BOYS FROM OLD YALE

Brilliant Reception Arranged for the Glee and Banjo Clubs.

AN IMPORTANT SOCIAL EVENT.

Informal Dance at the Pittsburg Club After the Concert

THE PARTY TO REMAIN OVER SUNDAY

If the sky has any respect for the fitness of things it will be blue to-day, for that will be the prevailing color in Pittsburg. The reason for this is that the Yale Glee and Banjo Clubs will land in town at 10:30 this morning. They will come in their two spepinl cars, the Cleopatra and a sleeper, in which for a couple of weeks they will live and sleep, when they are not singing and thrumming to the public, or dancing or dining with their hospitable friends in the big cities at which they stop.

The annual tour of the clubs began vesterday, when they boarded a Pennsylvania train at Jersey City and journeyed to Harrisburg, where they left the cars and at pace proceeded for rehearsal to the Grand Opera House. This work over they attended a tea given in their honor by Mrs. Haldeman. In the evening the first concert was given at the Opera House to a large audience. The concert went off smoothly and almost everything on the programme was encored, so that singers and musicians alike had excellent appetites for the supper given by the Alumni Association, and after that were ready enough to sleep in their cars as the train carried them on to this city. A Social Event of Importance.

The preparations for the entertainment of the Yale men here have been elaborate, and as a social function alone the concert tonight will be of great importance. The concert is to be given in the Carnegie Hall in Allegheny.

There are 22 voices in the glee club and 14 instruments in the banjo club. J. S. Cravens is the President of the glee club, and J. J. Brooks, Jr., son of the wellknown attorney who resides at Edgeworth, is the President of the banjo club. The reports from Yale indicate that the lubs are both above the average this year in ability. A good many of the members took part in last year's tour. They will be elad to know that the audience will be above the average also in many ways. It looks as if there would not be a vacant sent Carnegie Hall to-night. The audience will be an unusually pretty sight, for not only will the fair sex predominate, but feminine charms will not be overshadowed by hats and bonnets, or veiled by envious high-neck dresses.

A Dance at the Pittsburg Club,

This will not be so much the result of any special provision that those who attend the concert shall come in full dress, as that a majority, at least, of the audience will proed from Carnegie Hall to the Pittsburg Club, where an informal dance will be given, under the auspices of the Yale Alumni Association, immediately after the concert. The Carnegie Hall lights up well and will form an attractive frame for the thousand or more society people who will certainly be there.

But the Yale men will have plenty to do esides play and sing while they are in littsburg. This evening before the con-ert early dinners will be given for them Walter McClintock and Mrs. Charles L. Fitzhugh. The ball at the Pittsourg Club will occupy them after the concert. On Saturday an early evening recep-tion will be given for them by Miss Mabel Charke at Mr. Charles J. Clarke's Oakland residence, after which they will go to another reception at Mrs. D. A. Stewart's Objects of Social Attention.

It is altogether likely that their spare moments will be absorbed by the scores of onle in both cities, bound by all sorts of ies to Yale, and who are eager to entertain the representatives of their alma mater. Fortunately they will have a chance to enor the inimitable calm of a Pistaburg Sunday before descending to the grosser atmosphere of Cincinnati, which is their next

A glance at the itinerary of the clubs is at Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Chicago, Cleve-land, Buffalo, Rochester, Utica and Albany, and in all these cities alumni associstions and other hospitable nosts will endeavor to fill their waking hours with feasting and social festivities of all kinds. It is orth while to remember, however, that the object of this tour could hardly be better r the money which is made by these concerts is turned over to a fund designed to ist needy students through the Univerity. Every year a large sum realized by hard work of the Glee and Banjo Club for singing and playing of the sort these young artists give can only be accomplished long hours of practice, and the concerin itself is an uncommonly stiff grind—is dispensed by the faculty of Yale privately among the undergraduates whose purses are

A Supreme Justice for President. The Yule Alumni Association of Pitta ofig has at present a membership approaching a hundred. The officers are: The Hon. George Shiras, President; Albert Childs and the Right Rev. Cortlandt Whitehead, Vice Presidents; Kier Mitchell, Treasurer; John Moorhead, Secretary; and E. W. Smith, Oliver D. Thompson, Remsen V. Messier, Henry Olfver, Jr., and A. G. Mc-Clintock, Directors. Judge Shiras and Dishop Whitehead always make a point of attending the Yale concerts, and they will not miss this one.

The Yale Alumni have worked like beavers for the success of to-night's conthe informal dance, to be given by them at the Pittsburg Club, will be a beautiful sight. The stage of the theater will be screened with holly. Toerge's Orches tra will furnish the music. Even if the seems likely to be as seasonable as could be

SOME $35,000 MISSING.

A telegram was received vesterday from the Superintendent of Cincinnati Police asking the authorities here to arrest Charles A Hardin, an Adams Express messenger of the Louisville and Nashville road. He is believed to have stolen $35,000.

Hardin is described as an ordinary-looking gentleman who walks with a stoop, smokes and chews, and drinks whisky freely without getting drunk. He is somewhat of an artist, and has a wife in Louisville. He absconded on the night of December 21, and the police are asked to watch every train for him.
