PÚBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY, AT TOWANDA, BRADFORD COUNTY, PA., BY E. O'MEARA GOODRICH.

TOWANDA:

Wednesdan Morning, September 19, 1849.

(For the Bradford Reporter) Fragments from a Portfolio.—No. 7.

LIFE.

PART FIRST. A a r minstrebbox over his loved his was beilding. Windowg sweet tones from each tremb, ug string; And with those strants—a contice charm frending—If cown slicery voce was narmonously blending; And thus, as I noted that minstreid disting;

Oh. I te' s joyous '- Every hour seems bringing Oh. He shoyous "- Every hour seems by nging I pon is passing wing some new delight.
And nature sheather a liaround us springing.
Elechant mostestier, the food-gazing sight.
Gat by ds art, warthing in the grove's recesses.
A did not danging if their wings they lave;
The cases are stirring with the soft caresses.
That some lightly needed, playing epplying ave.

Oh. if is revous?—Lovely flowers are blooming.

And nour pathway deny impresses sked,
A number of court tootsteps may be roaming.
They much of overness is round, its spread.
And who e commun on dear with nature holding.

We is some more of analy after rest.

There much be to analy after rest.

There is weet though it is the number bads unfolding.

Waken yet rangurous feelings in the breast.

te sous is - Nature's mystic wh spers. the strong - Nature a mystic was speed, from no soft loneity valle and grove, rounds were round a maximum, and her vespeed, rounds from our hearts the me ody of over the sweet transports in our bosom glowing— he worst priority by the ment of the ment of the ment of the sweet transports in our bosom glowing— he would be able to round us throwing, a sixtent it cannot be a dream.

was a fine and common three services of the se

& corons -Loved ones round are am ling, With one linear, and beauty-mou deal form, a measure of the folias completely fitting— With a first the for first purest feelings, warm, so has raught to bring a sigh of sadness; the purest feelings warm, so has raught to bring a sigh of sadness; the purest have the form as of the first pure surface, as for the sadness tremble in our ways for the pure surface as for the first pure surface and the

A Story of the Press Gang,

WRONDS OF A WIFE AND THE REVENGE OF OF A HUSBAND.

andoors when I am not with you, or I shall have that he embroiled himself with a presigning!-Pesperate, frenzied were the effons he made made 202 a revolved himself. In vain! His protestaoce that he was a mate, a captain, in the merchant service, was unbeeded or mocked at.

To all his remonstrances he only got the profesconstanswer-"His majosty wants you, and that d crough, so so come along and no more about Rused, exhausted, almost mad, he was borne of in traumph to a boat, into which he was throst with several others, and swiftly rowed off to a reeiring ship in the river. Even there, his asserions and protestations were of no avail. Nothing or an Admirality order the officer in command andally told him, should effect his liberation.-He majesty was in want of seamen, and he was cory of serving his country. "You must there-" concluded the officer, as he turned laughingand his heel, "do as thousands of other fine

4 be Mediterranean, on board the " Active " frie-A Paptain Alexander Gordon, without having becaused one opportunity of communicating and the shore. This was certainly very sharp, THE Was not the less very common 'practice in your husband!"

-was indeed quite alarmed about---

teheve, is mine?"

"On, certainly as long as you pay for it;" and I rality for his release. with the light, and after giving her son his break- that not practice in that court, the highest talent announced to me, as I was sitting some what later fast from the remains of that of the day before, which its bar afforded. Willy, who had been place than usual, at Chambers by Mr. William Friend. set off with him to the place of brainess of the ed in a workhouse by the authorities, we had prop. The judgment to, die was confirmed! All our Mesers Roberts. It was early, and one clerk only or y taken care of this be restored to his representations had not sufficed to counterbalance had yet arrived at the clipe. He informed her matner; or in the event of her couraction, to his the supposed necessity of exhibiting terrible examthat Mr. Henry Mason had not been seen, and that relatives in Devonshire.

