nothing to be arrested for, claiming he has merely been soliciting funds for the strikers. He says also he took an active part in causing the truce between the Pinkerton men and the strikers."

WHAT HOMESTEADERS SAY.

Physicians There Do Not Give Much Credenge to the Sensation—The Presence of Soldlers Had Much to Do With the Sick-

Dr. Hamnett, of Homestead, in speaking of the latest sensation, said: "At the time there was so much sickness in the mills several physicians and myself had a talk about the matter. We thought it extraordinary that the disease should appear at intervals and in such severity. The idea of poison was broached, but was excluded, as the fact of an encampment of several thousands of soldiers on the side of a hill above the mill seemed to us to give an ample cause for the sickness. It has always been the case that when large bodies of men are gathered together and fed, as in the war, that the greatest thing they have to contend with is diarrhea. This, with the situation of the mill so that it would get the full effects of the drainage from the camps; the peculiar circumstances under which the men were there unsettled, nervous, fearful of the position in which they were placed, all tended to impair the men's digestive organs, and it is no wonder the disease appeared. The disease in the mill was different from that epidemio in the town. The latter was typhoid fever, but the former was in the nature of an obstinate diarrhoa."

Dr. Weible, who is resident physician in the Homestead mills, did not speak as though he had much mith in the poisoning story. He said: "The epidemic within the mill was certainly alarming, the type of diarrhosa being of the most obstinate kindour medicines very rarely affecting it. We never had any foods examined for poison. The State Board of Health thought it had struck upon the cause when they visited us, but even refraining from the use of the river water did not exempt a person from the disease. One feature which seems to point toward poisoning is the fact that the sickness broke out in one dining place at a time. No. 6, the last cook house to be visited by the epidemic, developed the most serious cases. Men would be taken sick at their meals and rush away from the table. I think this can be accounted for by the presence of the soldiers on the hill."

Manager Linderman, of the City Poor Farm, did not think it was the river water that caused the sickness in the mill. "We receive our drinking water supply from a spring on the hill, but with all our providing, we cannot prevent our inmates using river water. It was just so during the time of sickness at the mills. The majority of our patients drank the water which comes the river below the sewer outlets of the Carnegie mill, and vet never a one had nny siekness such as was prevalent in the

Dr. Barten, a prominent physician, said that he attributed the sickness to typhoid lever, and that the idea that the men were poisoned was absurd. All the physicians and druggists seen expressed themselves in

GALLAGHER IS IN TOWN.

The Carnegie Steel Company Is Keeping Him Hid-He Quit Work Yesterday and Was Reported to Have Left Town Said to Be Scared.

Patrick Gallagher, the cook, who is alleged to have confessed to the Carnegie Company of the poisoning at Homestead, is still in town. He is being kept under cover Yesterday a DISPATCH man tried to locate him, but Gallagher could not be found. The alleged confessor was employed at Porter's restaurant in the Diamond. He only quit there yesterday morning. When the reporter called at the eating house in the afternoon, the manager was buckward in speaking of Gallagher. He finally admitted that the cook had left them at 8 o'clock in the morning, having been called away by his wife. The restaurant keeper said that he did not know where Gallagher lived, and, after some besitancy, said that the information might be learned at 110 Water street. A call was made there, but the residence of Gallagher could not be learned.

Gallagher was well known in this establishment. He had been a cook on the river for a number of years and has been about Pittsburg for the past 18 years. place the reporter was told that Gallagher had left Pittsburg at 8 o'clock in the morning. Where he went was upknown. The gentleman giving this information saw Gallagher Sunday night and said the man was badly scared.

Later in the afternoon it was learned that Gallagher was still in town. He was seen on Grant street shortly before noon. He was then said to be somewhat agitated, and was afraid of his life. He is said to be fearful lest some of the men against whom he is alleged to have damaging testimony will try to get him out of the way. Gallagher is a man of about 37 years of age. He is slimly built and 5 feet 7 His hair is very dark and he wears a rather heavy dark mustache. Gal-lagher is said to look not unlike an Italian.

DIED OF HEART DISEASE.

Panison Was Not a Victim of the Home stead Poisoning.

