MORTGAGED FOR $400,000.

The Economites Pledge Valuable Property—Some of It Belonged to Blaine's Ancestors—Big Interests in Beaver Falls—A National Bank Scheme.

A mortgage covering the Harmony Society's lands at Economy has been negotiated for a very large sum, as exclusively published in THE DISPATCH yesterday. The amount is $400,000, and the mortgage is the Harry Darlington, acting as trustee, presumably for the McCullough estate...

The mortgage was signed by Jacob Henrich and John S. Duss, acting as trustees of the Harmony Society, on December 21, the Wednesday before Mr. Henrich died, and recorded one day later in the Recorder's office in this city and at Beaver...

The customary form of attestation by the Justice of the Peace, which is attached to the mortgage, presents some interest in this case because the instrument is dated December 21, or Wednesday last, when Mr. Henrich was on his death bed...

Owned Once by Blaine's Ancestors. In the description of the various parcels of land composing the Economy estate it is worthy of note that James G. Blaine is named as one of the owners...

Valuable Property at Beaver Falls. It was stated yesterday by a local authority in Beaver Falls that the unencumbered property of the society in the town is of a vast extent still. This gentleman said that the society owned outright the Beaver Falls Steel Works, and a majority interest in the Beaver Falls Iron Works...

It is in connection with the last named institution that the $400,000 mortgage obtained by mortgage is to be used, at least that is the impression in Beaver Falls and the neighboring towns. It is understood to be the desire of the Economite managers to turn the savings bank into a national bank...

Ready to Make the Change. Even a name for the old bank in its new shape has been suggested, namely the Farmers' Deposit Bank before the change can be made the bank will have to go into liquidation, it is said, and in order to facilitate this a large sum of ready money is deemed desirable, indeed necessary...

ONE GIRL, TWO LOVERS.

Rivals Quarrel and Fight—One Is Dying, the Other Is in Jail—A Pretty Polish Woman the Cause of the Trouble—Tragedy at Duquesne.

Charles Rodgers and Anton Wazko loved the same girl at Duquesne. As their affections increased for the Polish woman so did their jealousy of one another. Christmas night they met. To-day Wazko is lying at death's door and Rodgers is in jail.

Several years ago Charles Rodzinski came to this country and found work at Duquesne. Soon after settling there he adopted the name of Rodgers. He went to board with Frank Sook. Minnie Danovich, Mrs. Sook's sister, lived there also. She is a pretty girl, and as Rodgers is a young man a warm feeling sprang up between the two.

A couple of years ago Anton Wazko went to Duquesne to live. He was a young man, and soon sought the company of Minnie Danovich. She took kindly to his attention, and he soon had a place in her affections. Rodgers did not care much at first, and a friendship grew up between the two. Minnie acted her part well, and neither lover knew that she cared for the other. Wazko did not board at Sook's, so Rodgers had a shade the best advantage, and spent many of his evenings with Minnie. Wazko came around at times when Rodgers was not at home.

Christmas found both woosers dead in love with pretty Minnie. Each man gave her gifts. That was all right. Monday night Rodgers decided to spend the evening with his lady love, and early he sought her company. They were chatting pleasantly together when Wazko came in. A coldness at once sprang up between the two men. Minnie seemed very glad to see Wazko and this did not please Rodgers. During the next hour the last corner allowed his love for the Polish girl to show in unmistakable ways. Each time jealousy was aroused in Rodgers' heart.

About 9 o'clock Rodgers went outside and called his enemy out. Some time afterward he came running into the house and looked at the door, saying he was afraid Wazko would kill him. Later in the evening Wazko was picked up by a policeman. He was nearly dead. His face was badly bruised, one eye nearly cut off and there was a bullet wound in his hip. Rodgers was arrested and brought to jail yesterday. The Pole is expected to die.
