"Koreans dress in spotless white garments, yet are, perhaps, the most uncleanly people you can find. They are extremely lazy and detest work as another race would snakes. Five men are engaged to do the same work that one man can do in this

"The Koreans are great lovers of spyrt. They have their regular seasons for all their pastimes. From the fifteenth day of the first month to the fitteenth day of the third month the sky is filled with kites. After the season is over you cannot see one kite about anywhere. Koreans take great interest in kite flying. The kites are made square, but their size is restricted by the Government. You will, perhaps, remem-ber the immense golden fishes which were taken from the top of one of the largest periles in Korea to he arthbitid at the castles in Korea to be exhibited at the Centennial. Well, when they were re-placed one of the natives made an enormous kite, and by attaching it to one of these fishes succeeded in pulling it down from the top of the castle aud mnde off with it. He went after the other one, but was caught in the act by the Government officers. After that the King issued a decree that kites should not be made above a certain size. The Koroans have great contests during the kite-flying season. Each string is dipped in glue and then powdered porcelain is placed upon it. With these strings, which are like knives, they try to cut each other's kites loose. Worse Than a Football Game.

TO LET-John K. Ewing & Co., 107 Federal st. headquarters for Allegbeny houses; free list. "After the kite season come the 'stone wars.' These might be compared to our game of football. They are a little more brutal and kill a few more people, but Korea is not so far advanced as we are and should be given some latitude in this regard.

"The two sections of the town organize themselves into armies. They are, of course, made up of the rabble. They then proceed to an open place between two hills, where they meet in conflict, fighting with stones and rocks. They are well organized. First in rank come men with padded suits then come the stone throwers and behind these the sharpshooters, who are armed with slings. The conflict is watched by thousands from the hillsides and the victory consists in driving the opponents off the field. These fights are kept up for 15 days and result frequently in deaths, but still the participants call it sport and go into it for pastime. The light in which we hold foot-ball explains the place the stone fights hold in the Korean mind.

"Korea is a constitutional monarchy. The King has power of life and death, but is un-der the direction of a certain class of noblemen. The written constitution is very small, yet it can be said that Korea is the only country in the East that has one.

Musn't Use the King's Name.

"It is considered sacrilege to mention the King's name until after he dies. You never hear the King spoken of by his name-it is Our Majesty always. "Koreans are very backward about taking ut new ideas. They consider all things good come from China. Even the English cutlery, they say, comes from there, becau it passes through the country. The Kin was desirous to show his subjects that th idea was erroneous, so he sent over to America and got an American electric light plant, which now lights his palace.

"Koreans wear the same costumes and use the same form of language as the ancient Chinese did. Koreans look upon America as a protectoress. One of the greatest honors which could be bestowed upon a person was given to the United States representative. The palace has three adjoining gates; the middle one for use of the King, no one but he being per-mitted to enter through it; the two side gates for servants and visitors. Upon one occasion the middle gate was opened for the United States Consul to enter in. This is the first time any one but the King had ever been permitted to use it."

IROKE ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS.

Not an Arrest Made in Allegheny City or Christinus Day.

The Christmas record was broken in Allegheny yesterday morning in so far as police circles are concerned. There was not a prisoner brought to the lockup all day Sunday or Sunday night, consequently there was no hearing yesterday morning. This is the first time on record that there were not some Christmas arrests, at least Chief Murphy says so, and he has been connected with the police department long enough to be an authority.

THE COOLEY GANG BEHIND BARS.

Five of the Members Taken to the Wester. Penitentiary.

Sheriff McCormick, of Fayette county, arrived in the city yesterday bringing with him Jack Ramsey and four other members of the Cooley gang, who were sentenced by Judge Ewing at Uniontown on Saturday last.

After Sheriff McCormick had delivered his prisoners safely to the authorities at Riverside he called on Warden McAlesso at the jail.

Wi I Talk About the Logstown Dam.

As the result of last Saturday's special meeting of river pilots, a committee composed of Captains Oliver Donds, W. W. O'Neil and Addison Lysle has been ap-pointed and left last night for Washington. They will confer with General Casey in reference to the dam at Logstown.

A Towboat Goes Down.

The steamer Rescue yesterday afternoon struck an aqueduct in the Allegheny river, near the Sixth street bridge. A rent was made in her hull 8 feet in length, causing her to sink up to her boiler deck. Dredge boats raised the vessel.