The pariners were greatly annoyed about it, as his The session were at last on a "true bill" against fence said to be greatly on the increase. Excel-tell convinced that her husband had been entrap- proceeding. A few minutes after I entered, Mr. horrible trage ly—this national disgrace—this act ped and must level for the sake of the money he Justice Lo Blance and Mr Baron Wood, who had of gross barbarity on the part of the great personhad about him, the wretched woman tottered back assisted at an important case of stock Jobbing con- age who, first having carried off the poor woman's How Mison had married Esther Woodford, the to her lodgings, and threw herself on the bed in spiracy. 1 st over left the bench; the learned recor husband, left her to die for an act the very consewith a laber Woodford, who was killed by an wild despute. What was to be done for food even there being doubties considered quite equal to the quence of that robbery. Who among the spectators cer even fan in Plymouth dockyard, of which he for her boy? Her husband had not only his pock- trial of a mere capital charge of their. wis freman. Henry had loved Esther when she e-book with him containing his larger money, but The prisoner was placed in the dock; but try as hangman taking the boby from the breast of the was a gal, but she had, in a jealous pique maried had taken her purse! She was alone and penni- I might I could not look at her. It happened to be wreighed creature just before he put her to death! A'er the death of her husband, she less in a strange city! The hungry wailings of her a culm bright summer day, the air, as if in mock- But list us not rake up these terrible reminiscences. veni to fer tip her-in-law, taking with her an only witless child towards evening at length aroused her ery of those death-ressions, humming with busy, lusbell We've a sweet boy, but of weak intellect from the stupor of despair into which she had fair ty life; so that, sitting with my back to the prison- let us take consolution from reflecting that this Here the cld love was revived, and Henry Mason, Ien. The miserable resource of pawning occur- er, I could, as it were, read their demeanor in the event led the great Romilly to enter on his ceiebrawho had become mate of a first class merchant- red to her? she could at least, by pledging a part shadow thrown by her figure on the opposite sun- ted career as a reformer of the criminal law. man, belonging to the respectable house of Messis. For her wardrobe, prorure sustenance for her child lighted wall. There she stood, during the brief The remains of Esther Mason were obtained from Roberts, of London married the widow Esther — until she could hear from her sister; and with trem- moments which sealed her earthly door, with the Newgate officials, and quie is interred in St. The events of their subsequent life are thus related thing hands she began arranging a bundle of such downcast eyes and utterly dejected posture, her Sepulchre's church-yard. A plain slab, with her a new Notes of a Distinguished Barrister."

Things as she could best spare, when the landlady thin fingers playing mechanically with the flowers name only plainly chiselled upon it, was some abrubtly entered the room, with a peremptory de- and sweet scented herbs that lie scattered scantily time afterwards placed above the grave. A few he had been profitably enough employed mand—as her husband was not returned, and did before her. The trial was very brief: the evidence, years ago I attended a funeral in the same churchthis interim—that Henry Mason, in consequence not appear likely to do so—for a month's rent in emphatically conclusive, was confidently given, yard, and after a slight search, discovered the spot. the welcome announcement that the new both advance, that being the term the apartments were and vainly cross-examined. Nothing remained. The inscription, though of course much worn, was nas at last ready for her captain and cargo, arrived engaged to:. The tears, entreaties, expositilations i at an elaborate ad misericorbiam, excusative destill quite legible. a London to enter upon his new appointment. ... of the miscrable wife were of no avail. Not one fence which had been prepared by me, and which "These lodgings, Esther," said he, as he was article, the woman declared, should leave her the prisoner begged her consul might be allowed but I was glad to hear from Mr. William Friend reparing to go out, soon after breakfast on the morn-house till the claim was settled. She affected to to read. This was of course refused; the recorder that, after the first passionale burst of rage and grief after his arrival, "are scarcely the thing; and doubt, perhaps really did so, that Esther was not remarking, they might as well allow counsel for had subsided, he had, apparently at least, thanks as I like you, am a stranger in Cockney-land, I manied; and hinted coarsely at an enforcement of felons to address junes, as read defences; and that, to the tender and pious expostulations of his wife and better consult some of the firm upon the subec: before we decide upon permanent ones. In of subsistence. In a parexysm of despair, the subversive of the due administration of justice.—
he meantime you and Willie must mind and keep unhappy woman rushed out of the house and acone or the other of you lost in this great wilderness counting house of the Blesses. Roberts. She was and very vilely done. The clerk, I dare say, read now its much too late as she had been too early in as well as he was able; but old, near-sighted, and the morning; the partners and clerks had gone, possessed of everything but a clear enunciation. have your purse. Good-by. God be merciful, and and she appears to have been treated with some what could be expected? The defence, so read, him into a paroxysm of fury; and the subject was Inquiring his way every two or three minutes; uses when she arrived. Possibly the wildness of corjary. The recorder briefly commented on the Mason presently found himself in the vicinity of her looks and the incoherence of her speech and a conclusivences of the evidence for the presecution. Friend called on me just after breakfast, accompa-Tower Stairs. A scuille in front of a public house mariner, produced an impression, unfavorable to and the jury, in the same brief, his iness like manattracted his attention; and his ready sympathies ner. Retracing her steps—penniless, hungry, sick oner returned a verdict of guilty. were in an instant entisted in behalf a young sai- at heart—she thought, as she afterwards delared, rainly struggling in the grasp of several athine recognised my wife in one of the numerous the men, and crying lustily on the gaping by ladies souted before the counters of a fashionable standers for help. Mason sprang forward, caught shop in one of thoroughfares. She entered, and me of the assailants by the collar, and harled him not till she approached close to the lady, discoverwith some violence against the wail. A fierce out- ed her mistake. She turned despairingly away; in greeted this audacious interference with gen le- when a piece of rich lace, lying apparently unnea who, in these good old times, were but exe- needed on the counter, met her eye, and a dreadusing the law in a remarkably good old manner | ful suspicion crossed her fevered brain; here at Leut Donnaghen, a somewhat celebrated snap- least was the means of procuring food for her per-up of loose mariners, emerged upon the scene, walling child. She glanced learfully and hastily and ha few minutes was enabled to exult in the round. No eye, she thought, observed her: and, ecure possession of an additional prize in the un- horror of horrors! a moment afterwards she had or coate Henry Mason, who, too late, discovered concealed the lace beneath her shawl, and with tottering feet was hastily leaving the shop. She of the infant at your breast-your husband"had not aken half a dozen steps when a heavy cate himself from the peril in which be had hand; was laid upon her shoulder, and a voice, as of a serpent hissing in her car, commanded her to restore the lace she had stolen. Transfixed with > the lace fell on the floor. ing one of the shoomen.