O. B. Paulson died of heart disease. He Is the man who, it was reported yesterday, had died of diarrhea. He was employed at Homestead and was taken ill there and brought to his home in Oakland, death following several weeks later. His brotherin-law Albert Edwards was seen last night and he tells this story of Paulson's illness:
"Paulson contracted typhoid fever at Homestead. He came home and was ill for several weeks. He gradually recovered. Paulson was afflicted slightly with diar-rhosa, but never very severely. For a number of years he had been troubled with heart disease, and had often told me that it would kill him. The trouble was noticeable quite often. He was seemingly nearly over the fever when he died. The day before his death he had been well enough to be out of bed. When the physician called the next morning Paulson's heart was fluttering in a peculiar The doctor said he was dying of heart disease. It was true, for a few minutes later he expired. We are positive his death was alone due to heart disease."

NOT ASKED TO ASSIST.

Detective Beltzhoover Gives His Views or the Homestead Poisoning.

County Detective Beltzhoover has not been asked to assist the Carnegie Company in hunting its alleged poisoners.

Detective Beltzhoover said yesterday: "I have never been asked by the Carnegie Company to assist them in any of the cases growing out of the strike. I had a little to do with the treason cases, but that was because Judge Paxson said the prosecuting officer would have to do the work. The Carnegie Company seem to want Pinkertons to do their work. They work the cases up all night, but we have seen how loath juries are to believe their testimony. It seems very queer to me that with all those people dying at Homestead from poison that the story could be kept quiet so long."

ATTORNEY BRENNEN'S VIEWS.

He Thinks the Poison Story Without Foundation.

Attorney W. J. Brennen, counsel for the Homestead men, thinks the poison story to be without foundation and on the same level with the treason charges. Mr. Brenpen thinks that the arrest of Beatty was a direct blow at him. Beatty was employed by him to get the names of some rivermen who had seen the shooting at Homestead. Beatty was a riverman and could do this very well as he had a larre acquaintance. The fellow was not to take evidence, but only secure names.

BRECK ON THE POISON.

He Said One Powder Was Put in Every 30 Gallons of Coffee.

Captain E. Y. Breck, the attorney for the Carnegie Steel Company's criminal business had this to say yesterday: "The drug used in the poisoning of the men was very powerful. To give you an idea," here Captain Breck folded a piece of paper to the size of one by two and one-half inches, "s powder this size was used to poison 30 gallons of coffee or tes. The men were fully instructed in the use of the powders—not oftener than every two days. Some days we had as many as 150 men affected by this drug. We are not going upon a supposition in this case, we are dealing with facts. As to what the powder is composed of, we do not care to state. It is not our purpose to divulge any of our evidence until the proper time. "It was decidedly a plot of the K. of L., and in it are also some Amalgamated men of the local lodge. The poisoning continued for two months. Sometimes it would cease altogether, the parties being afraid, but it would soon be resumed. As to the number of men implicated, that will approximate the parties of the number of men implicated. come out in due time. We have all our men under strict surveillance and none can get away. We were not quite ready to make the matter public, but Beatty's going away precipitated the whole affair."

HOW IT READS.

What Is Contained in the Information Against Beatty.

Alderman McMasters yesterday exhibited an information containing two charges of felonious assault against Robert Beatty. The document, which is dated December 5, 18 sworn to by J. R. Ford, of the Carnegie Steel Company. The specific accusation against Beatty is that on or about September 1, 1892, he administered or caused to be administered to William E. Griffiths and others a ceftain poison into the food of the non-union men at Homestead.

WATER KILLED HIM.

A Non-Union Man Dies in Toronto From

Diarthea. A dispatch from Toronto, Canada, last night says: Charles Stanford died in this city to-day. He worked for the Carnegie Company at Homestead as a bridgemaker during the recent strike. He was conveyed here last week at the expense of the company because he was suffering from chronic diarrhœa, supposed to have been caused by drinking water which, it is alleged, had been poisoned by the strikers at Home-

HOW IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN.

Croton Oil Could Have Been Put on the Knives and Forks. Dr. F. P. Langfitt, of Third avenue, said last night he had attended six or seven of the diarrhos patients at Homestead. He said the disease acted very much as though eroton oil had been administered. The doctor said that the oil could have been conveyed to the non-union men by putting it on their knives and forks. A drop of the stuff each day on the cloth used in wipping the cutlery would be enough to cause death eventually.

DIED OF ALCOHOLISM.

Supposed Case of Poisoning That Couldn't Stand Investigation.

