Or The proceedings of the Democratic Sale Convention which we publish in full this week, exclude our usual variety. We are compelled to defer the address and resolutions, as also several articles relative to the Convention and its achon-a letter from our Washington correspondent, &c., which will appear next week.

The Democratic Fourth of March Convention-Hon. David Wilmot.

We are sware that the proceedings of the Democraue Fourth of March Convention are looked for with much anxiety by the Democracy and people of Bradford County. They are especially impatient to learn the fate of Mr. WILMOT, since the adjet had some forth that he was to be sacrificedto be read out of the party.

It was very evident at Harrisburg, before the Convention met, that Mr. Wilmot had andent and enthusiastic friends, elsowhere than in Bradford, and that amongst the congregated multitude assembled there from all parts of the State, but few could be found, who were willing to aid in the call made upon them to immolate Mr. W. Even at that time, the impression was obtained generally, that the assaults made upon him from certain quarters. had produced an effect very different from what was intended, and would return with greater force upon those who gave it.

We were not prepare. I to expect so gratifying a result ; it has taught us a lesson, which we wish was unicarned, for we did not think the press generally could be so far swaved by any influence, as to present any other than the true state of public opinion; in regard to, Mr. WILMOT. We were, however, slow to believe that even his Proviso was repudiated by the Domocracy of Pennsylvania-that whatever might be its fate now, we were confident that triumph awaited it. Now we have seen, and know, that be the action of the Democracy of this State, what it may on this question, they will never repudiate the Proviso.

Mr. WILMOT look an active part in the proceedings of the Convention, and was sustained in every movement of his. A concerted attempt was made by a few, strengthened, as they supposed, by what the Penneylvanian had said of Mr. WILMOT, to degentleman friendly to him as a delegate to the National Convention. 'To effoct this, ingenious propositions were made, by which to single out this Congressional district, as the point of attack. Bold and malignant as the design was, it was presisted in, by certain men, sent to Harrisburg, to advise the plan of operation in the attack on Mr. Wilmot. They had flattered themselves that whatever their dictator had willed of the Convention, would be omnipotent. The first proposition made was, that the names of delegates to the National Convention selected by the delegates from the several Congressional districts, be referred to a select committee of twenty, by whom they were to be approved or rejected. This was a sort of star chamber inquisition, of their.own selection. This flagrant proposition was rejected. and an amendment adopted, by which those delegates were to be referred to the Convention for apof proval. The next proposition was, that the Convention proceed to act upon the nominations singly, and in numerical order. The object of this movement was to attack Mr. Wilmot's district, and if possible, defeat the delegate nominated by it .-To this, he offered an amendment, which was, that the Convention confirm all nominations of delegates to the National Convention, that were made unanimously by the delegates from the several districts. On this amendment M1. Lowry, of Crawford county, made a thrilling and eloquent speech. in the course of which he alluded with great feeling, and animation to the manner in which Mr. Wilmot had been proscribed, vindicating him from all assaults, and prophesying for him a brilliant and glorious career; he significantly intimated that the wrong man had been selected for a victim, & warned certain men, to carry this proscription no further. He asserted that the delegates from his district had been told that all objection to the delegates selected by them, would be withdrawn, if they would units to defeat Mr. Wilmot's friend. He said he pendently. The Intelligencer of February 15, 1848. had yet to learn the first reason, why the noble Democrat, Mr. Wilmot, should be stricken down. Mr. Lowry's defence of Mr. Wilmot was received with the most rapturous applituse. Every few moments, he was interrupted by the most desfening ehsers. There was now no mistaking the feeling on with the Representatives of the Democracy of of the Convention ; a chord had been struck, which the Quale to assure himself how beartily . they convibrated .. through every heart .. There was no about fail to offer it himself, in terms of approval, flinching. Mr. Wilmot rose, when the Conven- we trust there will be Delegates enough is atten tion, and the vast throng in the galleries, set up a dance to propose resolutions in condemnation ; so that the rest of the States may see, how little sympaneeuscheer. His zuspicions were confirm-to defend hamself, in the course of which he reviewad his political course from the commencement of vitively called for were never offered; had they this Convention on Mr. Wilmot. Kapions indistings of discounts companied with much confusion. Mr. McCalmon at length apoke out at the height of his voice, that he was the friend of Mr. Wilmot. With this annunciation the Convention changed its tone, and commenced cheering; he Jeaned forwant to Bir. Wilmot, who set in front of him, extended his hand, and again said, "Mr. Wilmot, I am your friend ," with this, the applance was more dealening than ever. Could anything more be asked, to lenote the feeling of the Convention for Mr. Wilnot ? Was ever a triumph more signal or complete ! for which we know both he and his friends were truly grateful. The congratulations among the crowd in the galleries demonstrated their approbation of his course. ' A vote was then taken on Mr. Wilmot's proposition, and was carried, and thus was the nomination of Mr. Sanderson, of Bradford county, as a delegate to the National Convention. confirmed. It was understood in the Corvention. that Mr. Sanderson was a zealous and devoted friend of Mr. Wilmot ; it was the selection of such a friend, that aroused the indignation of a few, out of the Convention, to push the crusade against Mr. Wilmot.

