Agricultural. The Young Farmer's Song.

I have no sparkling gems, love, To bind around thy brow. I cannot bind my heart to thins In a golden channel flow.

And didst thou ask for these, love,

How bitter were my part, For the only wealth my pade can boast, Is a true and loving heart.

A true and loving heart, love, I bear its little worth For men forget that hearts in Heaven. Are as jewels on the earth!

But still 'us all I have, love, And thou dost ask no more. For having this, what'er say men, Thou knowest I am not poor.

Thou knowest I am not pour, love of I My hands disdam not toil, I fight the daily fight of man, With the stern, rebellions soil, And as I sow I reap, love.

My just and equal part-And though I have not gold gems.

I have a true and loving heart. Transplanting Fruit Trees.

No manure should be put to the fant trees, except ; it be a little vegetable manne, quite rotten, that mixed with the earth that is to cover the roots. The question is fre mently asked whether it by best to plant fruit trees in the spring or autumn, This in this latitude must depend on the soil into which they are to be put. If the soil be a well clavey one it is best to plant in the sport; but it it beruflight, gravely soil, the autumn is preferable, because you gain four or five weeks in the growth of your plant, w in the spring.

If water be allowed to remain about the roots of trees that are recently planted, and are not growing. it will probably rot them by becoming staguant and putrid. Trees should be planted therefore, so that the water will run over and off the roots, which is all they require to afford them nourishment.

Watering the head and body of a tree that is tardy in putting forth its shoots, is the safest, and indeed the only sure mode of beinging them out, while a continued watering of the roo's is almost sure destruction to them.

Some ten years ago. I imported from paris 2101 pear trees on quince stocks, whose roots on their KUMBER'S PATENT LEATHER MACHINE BANDING. arrival, I found to be entirely black and dead. I shaved off with a drawing knife all the roots down to the stump. These I planted in trenches, tving! them to cross-bars to keep them tirm, and then; filled up the trench with good soil. The heads and bodies of these trees were regularly washed in dry weather until they began to sprout, which most of them did in abundance during the summer, and I finally saved out of the whole number, 174, which became as well rooted and as good trees as any Rustime not an & CO. manufacturers of Matches a in my garden.

Remarks .- The foregoing will please such of our readers as like plant, sensible whice, from a throughly practical man. We have ourselves seen with great surprise and satisfaction the trees refered to as having been so successfully transplanted by Mr. Perkins under what were the mostlandwordle circumstances. The great advantage of the mode he practices, of watering the bark, and not watering the roots of a tree, in a half dormant state, cur correspondent thoroughly convinced us in his own garden. Our readers are solicited to put in practice the invaluable a vice he gives them. There is no doubt that half the trees that die annually from the ignorance of transplanters, perish from a mistaken notion of deluging their roots with water daily, Then their fibres are so feeble as to dread it as much as a patient afflicted with the hydrophobia -

There are scenes and sunny places, On which memory loved us well: There are many happy faces
Who have known and loved us well ; But amid joy or 'mid dejection, There is nothing can beguite— That can show the foud affection Of a mother's welcome smile.

The race of mankind would perish did they cease to aid each other. From the time the mother binds the child's head till the moment that some kind assistant wipes the death damp from the brow of the dving, we cannot exist without mutual help! All, therefore, that need aid, have a right to ask it from their fellow mortals; no man who holds the power of granting, can refuse it without guilt -

Also all those disagreeable sounds, like the buzzing of it sects, falling of water, whizzing of steam, &c., &c., which are symptoms of approaching deafness, and also generally attendant with the disease. Many persons who have been deaf for ten, fifteen, and even twenty years, and were obliged to use ear trumpets, have, after using one or two bottles, thrown saids their trumpets, being made perfectly well. Physicians and Surgeons highly recommend its use.

The very great number of happy results that have followed the use of SCARPA'S ACOUSTIC OIL, have been truly astonishing. And what is wonderful, some who were deaf from birth, have been so much improved as to hear common conversation very readily.

It would be the height of presumption to warrant cure in all cases, but in nine cases out of ten of recent date, there is, a certainty that the results will be most hnppy and satisefatory to the patient. The application of the oil produces no pain, but on the contrary an agreeable and pleasant sensation. The recipe for this medicine has been ontained from an Aurist of great reputation, who has found that deafness, in nineteen cases out of twenty, was produced from a want of action in the nerves of hearing, or a dryness in the ears; his object therefore was to find something which would create a healthy condition in those parts. After a long series o experiments his efforts were at last crowned with sucess, in the discovery of this preparation, which has re ceived the name of SCARPA'S COMPOUND ACOUS-FIC Off. A long list of certificates might be given. but such is the confidence in the medicine, and so high has been its reputation, that but one of them will be at

RAHWAY, June 16, 1847.

I have been afficted for years with the Piles, and ave tried, without anything like permanent benefit, almost everything assuming the NAME of a remedy. I nad, as a matter of course lost all confidence in medicine. Under this feeling, I was induced-not without reluctance I confess-to use "Urnam's ESECTUARY." and having used it for along three weeks according to the directions land down, I find, to my utter surprise as well as satisfaction, that every symptom of the disease has fest me. I think it due alike to Dr. Upfiam and myself to make this statement.
