had been called to Cleveland by a telegram, and that being there he played with the A. A. A.'s. At any rate Lomax had asked him to reserve his opinion until given an opportunity to explain, and he hoped that his action could be satisfactorily accounted for The matter of another game between the two teams will be settled in a day or two, and if it takes place the date will in all probability be December 3 or Saturday

Secretary Matthews states that any team wanting to arrange a game with the Pittsburg club's reserves can do so by communicating with him. The eserves, are a good lot and probably strong enough to beat any of the teams in Western Pennsylvania. It is likely that some of them will be tried in the regular team.

The Umpire a Victim.

In England the umpire at a football match has as hard a time of it as a baseball umpire in America is supposed to have in the fanny newspapers. At Swansea the other day Umnewspapers. At Swansea the other day Umpire Harding rendered a decision that everybody did not like. There was a wild howl, and an excited and angry crowd swooped down upon him. It was only the presence of the police that saved him. They made a hollow square, put lifm in the center of it, and excerted him to a place where the feetball players could not get at him. There was only one football death this week. Something of a revolution of feeling is coming over the British mind on the subject of athletics.

The sea dogs won the day and proudly carried off the pennant. It was a close fight and a rictory was hard earned. The naval cadets scored 12 and the military cadets 4. Annapolis won the toes, and chose the south end of the field, although the wind was against them. There was a grand scrimmage at the opening, which lasted ten or 12 minutes. The ball moved hardly a foot on either side; inch by inch Annapolis forced the pigskin toward West Point's territory, and at length succeeded in pushing the ball across the five-yard limit. At that point there was another severe scrimmage. In about two minutes West Point, by a pass, succeeded in getting

THE SEA DOGS DEFEAT THE LANDSMEN

The prospect of another game between A. A. A. and P. A. C. football teams is agitating the minds of the enthusiasts and to some extent the players. At the opening of the season some of those interested in the game proposed a series of three games between the two teams in the event of each of these winning a game. The first contest resulted in a tie and the second in the defeat of the P. A. C., with the assistance of Heffelfinger. Donnelly and Malley, and to the minds of many did not determine the question as to which is the strongest team.

Shortly after the last game Manager Barbour made a proposition to the effect that the two regular teams play a game to decide the mooted point. By regular teams was meant the eleven of the P. A. C. that played last Saturday and on the occasion of the second game with the A. A. A.'s, and THE AMERICA CUP.

THE AMERICA CUP.

Englishmen Think the Americans Are Not Acting Fairly With Dunraven.

THY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH. LONDON, Nov. 26 .- [Copyright.] -The general public here takes but very languid interest in Lord Dunraven's professed desire to arrange a match for the America cup, and his Lordship's action has not evoked anything which exist between the two organizations. "Of course," he said, "there must always be a spirit of rivalry between the A. A. A.'s and the P. A. C.'s but there is no need that there should be a stronger feeling, and I. as a member of the A. A. A.'s, would be glad to see such a game."

Continuing, he said: "There is no doubt that if the weather is pleasant such a game would draw out the largest crowd of the season and put money in the treasury of both associations. This is a large community and there is plenty of room for the two associations, or for more than that if accessary. It is instural for each to desire to excel, but there should be no underhand cork on either side. Let each come out and say what it intends to do and then do it. "In case there is an arrangement made for another game both associations should name the team and the sporting should name remotely resembling enthusiasm, even among the British yachtsmen. Nine out of Anything in addition outside the corners of that deed of gift is a swindle."

POPULABITY OF BASEBALL

The following is from the current issue of the Sporting Life that any changes in the practice of the game are needed to revive popular interest in baseball, and attributes the manifest decline to something altogether different. It

"Let me point out one thing absolutely necessary, and that is to find out the cause of the decline of baseball interest before we begin to apply remedies. If we do this we'll find that the playing rules have had noth-ing to do with it. The revolt of the players caused the whole trouble. When they made ing to do with it. The revolt of the players caused the whole trouble. When they made their most unjustifiable break everything was clorious. Their revolt gave rise to leelings of dislike, hatred, indifference and disgust among baseball patrons that have not died away."

