

What has become of the North Branch canal? The sinking fund is gradually growing while it is necessary to borrow money to pay interest. This is a sad condition with a vengeance. The North Branch will sleep this season, at a cost to the state of some $200,000, but who is to blame for all this? We say Wm. F. Johnson the man who stamped the state on pledges and violates them now, we presume, without even a shudder.—Luz.

DEATH FROM DRINKING COLD WATER.—In various parts of the country deaths have occurred from the impudent indulgence in cold water when the body was overheated. Too much caution cannot be used especially by laboring persons exposed to the direct rays of the sun. If care is taken to bathe the hands and face before drinking, no evil consequence is likely to arise.

HENRY A. WISE—has written a letter to General Fiske, in reply to the recent article of the latter gentleman in which he declares that he has entirely renounced politics and will take no part in the subject to which Gen. F. has directed his attention.

NO CHOLERA AMONG THE SHAKERS.—The Lebanon (Ohio) Star says that no case has ever occurred in one of the 17 Shaker villages of our county—a circumstance indicating the value of cleanliness and temperance in all things.

CALIFORNIA CIVILIZATION.—The common article of dress in California is a cotton sack, with holes cut for the head and arms of the wearer. Another evidence of Anglo-Saxon ingenuity and energy.

BEER.—It has been decided by Justice Cushing of Boston, that beer is liquor and a more maddening variety of it than any other.

RAILROAD IRON.—The Montour Rolling Mill is now in full operation and the work of making Railroad Iron has been resumed. We trust that the Mill may now have a long and prosperous run of it.

CHEMICAL AFFINITY.—This law in Chemistry is remarkably illustrated in the restoration of the equilibrium between the supply and waste in diseased animal matter through the agency of G. W. Merchant's Celebrated Gargling Oil. It is well known that actions taken place only under certain circumstances, and that some bodies have no tendency to unite chemically, and that others strongly influence each other, their mixture is merely mechanical, and no change takes place. The latter class of bodies in which is included the Gargling Oil in its application to morbid animal matter, act by their affinity for each other, their action being productive of chemical phenomena, and the properties of one or both are altered. Hence to the strong affinity of the constitution of the morbid matter may be referred the beneficial influence exerted over so great a variety of diseases most of which were considered as incurable.
