BT W. H. SENSIE.

Though dark and sad from the scene of strife The herald cometh this morrow, Thank God no patriot blood, or life Add yet to our cup of sorrow;
And though bright genius groans in her cell,
Think not a nation will slumber Which only 'waits the voice of a " Tell" To invoke the battle thunder!

Oh! where is "young Ney," " Prince Louis" to Could a brighter prospect offer,
To avenge foul, treacherous Waterloo,
The glory of Briton's coffer? Go "Ney," and a people true and brave Will strike for the death of thy sire—
Yea! in England's blood bedew his grave, And old Erin with freedom fire!

"Prince Louis" go-Old Erin will bide Thy word, for thy soul inherits The fire of Napoleon, and at thy side Will arise immortal spirits;
His years of exile, torture and death,

Oh swear by the martyr of Byron To revenge at the threshold, and the hearth Where crouches the British Lion! "Brave Shields"-others in battle renound

Will join in the "Lists of glory"

And Columbia's smile will heal the wound Of poor Erin's bloody story; Watch well the foe, he'll weary at last, Then arise with tempest motion,—
And East, West, North, and South at Pame's blast
Will arouse the brooding ocean!

More Whig Rebellion.

Never since the foundation of parties in this counry, has there been such wide-spread and open re-bellion in any party as has existed in the Whig-ranks, since the sitting aside of the "great unavail-able" Henry Clay, and the nomination, on trust of the "great available" Zachary Taylor. At the moment of the nomination a respectable section of the party in Ohio. Massachusetts, New York and other States dissented from the nomination and checlared the Whig party dissolved, and almost every week some new seeds of dissention maniferted itself Recently Gen. Taylor has written three letters which have started afresh the ire of the Whigs who make any pretentions to consistency. In the letter to Geo Lippard, of Philadelphia, dated July 20, 1848. he reiterates his original declaration, that "he will not be the candidate of a party." In his South Carolina letter he says he would have accepted the nomination of the Baltimore Convention, and in his Chocktaw letter he actually accepts with great satisfaction the nomination of a "large and respectable" meeting, which nominated Zachary/Taylor for President, and Wm. O. Butler for Vice President. This alast act of the old General has carried consternation into the ranks of the friends of Millard Filmore of New York. A call was immediately issued at Albany, a large meeting of faithful Whigs held, the letter of General Taylor denounced, and a Committee appointed to report at a subsequent meeting. Now we submit, was ever a party in our coun try placed in such a humiliating position as this!

The following are the letters of Gen. Taylor referred to above. The first was written to a friend in Charleston, and is as follows:
"I never had any aspirations for the Presidency nor have I now, farther than the wish of my friends are concerned in the matter; nor would I have it Smithfield—T M Beach, H Croswell, 8 Perkins on any other terms than I stated when the subject was first agitated, which is, that "my acceptance must be without pledges of being trammeled in any way, so that I could be the President of the whole nation and not of a party.

"I have accepted the nomination of the Philadelphia Convention, as well as the nomination of many primary assemblies gotten up in various sections of the Union, in some instances irrespective of party, and would have accepted the nomination of the Baltimore Convention had it been tendered on the same terms. I am fully, if not fairly, before the country as a candidate for the Chief Magistracy, and if it should be my good or bad fortune to be elected, I trust my course will be such for the most part, as regards the management of our National affairs, as will meet the approbation of my fellow-citizens Should they fail to do so, they will, I flatter myselt, have the charity to attribute my errors to the and not to the he ead and not to the near.

Very respectfully, your Friend,

Z. TAYLOR Z. TAYLOR
She following is the letter in response to the Smithfield—Sidney Clark H S Kingsley South Carolina meeting that nominated Taylor and Orwell-Cyrus Cook Butler, and in it the readers will observe that he re-pudiates the Philadelphia nomination, as a party nomination, and says it "was generously offered to Sheshequin—Geo C Gote, Wm B Horton hun without pledges or considerations. The generous Whig party renounced all their principles, repudiated all their great leaders and generously offered Athens boro—Jacob Harder Gen. Taylor the nomination of their Convention; Burlington—Jehial McKean, David Soper without pledges or considerations." What condescen-

The friends of Filmere, at Albany, were thrown into a high state of excitement by the appearance of this letter. The Telegraph brings us the following account of their proceedings:

Excitement Among the Whigs-Gen. Taylor's Letter Accepting the South Carolina Nomination De-

ALBANY, Aug. 27 A large meeting of the Whigs was held here last evening, to take into consideration the letter of Gen Taylor accepting the nomination made in South Carolina for the office of President on the same ticket with Gen. Butler, Wm. Parmelee presided assisted by James Kidd and others, as Vice Presidents. The letter was read, and Messrs. John A. Collier, H. B. Haswell, Judge Carpenter, of Otsego, and Lewis Benedict, jr., spoke strongly in denunciation of Gen. Taylor's reply as insulting to Mr. Filmore, and the Whigs of the North.

A committee on resolutions, was appointed to report on Manday evening, in order to give time for consideration.

The feeling of the meeting was decidedly in favor of the demonstrations made by the speakers.

CAPITAL CONVICTION AT WILKESBARRE-At the late Court of Oyer and Terminer for Luzeme county held at Wilkesbarre, James Cadden was convicted of the murder of Daniel Gilligan, on the 10th of August. On the day of the murder Gilligan was at work on a railroad at the mines. A gun was fired from a clump of bushes near by which took effect upon Gilligan, killed him almost instantly! At the same moment Cadden was seen running from the bushes with a gun in his hand, which, with the doshes with a gun in his faild, which, threats of violence he had previously made against threats of violence he had previously made against Cillian satisfied the jury who returned a verdict of "Guilty of marder in the first degree!" YUCATAN:-From Yucaian accounts had been reeived up to the 27th ult., from the capital Merida, confirming the rumors of the continued successes of the whites against the Indians, the tide of success seems to have completely changed. They are rapidly recovering the towns which were taken from them, and were, at the last accounts, entering the castern portion of the country, that part which was the most overron by the indiana. Bacalar, probably the most important place which the In-dians held, had been retaken. Don Lazara Rus had retaken the town of Tinum, distant only four cagues from Valladolid, having completely routed the Indians, killed fourteen of them, and wounded a large number. Accounts had also been received at Merida, of the capture and destruction of Pustanich by the forces under the command of Colonel Zetina. Notwithstanding their triumph, however, in the southern part of the peninsula, it is to be regretted that the government forces do not contrive greated that the government success to not common to gain possession of the territory occupied by the Indians; as, hardly have they succeeded in gaining possession of some point, before they are again obliged to leave it. The insurrection seems to have been most concentrated in that part of the