Subsequently a proposition came up to instruct he delegates to the National Convention to role against the adoption of the two-thirds rule. It will be recollected that the recent Democratic Convention of this county repudiated the rule. Upon this, Mr. Wilmot made a speech ; he said its operation had defeated Martin Van Buren in 1844, and gave to the minority a complete control of the majority that it was a measure introduced by the South, who were in the minority, that the majority might be held at bay; and be compelled to make such nominations as they should dicta e. That previous to 1841 the practical operation of the tule was not felt. Before then, Presidents had been nominated nearly unanimously. That in 1835, after the nomination of Mr. Van Buren, which was unanimous, some difficulty occured in selecting a candidate for the Vice Presidency. The South attempted to put in requisition the two-thirds rule; it was rejected. and the Virginia delegation retired from the Convention. Mr. Wilmot's speech was very logical. and contincing; the vote was taken, and the proposition carried two to one. Thus adding another proof of the confidence of the Democracy in him, notwithstanding the call of the Pennsylvanian and Union to forbear with him no longer.

We have said, and again repeat it, that we have reason to believe, that a large majority of the Denocracy of Pennsylvania prefer the principles of the Proviso to those of the Missouri Compromise, on the admission of free territory. On this question Mr. Wilmot was not less triumphant than in other respects. There was no in ention of offering the Proviso in the Convention, unless an attempt was made ta sustain Mr. Buchanan's doctrine, as contained in his Borks County Letter. Only a short time before the Convention, a special organ of Mr. Buchanan, the Lancaster Intelligencer, announced a determination to annihilate Mr. Wilmot, by the passage of a resolution against the Proviso. No such attempt however was made, for the reason that no friend of Mr. Buchanan, dare make it. Will any one believe, that after all that had been said by the Pennsylvanian and Union about Mr. Wilmot's

Proviso being repudiated by 18,000 majority in this State, that it would not have been repudiated by the Convention, if it could have been done !-It could not be done, and the special enemies of Mr. Wilmot knew it. Prudence dictated silence .-No so however with Mr. Buchanan's Missouri Compromise, endorsed as it was said to be, by 18.-000 majority. A resolution approving of the position of Mr. Buchanan by his Berks County Letter, in relation to the Missouri Compromise, was reported to the committee on resolutions, composed of venty-four members, one from each Congressional district; also a considerable portion of the address was devoted to an eloquent defence of the Missouri Compromise; all of which was rejected by the committee, there being but two out of twenty-four votes in their favor. Thus was the Missouri Compromise disapproved of. We hope to hear noting more about 18.000 majority in its favor, when in a committee of one from every Congressional district, fresh from the people, only two could be found to do it reverence. Had the resolutions reported by the committee said anything on the subiect. others than Mr. Wilmot stood ready to offer the Proviso. Had it been offered, nothing is more certain, than that it would have been adopted. The most sanguine friends could ask for nothing more than was conceded to him. And to no one in that Convention were they more indebted than to M. B. Lowry, Esq., of Crawford county, for his energetic, and steadfast support of Mr. Wilmot throughout the whole proceedings.

If we acknowledge the right and constitutionality to legislate for frue labor and free soil North of 364° it cannot be successfully maintained that this constitutional right does not extend fatther South, and the man who in the North proposes to give up any portion of the soil earned by the blood and treasure of our country to the deep, damning and overshadowing diagrace of slavery, will receive no favor at the hands of freemen.

Canal Commissioner.

We this week raise the name of ISRAEL PAINTER, of Westmoreland county, the nomines of the Democratic Convention, for Canal Commissioner. Mr. P. is a firm and consistent Democrat, a man of business habits and strict integrity, and the interests of the State Improvements car be confided to no safer hands. He will undoubtedly be triumphantly elected.

The Treaty-The Vote not yet Taken.

We learn from Washington that no vote has yet been taken upon the ratification of the Treaty of Peace with Mexico. That it will pass seems settled. It will be modified in some particulars, from the original conditions of Mr. Trist. The vote was probably taken on Saturday last.
