ECONOMY IS URGED

By President-Elect Cleveland as the Corner Stone for His Party

TO BUILD SOLIDLY UPON.

A Conservative Speech Delivered Before the Reform Club.

LITTLE OF HIS POLICY OUTLINED.

But Enough to Indicate That He Fully Intends for His Party TO LIVE UP TO ALL OF ITS PLEDGES

NEW YORK, December 10.-Statesmen dined a statesman to-night in the concert hall of the Madison Square Garden. It was the Reform Club's dinner to Presidentelect Grover Cleveland but the dinner. exquisite as it was, is an after consideration, though it came first on the regular programme. The speeches delivered by the statesman and the statesmen after the dinner had been disposed of were the attractive features of the occasion.

It was the prospect of brilliant oratory and wise counsel that filled the boxes and galleries with men and women interested in the welfare of the Government. It was not the dinner that attracted them, and the audience was not disappointed. A number of the leading statesmen of the Democratic party, and of the nation, for that matter, spoke, and they spoke well and to the They said brilliant things in a brilliant wav and gave wise counsel, and the people who crowded the boxes and the galleries were immensely pleased, judging by their approval in the way of vigorous applause.

The statesmen and patriots who spoke, aside from President-elect Cleveland, were Carl Schurz, Senator Roger Q. Mills, of Texas; ex-Governor James E. Campbell, of Ohio; Governor-Elect Stone, of Missouri W. C. Breckenridge, of Kentucky: Senator Carlisle, and Congressman Thomas L. Johnson, of Ohio Hon, William R. Morrison, of Illinois, was to have made an address, but death in his family prevented

Mr. Whitney an Honored Guest. Everything was in readiness for the guests at 7 o'clock. Flowers and foliage plants from the tropics were tastefully ar-ranged about the hall. The honored and listinguished guest came half an hour later. He was accompanied by ex-Secretary Whitney, E. Ellery Anderson and one or two others. As the President-elect entered the all there was a general clapping of hands, to which he gracefully bowed.

A noticeable feature of the dinner was the number of out-of-town statesmen present. Almost every State was represented.
At least one-third of the 575 who sat down at the dinner were from out of the city.

The speakers' table was on the platform of the hall, so that not only the diners but the people in the boxes and palleries had no lifficulty in seeing and hearing the speakers and speeches. Fourteen other tables were arranged on the floor, in rows seven wide and two deep, the eight aisles extending lengthwise of the hall. At each table were seated 37 persons. An additional table was placed in the assembly room, at which 20 members of the club sat. There were no toasts on the menu cards.

What Mr. Cleveland Had to Say. The presiding officer announced the The first was the one for whom all were most anxiously waiting-Presi-dent-elect Cleveland. He spoke in a tone that reached every part of the hall, and was often interrupted by applause. He said:

Mr. President and Ladies and Gentlemen: Mr. President and Ladies and Gentlemen:

I have nothing new or startling to say to you, and I hope to do little more than remind you of the meaning and significance of this occasion. As we are here gathered together we represent those who have been willing to risk all consequences in a battle for principles which are grounded on purest patrotism, because they accord with the purposes and objects of our free institutions.

A plain feature of this gathering, which I am sure warms the hearts of all of us, is our A plain reature of this gathering, which I am sure warms the hearts of all of us, is our celebration of one of the grandest and most complete victories ever achieved in the struggle for right and justice; and our glad greeting of the brightest light of triumph our generation has seen, bursting from the clauds of defeat and discouragement.

Let me surgest to you, however, that we can contemplate nothing more gratifying in connection with this assemblaze than the proof it affords that the American people proof it affords that the American people can be trusted to manage the Government which has been given into their keeping.

Faith and Confidence Must Be Kept. If there are those who have been disappointed and disheartened by the extent to which our people have been deceived and misted, or who, with fear, have seen heedlessness of the duty of citizenship open wide the door of corrupting influences, or who, with sad forebodings, have beheld popular rule nearing the satal rocks of a debauched enfinge, or who have mourned because ap-peals to selfishness and promises of unequal advantages were apparently undermining that patrictism which alone justifies our ope of national prosperity, let this occa-ion and the events which have led to it rematate their faith and their confidence in

If it has seemed to those striving for better public sentiment that the disposition was growing among our people to regard their Government as a depository of individual benefits, to be importuned and threatened and despoiled, let them take heart from the evidences before their eyes, that there is still abroad in the land a controlling belief that our Government should be a source of just and beneficent rule, proudly supported by free men, protected by their care and watchfulness, and returning to all our people, with equal hand, the safety and happiness it holds in store for tilem. heir countrymen.
If it has seemed to those striving for bet-

Decelt Sure to Overreach Itself. If we have learned that an appeal to the patriotism of our countrymen, and an hon-est presentation of political principles to wain, the thought must not escape us that while our people will in the end repay with their support the political party which addresses their understanding and reason, instead of their prejudices and selfish interests, they will surely revenge themselves upon those who decairs. stead of their prejudices and selfish interests, they will surely revenge themselves upon those who deceive or betray them.