No-no-no? screamed the wretched woman, falling on her knees in wild supplication.-

tabe as vet unborn-have pity and forgive me." The harsh order was reiterated; and Esther Mr. ed to the prison in Giltspur street. The next day choaking sob struggled in her throat; and but for she was fully committed to Newgate on the capital charge of privately scaling in a shop to the traiently too smart a one to be deprived of the value of five pounds. A tex hours after her incarreration within those terrible walls, she was prematurely delivered of a female child.

I have no moral doubt whatever, I never have was have been compelled to do-grin and had, that at the time of the committed of the felonear it In about three weeks from the date of lous act, the intellect of Either was disordered is imprisonment, Mason found himself serving Any other supposition is inconsistent with the whole tenor of her previous life and character.-"Lead as not into temptation" is indeed the hohest, because the humblest, prayer.

Three weeks has elapsed before the first intimation of these events reached me, in a note from the the great days of triumphant battles by land and chaplain of Newgate, an excellent, kind-heated reached the street, a long, piercing screen inform man, in whom Mrs. Mason had confided her sad ten dreamly passed the time with the bereaved story. I immediately hastened to the prison; and the hastened to send home in a long interview with her, elicited the foregoing elspsed previous to the recorder presenting his re-something for dinner, and various groceries; yet statement. I readily assured her that all which le- port to the privy council—a peculiar privilege at some other channel to the Davies, with whom the hour after hour went past, and nothing arrived -- gal skill could do to extricate her from the awful that time attached to the office---to produce a miti- boy had been placed; and a rapid improvement Morning flushed into noon, day faded to twilight, position in which she stood, the gravity of which I gried of the sentence. A petition, setting forth in their circumstances was soon visible. These and still the well known and always eager step did not affect to conceal, should be done. The et- the peculiar circumstances of the case, was careful- remittances ceased about the middle of 1814; and sounded not upon the stairs. What could have de-fence with which she was charged had supplied by prepared, and by the infatigable exertions of an atwelvementh after the peace with America, we astained him from his wife, shut up, imprisoned, as the scaffold with numberless victums; and trades excellent Quaker gentleman—whom, as he is still certained that Henry Mason had been killed in the going to and returning from Waterloo." The two it were, in that hot, hurrying, stiffing city! She men were more than ever clamorous for the stem, alive, and might not choose to have his name blafeared to listen to the suggestions of her boding execution of a law which spite of experience, they | zoned to the world, I will call William Friend— guished himself, as everywhere else, by the reckheart, and with feverish restlessness ran out upon the landing, and peered over the stairs every time to, bowever, obstinately refused to stach his name against the country which he accused of the mura knock or ring was heard at the street door. This her anxiety to save her unhappy foster-sis er, sought, to the document; and the absence of his signature der of his wife. He was recognised by one of his league's distance from us. Then we set off runstrange behaviour was it seems noticed by the with my knowledge, an interview with the prose- so strangely did men reason on such matters in former messmates on the "Active," who conveylandlady of the lodging-house, and injuriously in- cutor, in the hope of inducing him not to press the those days-would, it was feared, weigh heavily ed a prisoner on board the American Commander terpreted. A knock came to the door, and that charge. He had sufagainst the success of the petition. The amiable Macdonough's ship, recognized him as he lay ing the Disperor by come five limited. person entered to know at what time Mrs ---, she fered much, he said, from such practices, and was and enlightened