Against Employment Agents James Abri-

ola and W. M. Venter. Among the returns made by the grand jury yesterday was an ignored bill in the ense of James Abriola and William M. Venter, the Grant street employment agents. The defendants had been charged with defrauding applicants for work out of money, but the prosecutors failed to make out a case. Abriola and Venter do about the largest employment business in the city, having orders at times for men in gangs of 200 and 300. It was alleged in this case that they had deceived an applicant in not securing work promised. Mr. Venter said the rea-son the man had not been put to work was that he tailed to report early in the morning, and the detachments had been made up and started before he came around. Instead of failing to secure work he said the firm was unable to secure men enough to fill the places open. Another charge made was that the firm rented out sleeping rooms on the floor of their offices at the rate of 10 ceuts a night. This was denied. Men were permitted to sleep there when they had no odging place and were to start out to work on the early morning trains, but no charge had ever been made for the accommodation. The other returns were as follows:
