der num dining at Duncan's batteries. The reveral regiments took positions, and a es more shells were thrown towards Palace Hill, but did no execution. The nine-pounder Hill, partitude to throw its shot, with great precontinued our batteries, one ball falling directly in the midst of the pieces, but fortunately hittin me ther men nor guns. Finding his batterthus exposed, and unable to effect anything, Col. Doncan removed his command to a ranche about half a mile further up the Saltillo road. where Gen. Worth took up his position, after ordering the foot regiments to form along the fence, near the point of the ridge. The artilliery battalion, 5th, 7th, and 8th infantry, and the Louisiana volunteers remained in this position about two hours, directly under the fire of the enemy's guns (now, two.). The balls fell directly in their midst all this time without wounding a man. To begin with, the Mexicans manage their artillery in battery as well so the Americans do-this I believe is now conceded by every officer. At half-past 10 the olumn moved towards the general's position. At this time, Capt. McKavett, of the 8th infantry, was shot through the heart by a ninepounder ball, and a privage of the 5th infantry was so severely wounded in the thigh that he died the next morning. About 50 Mexicans now appeared upon the hill side, over the moving column, and fired at our troops some hundred musket shot, without doing any harm .---The division deptoyed into the positions pointed out, and remained an hour or two, when Capt. C. F. Smith, of the artillery battalion with two companies (his own & Capt. Scott's) and four companies Texan Rangers on foot, were ordered to storm the second height .-This the gallant officer cheerfully undertook. and was followed with enthusiasm by the officers and men of his command. It was considered on all sides to be the most dangerous undertaking, and this party was considered most emphatically a forlors hope. That the height would be taken, no one doubted, but that many brave fellows would fall in the attempt, seemed inevitable. The distance to be climbed after reaching the foot of the hill was about a quarter of a mile ; a part of the way was al. most perpendicular, and through thorn bushes and over sharp-pointed rocks and loose sliding

Miles, was ordered to support Captain Smith's party; and by marching directly to the foot of the height, arrived before Captain Smith, who had been ordered to take a circuitous route .-Captain Miles sent up Lieutenant Gantt, with a detachment of men, upon the hillside, to di vert the attention of the enemy from Captain Smith's command, which could not yet be seen. The 7th had already sustained a heavy fire of grape and round shot as they forded the San Juan, which winds around the foot of the height, which fell like a shower of hail in their maks, without killing a man. Lieutenant Ganti's party were greeted with grape and round shot, which cut the shrubs and tore up the loose stones in the ranks, without killing any one; but the gallant young officer came within an inch of being killed by a cannon ball, which raked down the steep, and filled his face fire was accompanied by a constant discharge of musketry, the enemy covering the upper. part of the hillside; but the detachment continued to move up, driving the Mexicans back until they were recalled. Captain Smith's party now arrived and moved up the hill, the rangers in advance, and did not halt for an instant until the Mexicans were driven from the summit. Whilst this was going on. Colonel Persifer F. Smith, who commanded the 5th and the 7th infantry-the 5th, with Blanchard's Louisiana boys, under Major Martin Scott, had been ordered to support the whole-gave orders for these commands to pass around on each side and storm the fort, which was situated about half a mile back of the summit, on the same ridge, and commanded the Bishop's palace. Such a foot race as now ensued has seldom, if ever been seen, the Louisiana boys making the tallast kind of strides to be in with the foremost. Captain Smith had the gun which he took upon the height, run down tocame Col. P. F. Smith's men, with a perfect instant's hesitation in our ranks. Our men run and fired, and cheered, until they reached whilst the Mexicans, about 1000 in number. left the other in retreat. The colors of the 5th tofantry were instantly raised, and scarcely were they up before those of the 7th were along side. The three commands entered the through the body, died the next day. for together, so close was the race-the 5th, however, getting an advance in first. J. W. Miller, of Blanchard's company, was among the first four or five twise entered. The three commands may be said to have come out even in the race, for the seventh was not five secands behind. In less than a minute the gun found in the fort was thundering away at the Buhop's Palace! More ammunition was found han our traops will use with the three guns that were captured. One of the guns was found oncealed. They are 9 pound brass pieces .-Several mules, and half a dozen beautiful tents were likewise captured. Killed, none .-Wounded, in the 7th infantry. Lieut. Potter. bullet through the calf of the leg; Orderly Serfrant Hurdle, of K company; Corporal S. P. Oakley, severely in the thigh. Oakley is tom New York city, and a very intelligent. Tell-educated man. as well as a good soldier. Private White-the same who captured the Mexican officer's trunk at Marin, and who received et and its contents from General Taylor wounded in the head. Smith was in the advance, with McCall, at the battle of Reszea de la Palma, and is one of the most gallant and accomthed officers in the army—so say all his fel. officers whom I have heard speak of him-Colonel P. F. Smith—General Smith of Lonstana-distinguished himself on that occaand, in truth, every officer and man did his du-der from the height immediately over the right in saying, and as every officer in the 3d division will testify, that this corps has distinguished itself on every occasion where they have been called on. The sons of Judge Nicholis. of Donaldsonville, have stood fire for four or five hours at a time, driving the enemy -under their battery-from bush to bush, and rock to rush into the Bishop's palace and take it by storm. Captain Blanchard and his company have already made a reputation that will not fight, and died next morning. Captain Smith had no one killed or wounded in his party of regulars-two Texans were wounded, viz: W. Carley and B. F. Keese.

> Monterey, Mexico, Sept. 25, 1846. GENTLEMEN: The city has capitulated on the following terms: The Mexican soldiers shall be permitted to march out of town with heir small arms and six small field pieces, eaving all their munitions of war behind, with all their artillery and public stores. They are to retire to Linares, sixty miles hence, and about thirty miles north of Saltillo, and are not to approach nearer than that to this place with-sixty days, or until each party can hear from its respective government. Ampudia kept General Taylor until nearly midnight last night preparing the terms, &c. Many persons, paricularly the Texan volunteers who tought so bravely, are displeased at these terms. The town was all but in our hands, and they believe could have been taken in three hours. I believe that it would have required much more hard fighting to have taken it, but this was not the question with Gen. Taylor. He and all his officers knew perfectly well, of course, that the town could soon be taken, but he wanted no prisoners to take up his time and eat his substance, but he did have an object in view which will be reached by the terms of this capitulation, and that object will lead to a result most beneficial to our government. As I have a few moments to spare before the express goes out this morning (he was detained last night by the slow progress of business with Ampudia) I will speak of the operations of Gen. Taylor on his side of the town.

Major Mansfield, of the engineers, reconmitted the enemy's works on the night of the States forces, now at Monterey. 19th, but could obtain no very accurate information, although he approached very near to some of them on the heights. On the 20th to reconnoitre the works; Scarritt on the right and Pope on the left of the town. The latter approached and discovered the position of a nattery on the extreme left, and was exposed from which, after finishing his observations, he retired in safety. On the night of the 20th the sas. mortar and howitzer batteries were placed in a position to play on the strong holds around the ing of the 21st, by the opening of these two batteries. Col. Garland's brigade were ordered to move to the left for the purpose of storming the battery discovered by Lieut. Pope the day before, and to occupy, if possible, the lower part of the city. Major Mansfield, Capt. with fragments of rock, dust, and gravel. This Williams, and Lieut. Pope were ordered in advance to select the most available point of attack, and to direct the movements of the column upon it. Three companies were thrown forward as skirmishers and advanced rapidly towards the works, followed by the brigade in line of battle under a cross fire of artiflery from the citadel and fort, and a heavy fire of musketty. The column charged in the street 200 yards to the right of the battery, passed the works entirely, and effected an entrance to the town. After advancing rapidly about 400 yards bevond the battery, they came immediately in front of a masked battery of artillery and muskerry, which swept the street completely by its range. The barricades of the streets a sixty vards distance from the head of the column. were fined with Mexican troops, who, entirely covered themselves. opened a murderous dis-

with grape, but did not save them, or cause an to the doorway of a house by Lieutenant Pope amidst a shower of balls, that covered him with dust. The gallantry of this young officer, now the work, the foremost entering at one end, in his first battle, is spoken of in admiration by the ar ny. Captain Williams died the next day, and was buried with the honors of war by the Mexican troops, into whose hands he had fallen. Lieutennant Territt, 1st infantry, shot It being impossible, in the opinion of the engineer officers, to effect anything in attacking the carricades in front, the column moved rapidly up a street to the right, with the intention of turning them. Being reinforced by the Ohio regiment, a second charge was made under the direction of General Butler; which.

owing to the tremendous fire of musketry and grape from the barricades and stone houses likewise proved meffectual. The troops were then ordered by General Taylor to retire in good order and get under cover from the ene-charge of grape and musketry upon the advancing column. Every house in the street was my's fire; which order was handsomely executed. During the engagement in town of Garland's brigade, the forts that were passed on the left in entering the town, were gallantly carried by the Tennessee and Mississippi regiments-the first commanded by Col. Campbell, and the second by Col. Davis. Lieut. Col. M'Clung. of the Mississippi regiment, was dangerously wounded. These regiments sustained a great loss, of killed and wounded, but I cannot in the Homet. short time left me, ascertain the names or number of those who fell. Capt. Bragg's battery of light artillery was brought into action, but as it was impossible to use it effectively, it was withdrawn. Several pieces of artillery were captured. The forts that were taken were occupied by Ridgely's light artillery company, who turned the captured pieces against the Mexican works, and the cannonade was kept up the rest of the day. There were many skirmishes, and gallant deeds, &c., which I will mention at a future time. On the night of the 22d the enemy abandon ed the two works which had proved so destructive to the 3d and 4th infantry, and they were occupied early next morning by the Mis sion, as did Major Scott and Captain Miles, Quitman, About 8 o'clock, same morning, and in the state of the s sissippi and Tennessee regiments, under Genthese two rigiments advanced on the town, and The gallant conduct of Captain Blanchard ments were supported by a body of Texan And Lieutenants Tenbrinck, and the two brothand Lieutenants Tenbrinck, and the two brothten Nicholle, is praised by all the officers who

The colonel never flinched from any duty required of him, and, had Gen. Taylor ordered him to go and bring him Ampudia's portfolio, he would have undertaken it. I devote a paragraph to a mention of this gentleman's services, because he deserves much from the public, for whom he has labored so ardu ously and so efficiently.

P. S. Our killed and wounded, in taking Monterey, amounted to about five hundred nearly three hundred killed. Some time will elapse before the number will be known accurately, but it is well known that few prisioners were taken by the Mexicans.