The National Democracy and its allies in position principle rejoice over the defeat of those whose fate is full of instruction and warning. While we find in our triumph a result of nopular intelligence which we have aroused, and a consequence of popular vigilance which we have stimulated, let us not for a moment forget that our accession to power will find neither this intelligence nor this vigilance dead or similaring. We are thus brought face to face with the reflection that if we are not to be formented by the spirits which we ourselves have called up, we must hear above victorious shouts the call of our fellow countrymen to public call of our fellow countrymen to public duty, and must put on a garb befitting public servants.

The sentiment suggested by this occasion which should dwarf all others has relations which should dwarf all others has relations to the responsibility which awaits those who now rejoice in victory. If we redeem the promises we have made to the voters of our land the difficulty of our task can hardly be exaggerated All Must Be on an Equal Plane.

Conditions involving most important in-terests must be reviewed and modified, and perplexing problems menacing our safety must be settled. Above all, and as the ultimate object of all we do, the rights and ultimate object of all we do, the rights and the welfare of our people in every condition in life must be placed upon a more equal plane of opportunity and advantage.

I am confident the wisdom of the Democratic party will be equal to the emergency, and I hase my confidence upon the belief that it will be patriotically true to its principles and traditions and will follow the path marked out by true American sentiment.

We should not enter upon our work in the least spirit of resentment, nor in heedless disregard of the welfare of any portion of our citizens. The mission of our party, and the reforms we contemplate do not involve nor a destructive discrimination between American interests.

In order that we may begin with free hands, we should vigorously oppose all delusions which have their origin in undemocratic teachings or in demagogic attempts to deceive the people. Here catch words, which, if they meaning, have no relation to sound policy, and phrases, invented to please the ear of the victims of cunning greed, ought not to stand in our way. Looking beyond all these things we shall find just principles, furnishing a vantage ground from which we can lay out a safe course of action.

A Plea for Rigid Economy

We should strive to rid ourselves and ou ountrymen of the idea that there is any thing shabby of disgraceful in ecor whether in public or private life. If ex-travagance in public expenditure has prevailed in the past, it affords no excuse for vailed in the past, it affords no excuse for its continuance; and there is no breach of dury so palpable as the waste of money held by public servants for the people's uses. Our Government was founded in a spirit of frurality and economy, and its administration should not depart from those lines. We need no glitter nor show to divert our people from turbulent thoughts. We have a more substantial guarantee against discontent in a plain and simple plan of rule in which every citizen has a share. In order that this should do its perfect work, it is essential that there should exist among our people a wholesome and dislinterested our people a wholesome and disinterested love for their Government, for its own sake, and because it is a heritage belonging to all. The cultivation of such a sentiment is not only a high duty but an absolute necessity to the consummation of the reference.

The cultivation of such a sentiment is not only a high duty but an absolute necessity to the consummation of the reforms we enter upon. We shall utterly and diagracefully fail if we attempt these reforms under the influence of petry partisan scheming or the fear of jeopardizing personal political fortunes. They can only be accomplished when unselfish patriotism guides the aspirations of our people and regulates the action of their chosen servants.

We who are to be charged with the responsibility of making and executing the laws should begin our preparation for the task by a rigid self-examination and by a self-purgation from all ignoble and unworthy tendencies threatening to enter into our motives and designs. Then may we enjoin upon all our countrymen the same duty and then may we hope to perform faithfully and successfully the work entrusted to our hands by a confiding people.

Tom Johnson Demands Free Trade.

Tom Johnson Demands Free Trade, Hon Tom L. Johnson, of Cleveland,

spoke as follows: The Democratic party has been long used to defeat. Now it faces the responsibility to defeat. Now it faces the responsibility of a sweeping victory. Only party honesty and party courage can guide it safely. The real danger is not from without, but from within; not from open enemies, but from half-hearted friends; not that we may go too fast and too far in abelishing protection, but that we may not go fast and far enough. What the masses demand of the Democratic party is that it shall conform practice to profession; that its action shall be as radical as its platform.