Sir Samuel Romilly not only at stretched on the deck, in the uniform of an Amerihad forgotten the young woman's name, expected, "upon principle," determined to make an example tached his name, but aided us zealously by his all can naval officer; his countenance, even in death, the dinner, she, the landledy, had undertaken to of every offender he could catch. As to the plea vice and influence. In short nothing was omitted wearing the same stormful defiant expression that her hu-band had been forcibly carried off by a that appeared likely to attain the desired object. Esther timidly replied that her hisband had propress gang, it was absurd; for what would become Two days before the petition was to be forwardmised to return in two or three hours at least, and 'of the property of tradesmen if the wife of every | cd to the proper quarter, Henry Mason arrived in that she did not comprehend his continued absence | sailor so entrapped were to be allowed to plunder England, the exertions of his employers having shops with impunity? This magnificent reason- procured his discharge. The "Active" was one 4. Your husband! said the woman glancing in- soming was of course unangwerable; and the re- of Captain Hoste's squadron, which obtained the solen'ly at Esther's figure. "Are you sure he is buked politioner abandoned her bootless errand in celebrated victory off Lissa, over the Franco Vendespair. Messrs. Roberts, I should have mention etian fleet commanded by Admiral Dobourdieu.— The hot blood suffused the temples of the indig-, ed, had by some accident discovered the nature of Henry Mason, it appeared by the testimonials of nant wife as she said, "This apartment, madam, I the misfortone which had tallen their officer, and the captain and officers of his ship, had greatly dis-

The long wretched night was over, Esther rose time; I, however took care to secure at once; as I tience the result of the recorder's report. It was immediate presence was absolutely necessary. Ester Mason for shoplifting, as it was popularly lent William Friend wept the a child as he made Stunned, terrified bewildered by the frighful termed, was unhestatingly found, and with a heavy the annou cement. culamity which she believed had befallen her, she heart, I wended my way to the court to watch the . There are many persons alive who recollect this companied by her hungry child, again sought the prisoner felt too agriated to do so. This was done, counting house of the Messis. Roberts. She was and very vilely done. The clerk, I dare say, read from her, and that was any admission that she had rudeness by the porter, who was closing the premaproduced not the slightest effect either on the court consequently in his presence studiously avoided.

> "What have you to say," demanded the clerk. why the scutence of death should not be pronounced upon you. according to law !

The shadow started convulsively as the terrible words fell from the man's lips; and I saw that the suddenly apraised eyes of the prisoner were fasten ed on the face of the fearful questioner. The lips. too, appeared to move; but no sound reached my

"Speak woman," said the recorder, " if you have anything to trige before sentence is pronounce

I started up and turning to the prisoner, besomits her in hurried accents to speak. "Remind them

"Who is that conferring with the prisoner #1 demanded the judge in an angry voice.

I turned and confronted him with a look as cold as baughty as his own. He did not think proper shame and terror, she stood rooted to the spot, and to pursue the inquiry further and after mettering something about the necessity of not interrupting "Fetch an other," said the harsh voice, address, the proceedings of the court, again asked the prisoner if she had anything to urge.

"Not for myself-not for my sake," at last faint ly murmured the nembling woman; "but for that For my child's sake-in mercy of the innocent of my poor dear infant-my poor witless boy! I do not think sir, I was in my right mind. I was starving. I was friendless. My husband too, whom son, fainting with shame and agony, was convey- fou have heard - She stopped abruptly; and a the supporting arm of one of the turnkeys, she would have fallen to the ground.

