

THE SWEATING EVIL.

Results of the Investigation Made by Congressional Probers.

WRETCHED STORIES VERIFIED.

How Disease Is Spread and Children Made Beasts of Burden.

PHILADELPHIA AND CINCINNATI WORST

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The sub-committee of the House Manufacturers' Committee, which is investigating the "sweating" system, this morning gave a hearing to several witnesses from Brooklyn and New York. It was shown conclusively by the witnesses to-day that the evil was not diminishing in any of the large clothing centers, with the exception of Boston, where the State laws have been effectively enforced as to lesson it to a great extent. Philadelphia and Cincinnati were stated to be the great centers of the country, where the system was most prevalent and where the conditions were most unfavorable, from a sanitary standpoint.

Representative Warner, of New York, the chairman of the sub-committee, who has just returned to Washington, after a thorough investigation of the working of the system in the cities of New York, Chicago and Boston, on being asked how the condition of New York compared with that of the other cities, said:

"They are so similar as to be scarcely distinguishable, except as modified by the different conditions of the several cities. In Chicago, for example, this sweating business is carried on in quarters where the streets are practically bottomless and the buildings are rotten and disquieting as well as inadequate and unfitted for human occupancy. These buildings are generally frame and two stories in height with basements generally built on the second floor. There is nothing like that possibility of crowding there would be in quarters more closely and substantially built up. The conditions of the 'sweating' industry there, however, are as degrading and the liability to contagious and epidemic diseases as great as in New York. In Boston, the industry seems to be carried on exclusively in extremely old but fairly substantial buildings in the most crowded quarters, so that while the municipal conditions are better, the result is an even greater liability to contagion in the more limited area covered. In New York the streets are, as a whole, much better paved and cared for than in Chicago, and much more spacious and affording more breathing room than in Boston. While the tenements in New York are, on the other hand, far more like human hives than those in Chicago and Boston, they are more recently and solidly built, and therefore, on the average, much less squalid and uncomfortable. The human conditions are practically identical, and the general result varies only by essential and local conditions."

Local Authorities Powerless.

"What do you find to be the attitude of the local authorities?" was asked. "One of prompt co-operation in every case, and one of frank admission that the evil was beyond their power to handle. As to dangerous contagion there is equally little distinction. In Chicago we saw the scarlet fever signs posted up, where the 'sweating' system had been tried on, and in a neighborhood where it was still being prosecuted. In Boston we stumbled into a room with the disease, while the household manufacturing of clothing was going on. It was not occupied by the same family, but it opened upon the same corridor. In New York one of the most typical instances was where we found poor wretches working under the most filthy conditions, at 10 o'clock on Sunday night, when in the next block to them the typhus had broken out only last summer. "The members of the committee arrived here yesterday," continued Mr. Warner, "and expect that they will complete the taking of testimony to-day, and then it will make its report at the earliest possible moment. "What is the general result of your investigation?" was the next question.

As had been represented. "We have," replied Mr. Warner, "verified not merely as instances, but as a general condition, the worst system has been tried. But, with one exception, we have met with no proof of immorality, and speaking for myself, I have the greatest respect for the manliness and the womanliness of the persons employed. From the testimony taken, we find repeated instances where, at 9 and 10 o'clock at night, the operatives were still continuing their work. They had begun their work at 5 or 6 A. M. and the so-called 'sweater' or boss worked along with them, bringing work for them the next morning. It was not unusual to find eight or ten people with their machines, tables, etc., crowded into a 12 by 15 foot room. In the majority of the cases the living room of a family was connected with the shop, and garments finished and unfinished were scattered about indiscriminately.

"Of child labor I personally saw but few instances, but I did see a little girl about 8 years of age at 9:30 in the evening dragging along a bundle, which she was physically unable to carry, and acting as a human express for the transfer of goods. Children in every condition of filth and health swarmed in most of the shops. In the last one we visited everyone had gone except two worn-out fellows, who had made a pile of the bundles of goods ready to be made up, upon which, without bed clothes, they proposed to sleep without change of the filthy condition of their persons or their clothes. The 'sweater' and the 'worker' perfectly agreed as to the miserably low wages paid."

LOOKING FOR AN OPENING.

A Burglar Arrested While Examining Houses in Braddock.

A burglar was arrested at Braddock on Tuesday night who is thought to have some connection with recent robberies in the East End and Wilkensburg. A letter found in his pocket proved him to be S. J. Weaver, of Sylvia Avenue, Oakland. When arrested he was making a critical examination of a number of houses in Braddock, and the officer who had been watching looked him up as a suspicious character.

A lot of burglar's tools, including a brace, set of drills, jimmie and a chisel, were found concealed in his clothing. He had a cold filled watch and a pawn ticket for a valuable violin, which he had evidently stolen. The instrument was recovered from a downtown pawnshop by the police last night.

Inspector McLaughlin is investigating Weaver's habits and actions in this city. The prisoner will be brought here this morning. McLaughlin said last evening he had reason to suspect the fellow of connection with at least two robberies, but could not tell positively without further inquiry.

O. M'CLINTOCK & CO.'S Christmas Suggestions

In this era of travel, souvenir spoons, mementoes, curios, etc., a curio cabinet for the parlor or a china cabinet for the dining room has well nigh become a necessity in the modern furnishment of the home.

We have a variety of styles and woods, such as Chinese Teakwood, Onyx and Brass, Mahogany, Antique Oak, Mahogany Inlaid, and some very choice specimens of French Cabinets of the periods of Louis XV. and Louis XVI., both in plain Mahogany, with ormolu mounts, and in Vernis Martin, with exquisitely painted scenes and groups after the style of Watteau.

Our certain element contributes a large variety of Parlor and Fire screens which we offer at greatly reduced prices. The one shown above with panels of silkalene is only $5.