It is not the people, but the leaders, who It is not the people, but the leaders, who now need education on the tariff question. The people indicated their will in the Congressional election of 1890, they again indicated it in Chicago by forcing the nomination of Mr. Cleveland against the politicians and a radical platform against a protectionist majority report. And again they have spoken, and with a determination that will brook no delay. We must do something commensurate with our victory.

Agreat idea is again beginning to move in American politics. The Democratic avalanche has started. It will rend the party that tries to play with it; it will crush who-that tries to play with it; it will erush who-ever seeks to block its way. What a Con-gress can do is controlled by its organiza-tion. The will of the people will be thwarted and the next Congress paralyzed thwarted and the next Congress paralyzed if we azain put half-hearted men in the lead. In organizing the new House let us remember that "party nonesty is party duty, and party courage is party expediency," and put in the lead men who will not palter with protection. We need not fear the free trader or the single taxer. The man whom the Democratic party has to fear in its whom the Democratic party has to fear in its councils is the sugar-coated protectionist. The quicker he goes elsewhere the better. We need his room. The masses trust hon-esty and love courage. They despise a trimesty and love courage. They despise a trimmer and hate a coward.

We should not be frightened by a deficit nor hampered by any supposed necessity of continuing the extravagance of protectionist profileacy. Nor need we fear that the people will not submit to direct taxation. What they will no longer submit to are the taxes on consumption, which throw the burden on those least able to bear it.

Mills Says Labor Must Be Emp'oved. Hon. Roger Q. Mills spoke after Mr. Johnson and Carl Schurz, saying, among other things on tariff legislation:

In proceeding to prepare the measure which is to be substituted for the present law of taxation one subject must stand prominent, overstopping and overshadowing all others: that one is that we must see that whatever measure of taxation we adopt shall not only not impair the right of Americal shall not only not impair the right of American people to labor and to market the products of their labor, but to see that the employment of the labor of the whole country shall be a prime object of the Democratic party when it represents party when it prepares its measures for adoption. [Applause.]

The next speaker was ex-Governor James E. Campbell, of Ohio, who said: "Party success comes not from principles without men, nor from men without principles, but from the union of men and principles." Mr. Campbell's speech was witty, and heartily applauded. William J. Stone, Governor-elect of Missouri, voiced the sentiment of the West thus:

The Western Democracy means to reap the fruits of this great victory. They mean to have the wall which greed has built circling the Republic torn down, to re-establish the largest possible intercourse with the world, and to restore the merchant navy. Our Western Democracy is in serious earnest. If any man there be in public life who now desires to hesitate, let him be damned.

Over a Set of Congratulatory Resolutions to Be Sent to Cleveland.

DENVER, Dec. 10 .- [Special.]-The Greystone Club, the leading Democratic organiration of the West, is going to send to President-elect Grover Cleveland a congratulatory address written on a scroll of Colerado silver. It will be in a silver case of the most beautiful design. The address is signed by A. B. McKinley, President of the club, and Ellis B. Spencer, Secretary. The People's party faction of the Democracy, of which Hon. T. M. Patterson is the leader, object to the Greystone Club congratulating Mr. Cleveland on his success. They say that no partisanship is admitted into the club, and that this effort on the part of McKinley is a snub to Patterson, who ostensibly opposed the election of Mr. Cleveland. They say further, that it was not the gift of the club, but of a few friends of Mr. McKinley who are anxious for

New Haven Detectives Claim to Be Able to Convict 15 or 20 of Them.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Dec. 10.-The excitement among the Yale undergraduates over the arrest of several of their number for indulging in last Saturday night's disturbance was renewed this afternoon. Shortly after 3 o'clock, Detective Sergeant Cowles arrested Fred Wyrehauser, a member of the Freshman class, whose home is Minneapolis. He was charged with breach of the peace, and released a few minutes after arrest under $150 bonds. Other arrests are expected.

Detectives have been employed during the past week, gathering evidence, and it is said they have secured witnesses enough to convict 15 or 20 of the students. Wyrehauser is the man supposed to have thrown the torpedo which nearly blinded Adler, one of the musicians. If he is convicted, Adler will institute civil proceedings against him, claiming heavy damages.

MISS HALL YET LOST.

Nine Searching Parties Fail to Find the Missing Young Lady

AFTER LOOKING FOR MANY HOURS.

Fears That She Bas Committed Suigide, as It Is Learned

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. 1 NEW CANAAN, CONN, Dec. 10 .- Soon after dark this evening the last of the nine searching parties, who have been scouring the country south, southeast and southwest of here, returned, and none of them reported having found even a clew of the pissing Miss Julia H. Hall, daughter of Banker Russell L. Hall, of this town.

The search to-day was pursued in the directions only of Stamford, Darian, and along the Branchville road, because information that seemed almost positive came to the family last night that Miss Hall was seen within three hours of her disappearance vesterday afternoon walking south on the Marine road, about two miles south of here. To-night that clew turns out to be of a very doubtful character, and there is absolutely nothing now to guide the searchers, who will start out again to-morrow at

Soon after Miss Hall was found at New Rochelle, after her Thanksgiving Day dis-appearance, a Miss De Wolfi, of Hartford, came to visit the Halls and remained until Good Effects of Companionship.

She had been an intimate schoolgirl friend of Miss Hall at the Connecticut Normal School, and her companionship had a beneficent effect upon Miss Hall, raising her spirits to such a degree that the family thought all danger of a return of the mental depression from which Miss Hall had suffered had entirely passed.

suffered had entirely passed.

Within a few days Miss Hall had resumed her old place in the evening family gatherings. Yesterday, however, she did seem depressed at the prospect of Miss De Wolff's departure, and this relapse was unfortunately aggravated by the undisguised curiosity expressed about her condition by two women who called and were seen by Miss Hall.

When Miss De Wolff left the house Julia was lying on a lounge in the dining room, and did not go to the door to say goodby. Mrs. Hall did, and then busied herself about some household duties. At 4:15—Miss De Wolff having left at 4—a neighbor, Mrs. Raymond, called. She was shown into the sitting room, adjoining the the dining room.

Mrs. Hall stepped into the dining room and asked Julia if she would see Mrs. Ray-mond. Julia said she preferred not to do so, and as Mrs. Hall returned to her guest she halt closed the door so that the lounge where Julia lay would be hidden from Mrs. Raymond. That was the last her mother of her. It is the last, so far as is positively known, that anyone saw of her,

When Mrs. Raymond left, at about 4:30 o'clock, Mrs. Hall went to the dining room, and missing her daughter, made a hurried search of the house, and then went around the neighborhood with the news that Julia had again disappeared. One of the first places searched was the well just outside the back door of Mr. Hall's house by which

The search was made for a reason that is made public now for the first time. Three weeks before her first disappearance, Julia came into ner house with all her clothes saturated with water. She explained to her amazed mother that she had just tried to drown berself in the well.

An Attempt to Drown Herself. The well bucket is drawn by a chain. had lowered herself by the chain and crouched in the bottom of the well. There was only a foot of water there then, and she could not get her head under, although by crouching down she had brought the water up to her throat. Failing in her attempt to drown herself she had climbed up by the chain to the surface

This story was told by Rev. Mr. Bowers, who added that for a slight, delicate woman, incumbered with clothing heavy with water, to climb up a small chain out of a deep well seems to him an almost superhuman feat. This, connected with the facts regarding Miss Hall's previous disappearance, has created a general belief here that the unfortunate woman, manifestly afflicted with a suicidal mania, has provided some sure eans of doing away with herself.

Miss Hall is pretty, popular and 33 years old. Last spring, owing to ill health, she was obliged to give up a position she had long held in the borough postoffice and also that of librarian of the free reading room. She is a lady of culture and education, a prominent and active member of the Methodist Church and the Epworth League, and a leader in the society of her native town.

A SILVER CHAMPION'S VIEWS.

enator Teller Opposed to the Repeal of the Sherman Law.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. - Senator Teller, one of the warmest champions of silver, is very decidedly opposed to the repeal of the Sherman silver law, and looks upon the bill introduced by Mr. Hill as a menace to the white metal. "I am opposed to any interference with the Sherman act," said Mr. Teller to-day, "for any repeal of that law means the further depreciation of silver. Of course the law is not what it ought to be, and we have always SHE ONCE TRIED TO DROWN HERSELP looked upon it as a temporary expedient but it affords some relief. Until something better and more permanent is given us, the silver men would naturally be opposed to its repeal. The Hill bill, or any similar measure, would depreciate silver ever lower than it now is, and increase the evil instead of remedying it.".

