Testimony of the most disinterested character of its nderful effects on the animal aconomy is almost daipresented to the proprietor. A young man in the town of Wilson, whose clother

To it is attached a Summer Fixture, upon the boiler boles of which, the wash boiler belonging 1 to the store can be used, thereby readering it in capacity equal to a six boiler store. Coals can be transferred from the firebox directly into the Summ Fixure, by being drawn forward, without the use of a shore! By throwing open the front doors of the fire-box, when broiling of other cooling is done in the Summer Fixure, the fumes from the articles cooking are carried off through the store, without being disseminated into the room. The top of the oren is front texted by an iron plate to prevent an excess of heat opon the articles baking. It can be removed, if the heat is needed to be increased. The oren will be found to bake with store in on formation and the oren will be ound to bake with great uniformity in all its parts.

The only damper for turning the current of heat is a rolling one at the pipe-hole. By being turned forward, the heat is made to pass under the oven, before ascending the pipe. The opening for the purpose of cleaning the flues, is in the lower part of the front plate. The flues, which are three in number-two fip-per and two under-are liberal in size, and afford a good draft to the store. They are perfectly smooth, and without obstruction from the front to the back the stove, and can be easily cleaned with a poker, such as is furnished.

The fire or guard plate can be taken out, and a new one put in, without taking the stove to pieces. But being well protected with cold air, is seldom, if ever required to be renewed. DANIEL LOND.