Coroner McDowell yesterday investigated into the death of Isaac Jury at Homestead. | pendent. He is one of the men whom the Carnegie Company thought might have been poisoned. An autopsy was held and death was found to be due to alcoholism. The disease was far advanced and there was not the least semblance of poison.

WILL TALK LATER.

Hugh Dempsey Will Not Talk of the

Mrs. Haines' Side of the Case. The hearing of Mrs. Kate Haines, the Southside woman charged with shoplifting, will take place this evening before Mag istrate Succop. Mrs. Haines, who has the reputation of being an honest woman, stated last night that she had bought the goods she is charged with stealing and will show a receipted bill for every item found in her possession when arrested. She said she purchased the goods and went out. It was when she returned and picked up her own goods that she was arrested.

Independent Movement to Secure Suitable Municipal Candidates.

BAKER BALLOT LAW MOVE.

Signed Nominating Papers to Ready in Case the Parties

NAME UNSUITABLE PERSONS.

Great Expectations Pased Upon the Industrial Alliance.

COLLECTOR MILLER'S BOND PREPARED

A new move in local politics was uncov ered yesterday. A number of prominent men, not satisfied with the, at present, leading candidates of the two big parties, believe the majority of people want better candidates. If something is not done soon they are afraid they will have no choice left on election day but to vote for one or the other of the present candidates, a contingency they dread greatly. To avoid it they have evolved a plan which the Baker ballot law makes possible. They propose a strong independent ticket.

Under the Baker law the party nominations must be made and filed with the Commissioners 42 days before the election. Five days more are allowed for other candidates who can secure the signatures of 3 per cent of the city's voters to their petition for a place on the ticket by nomination

Nominating Papers to Be Ready. Those who are about to spring the independent movement propose to secure the necessary signatures without naming their candidate until after the party nominations

If either party nominates good men the Independents will not proceed any further. They want Mayor Gourley nominated for Controller, but if the Republicans put up a good clean business man for Mayor and Controller Morrow will consent to accept a re-nomination they will be content, provided, Major Denniston or an equally desirable man is named for treasurer. The same rule will apply to the Democratic ticket. But if McKenna and McCandless are the nominess the Inducated at the content of the content nees the Independents want another candi-date. If Controller Morrow won't run they want Gourley to take his place on the

The scheme, as explained by Dr. C. Evans, Select Councilman from the Twenty-tnird ward, who is one of its originators, is not so much to get up a new ticket as to have a club in hand by which the two big parties will be compelled to name good men and insure a good government.

An Independent Nominating Committee. It is proposed to have a committee consisting of one man from each of the 36 wards of the city to decide whether the party nominations are satisfactory, and if not to fill up the ticket with good men. If the party tickets have good Mavorality candidates, but are weak for Controller or Treasurer, one of the Mayorality nominees will be indorsed and the weak processing the majorality nominees will be indorsed and the weak processing to the weak processing the weak processing to the the weak spot strengthened with an inde-

It is expected the new Industrial Alliance movement will be of great assistance in carrying this independent scheme into effect. Mayor Gourley comes nearer filling their platform, it is claimed, than any man before the people, and Dr. Evans says there is no doubt but that if the Mayor is nominated for Controller on an independent ticket that ticket would sweep the city by an overwhelming majority. The Industrial Alliance party is growing remarkably fast, and by the middle of February will be in position to back up its demands with a great show of strength,

How the Baker Law Helps, "The Baker law," said Dr. Evans, "gives great encouragement to a movement like this. Heretofore the political bosses held the nominations back until a few days be-fore election. If the nominees were then not satisfactory there was too little time left to make a good fight against them. That is why so many meritorous independent move-ments have failed. Now, however, more than a month will clapse between the nominations and election. In that time a hard fight can be made and any good man will have a classes to win. The recents of will have a chance to win. The people of this city want a good government and if the bosses don't give them good candidates they will insist on having an independent Allegheny Citizens Have a Conference With Mayor Kennedy.

Several prominent citizens of Allegheny held a conference with Mayor Kennedy last evening. They discussed a project to purchase property in the Tenth and Eleventh wards, the money to be raised by subscription, the land to be donated to the city for park purposes. No definite decision was reached, and another meeting will be held. In the meantime a canvass will be made of the wealthiest residents and business men of the city.

The Elevator Dropped.