Mr. Teller thinks there will be no attempt at sliver legislation this session, cer-tainly not until after the Brussels conference has reached some conclusion. "If that conference," continued Mr. Teller, "does not do anything looking to relief, then we must do it. I am hopeful, however, that conference will accomplish something, although it seems probable that it will adjourn over until spring." Referring to the President's message, Mr. Teller said he could not understand wha the President meant by saying we could meet the European demand for our gold by legislation. "We are the debtor nation," observed the Senator, "and cannot dictate terms, much less legislate to suit ourselves in the matter. We owe several hundred millions to Europe, and our securities are gilted-ged. When they come due and are dumped upon us we have no choice but to pay them, and pay them in gold, too. Europe has two ways of getting our gold; the one is by securing the balance of trade and the other by demand-ing the payment of our bonds and obligaions as they fall due. If we have unfavor ble legislation on the tariff that permit the unloading of vast amounts of imports this balance of trade may go to Europe. incerely trust that this will not be ti e case, but the incoming Democratic Congress has its own ideas about this matter, and they may revise the tariff so that we will find before us a condition we have not experithe other side of the ledger, and the con-sequential demand of English tradesmer or gold in payment for commercial debts, largely over-balancing our exports. The remedy for this condition which Mr. Teller thinks may, under certain condi-tions, arise, he finds in the broader use of silver for monetary purposes. "If we could secure the universal increased use of silver as money we could decrease the demand for old," said Mr. Teller, "and this is what we ought to have. An enlarged use of silgold, and would make the demand for that metal very materially less than it now is."

Patrick Mannan Is Crushed by Lumber Falling on Him

WHILE IN AN ELEVATOR SHAFT.

His Stomach Forced out and His Intestines Protruded.

THE INJURED MAN CANNOT RECOVER There was a frightful accident in the Magee building vesterday, and Patrick Mannan will lose his life by it.

The building is not entirely completed and Architect Balph still has a force, of men working there. Yesterday some of his employes were pulling lumber up the elevator shaft, and Mannan was among the number. He was stationed in the cellar tying a rope around the boards. The material had been pulled up without accident all day until along about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. At that time Mannan tied two boards to the rope and started them on their upward journey. The lumber had reached the third floor when the knot loosened. The boards dropped straight down without the least bit of noise. Mannan was standing directly underneath them. He was struck on the left side, opening the abdominal cavity. Mannan's stomach was forced out by the blow and a couple of feet of his intestines. Two ribs were broken also, and one of them was run through the lung.

Mannan was removed to the Homeopathic Hospital as quickly as possible. He was suffering awfully. The accident is considered by the physicians there as a most remarkable one. It is very rare that the stomach is forced out by such an injury. When taken to the hospital the man was breathing through the hole in his side. He will die. Mannan lives on Mt. Washington and is 40 years of age.

200 Smithfield street. CLASH OF WHITE AND BLACK.

Colored W. C. T. U. Delegates Refuse Flock Only by Themselves. Sr. Louis, Dec, 10.-[Special]-The interesting feature of last night's banquet of the W. C. T. U. was the clash between the colored and white delegates. When the guests filed out to supper the ladies and gentlemen of color took seats promiscuously among the whites, and were requested to be seated at the table reserved for colored delegates. They became very much incensed, and left the hall in a body. They talked so loudly that the doors had to be closed between the banquet hall and the vestibule before the invocation ankle. could be sung.

The ladies in charge of the banquet urged the colored delegates to return, but they retused to do so unless permitted to resume their former seats. The seats had meantime been occupied by white people, who were finally requested to remove and find seats in another part of the hall as the color means of resilving the colored the only means of pacifying the colored delegates. Then came harmony. Not only did the colored delegates leave the banquet hall, but they threatened to withdraw from the union.

been troubled with a skin disease which caused scores to constantly break out on my lace and the top of my head. My hair was very scant, and constantly filled with dandruff. I have been treated by eminent specialists on skin diseases, also tried all the different remedies advertised, all to no purpose. At last I tried CUTICURA. CUTICURA SOAP, and CUTICURA HESOLVENT. The result, after ten weeks' treatment, was wonderful, I am entirely cured. No more sores on my head or face, no more dandruff in my hair, complexion clear, scalp clean and hair thick. Wonderful! What can I do to express my gratitude to the CUTICURA REMEDIES?

GEORGE B. DAVIS,

18615 W. 15th St., New York, N. Y. Two of my boys were seriously affected with exzema, so that it was intolerable to bear. I had tried all remedies by physicians, who falled to redieve us, but in one month from the time I began using CUTICUTA REMEDIES, we were all well. One of my boys bad it about five months, I would recommend them to all persons so afflicted.