It that be true, how comes it, then, that the attendance for the first half of the year 1892 exceeded that of any year since 1897 No, no! The fact that the attendance was the best in three years in the first half of the season, and dwindled to almost nothing in the second half, shows conclusively that the public had become tired of the game itself, hence we must seek the remedy for popular indifference within the game as played, and not within the financial or political features of it.

GENERAL SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

It may be that Harry Staley will be one of the Pittsburg ball club's pitchers next season. Efforts have been made to secure him and negotions are still going on. The Boston club has decided to release him and he is at liberty to go where he pleases. A gentleman who knows something about the matter said last evening: "Manager Buckenberger has had a conference or two with Staley relative to the latter's coming here. Nothing definite has been done, but if Staley wants to come back to Pittsburg he can come. I think I can get him here if the club officials keep in the same opinion about wanting him Staley is a powerful and speedy pitcher and will be one of the best next year when the pitcher is put back a few feet. The club will need a man like Staley, because Knell will be sadly handicapped if the Knell will be sadly handicapped if the pitcher has to go further back. I will be surprised if Knell is any good at all next year if the pitcher is put back, and I will be surprised if Harry Staley is not one of the star pitchers under the new conditions."

Manager Buckenberger had nothing to say regarding the Staley matter. The manager pointed out that the club was after one or two good men, and that they would likely be signed. "We will have one of the best teams in the League," he said. "We are quite prepared for any change "We are quite prepared for any change there may be made in the playing rules. Knell may be good or he may be bad. I don't know, but I do know that we will have a team that will surprise somebody."

George Baker, a young man living in Allegheny, furnished the surprise of the night, although it was known that he was a good swimmer, it was not thought that he would make such a splendid showing as he did. Unaccustomed as he was to turning in a pool his time in the final of the novice race of 64 seconds, nearly comes to record time. John T. Tavior also swam a plucky race, both in the quarter-mile and in the four length handicap. But the heavy odds in giving starts to such swimmers as Bert Price and Baker was too much even for such a splendid swimmer as Taylor to overcome. Will Snauwecker took sick during the novice race and that accounts why he did not show up better in the 20-lengths handicap. Profs. Joseph McEwan and James Fox particularly delighted the spectators with their graceful swimming that night, and the latter's dive from the beam at the roof into five feet of water was a very pretty sight.

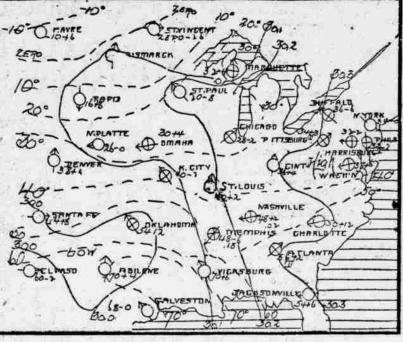

at the roof into five feet of water was a very pretty sight.

The poto teams gave a very good exhibit of the game, and the single goal made by John Brady was only made after the hardest kind of work and a series of passing by him and Faker. Captain Taylor received notice that he could expect to get a challenge any time from some amateurs in the city, and he says he is willing to match his team against any other amateur team in the city for gold medals to the winners and have the match come off on New Fear's. The cub wishes to extend its thanks to the generous donors of the handsome prizes given to the firsts and seconds.

With that Jackson struck the fellow on the jaw and knocked lim out completely. The fight ended then and there.

fession and in social life the news of the death of Miss Lizzie Montgomery, of the Franklin school, and sister of Willgheny national Bank, was a severe shock gheny actional Bank, was a severe shock. She was forced to give up her school duties a month ago from nervous prostration. She caught cold which developed in pneumonia, and as the opening hours of the glad Thanksgiving morning were fleating by her spirit passed away. She graduated from the High School in 1871, and has been teaching in the Franklin school since. A feature of her character was her great conscientiousness. Hers was the directing hand in the happy Montgomery household, and in home, social and educational circles there is a gap caused by her death which cannot well be filled. Her sister is also a teacher in the Franklin school.