An elevator bearing two laborers in the new building of Joseph Horne & Co., at Fifth street and Penn avenue, dropped from the second to the first floor yesterday. The men, whose names were R. Costello and J. Pursell, were severely injured. The former was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital and the latter to his home on Marion

All Three Were Locked Up. Last night Michael Lynch told Officer Connors on Shingiss street that he had been robbed of $7 50 in the house 22 Old avenue by two women. The officer went with him, and Lynch pointed out Kate Connelly and Katic Burke as the women. They denied robbing him, but were locked up nevertheless, and Lynch also as a witness.

FIFTY NEW VACANCIES.

Number of Men Leave the Homest Mill-Some Grow Tired of the Work, While Others Are Discharged for Going

On a Strike. There are nearly 50 vacancies in the Homestead mill of the Carnegie Steel Company. These were caused by the resignation of some 25 or 30 men who had grown tired of the work, and the discharge of 18 more who went out on a strike yesterday. The striking men were employed in the transportation department.

The direct cause of the trouble occurred several days ago when one of the new men, a conductor of crew No. 7, was taken sick. He laid off and his place was temporarily filled by one of the old workmen. Yesterday the new man reported for duty and went to work and the man who had been filling the vacancy was given the position of brakeman. When crew No. 7 learned that the new man had returned to work they declared him incompetent and refused to work. They were all paid off and discharged men called the attention of the company to the fact. the attention of the company to the fact that the new man was incompetent, but it is said they were given to understand that non-union workmen should always be given the preference over the old union men.

The 32-inch mill, better known as the armor plate mill, which started up this week with a new crew of men, was shut down yesterday for repairs. It is stated that the new crew did not understand the mechanism of the machinery, and before they had gone very far they did so much damage that the mill was ordered shut down. The crew attempted to roll a 12-inch channel and broke the rolls. It is thought highly probable that some of the old men will be taken back to run this particular mill. Besides those already mentioned there are two more va-cancles at Homestead. Sylvester Zinkana, a steel worker, fell down in a fit Sunday evening, and was removed to his home in McKeesport. E. Randall, a colored man working in the yard, was taken out yesterday by Constable Sweeny, of this city, on a warrant sworn out by E. Goodin. She charged him with false pretense.

A room has been secured by the Relief

Committee on the corner of Fourth avenue and Amity street, where all contributions will be stored as fast as received. Secre-Committee had plenty of business on hand.
Twenty families, including more than 100 people, had been found in destitute circumstances. Every case reported is thoroughly investigated, as there can be no impositions practiced. President David Lynch, of the Homestead Amalgamated Board, left the borough last night for Philadeiphia. His mission is a secret one.

PROPERTY OWNERS APPEAL

They Appear Before Commissioner Beale and Ask for Different Classification,

The first appellant before Commissioner Beale yesterday morning was Rev. Dr. W. J. Holland, Chancellor of the Western University. Dr. Holland owns property on Fifth avenue, Fourteenth ward, which is classified as built up. He thinks it should be rural, as from his window he has an uninterrupted view of green fields. Oliver McClintock owns the property at Amherson and Ellsworth avenues. Part of it is assessed as built up and part rural. The owner wants it all assessed rural.

The owner wants it all assessed rural.

John A. Renshaw owns property at Ellsworth avenue. The property is assessed as built up. The owner wants it assessed as rural. F. D. Messler, president of the Pennsylvania Company, was next on the list. He thought his property on Fifth avenue near Barton street should all be assessed as rural. D. C. Negley, who lives on Fifth avenue near Denniston, thought on Fifth avenue near Denniston, thought the same as Mr. Messler. Kate W. Hill, who owns property on Penn avenue near Sheridan avenue, objected to her possessions being assessed at $900 a foot front instead of $600.

COLD AND SNOWY WEATHER PROMISED

A regular London fog mingled with thick, fark smoke hung heavily over the city yesterday. It was a cheerless, dreary day, and reminded the average Pittsburger of the time before the advent of natural gas, when the street lights were often kept burning

Such gloom has been infrequent in recent years, but Sergeant Stewart, the weather man, said the 5th of last January and February 28, 1889, were worse even than yesterday, which was bad enough. It was quite dark, and a number of people complained of having overslept. The light was dim from morn to night, and the electricity was turned on in most of the business houses.

What Caused the Darkness. The explanation for the darkness is quite simple. Mr. Stewart said the fog was due to vapor-laden atmosphere produced by an