" Unhappy, guilty woman," said the with the coolness of a demon, "the plea of insuriis you would set up is utterly untenable. You husband, it seems, is serving his majesty in the roya! navy; defending his country, whilst his wife was breaking its laws, by a commission of a crime which, but for the stem repression of the law would sap the foundations of the security of propenty, and

I could endure no more. The atmosp the court seemed to stiffe me; and I reshed for refiel into the open air. Before, however, I had ed me that the learned judge had done his disty:

had already made urgent application to the Admittinguished himself in the action. We enclosed rudely slamming the door, the landlady departed. The Ott Bailey session did not come on for some done all in our power, awaited with anxious impathese papers with the petition, and then, having can ever forget that hear-rendering scene-the

-with whom, by the kind intervention of the sheriffs, he was permitted long and frequent interviews -settled down into calmness and resignation.-One thing only he would not bear to hear even been quity of even the slightest offence. A hint nied by the bereaved husband. I never saw so thanged a man. All the warm kindness of his nature had vanished, and was replaced by a gloomy. fierce austerity, altogether painful to contempiate. " Well, well, sir," said he, as he barely touched my proffered band, " they have killed her, you see, spite of all you could say or do. It much availed me, too, that I had helped to win their boasted victories;" and he langhed with savage

"Henry.-Henry!" exclaimed William Friend in a tentoring accent.

"Well, well, sir," rejoined Mason, impatiently, "You are a good man, and have of course your own notions on these matters: I also have mine Or perhaps you think it is only the blood of the rich and great which, shed unjustly, brings forth the iron barvest? Forgive me," he added, checking himself. " I respect you both; but my heart is tarned to stone. You do not know-none ever knew but i-how kind, how loving, how gentle was that poor long suffering girl."

He turned from us to hide that terrible which convolsed him.

"Henry," said Mr. Friend, taking him kindly by the hand, "we pity thee sincerely, as thou knowest, but thy bitter, revengeful expressions are unchristain, sinfol. The authorities whom thou not for the first time, ralesst on so wildly, acted, be sure of it, from asense of duty : a mistaken one, in my opinion, doubtless; stih"----

"Say no more, sir," interrupted Mason. "We differ in opinion spon the subject. And now gentlemen, farewell. I wished to see you, sir, before I left this country, forever, to thank you for your kind, though fruitless exertions. Mr. Friend has promised to be steward for poor Willy, for all I can remit for his use. Farewell. God bless you both!"

Wat soon afterwards broke out with the United States of America, and Mr. Friend discovered that one of the most active and daring officers in the tered the American service in the maiden name of his wife; and that the large sums he had remitted from time to time for the use of Wally, were the produce of his successful dependations on British commerce. The instant Mr. Friend made the diswhich it assumed on the day that his beloved Hes- ning; but at any rate I was there. In a moment ter perished on the scaffold.

THE Loss of Honor -It is stated in Laing's Res idence in Norway, that the panishment of death was abolished in that country about the latter end of the last century. But the punishment which is the most effective, and which affends conclusive were the officer's cross of the legion of honor. I proof of the high tone of thought and teeling pervading a whole people, forming one of the most dis tinguishing characteristics of that country, is that of Loss of Honor. This from the earliest time was a ors. His forehead fell forward; his features, imspecified effective punishment in the criminal law movable, were of the yellowish color of wax; onlife. The loss of honor is not regarded by this per-his left, was Prace Jerome, a King without a kingple as an unmeaning and trivial pun shment, as it dom, but a faithful brother. He was at that period would by the poof and ignorant classes of seciety a fine young man of six and twenty or thirty years among almost every other nation, but it is viewed of age, his features regular and well-formed; his with dread, as a terrible visitation. Many offices, beard black, his hair elegantly arranged and area and trusts, as committees, for various purposes, val. Lived in place of his brother, whose vague glance nators, arbitors, or jurymen, to say nothing of more seemed lost in the future perliane in the past. Egnified situations, devolved on the people under Opposite the Emperor was Letort, his sid-de-camp he superintendance of the legal authorities. The seclusion from these affairs and functions, which figure, the legal sentence of the loss of honor mluces, is a punishment so severely felt, that ere are instances of pulprits, after that portion of most ment consisting in slavery for a certain peist. had been completed, returning to their chains committing some petry offence, rather than five as outcas's miler the sentence of dishonor, among their former friends.

A FRICHTENED BOARDER.—We find the following in the Baltimore Cirpper:

"A gentleman recently returned from affendiffig. s a witness, at the trial of Tom Hyer, the purilist, at Chestertown, Kent County, related to as the folowing most amusing circumstance, which occurred at one of the principal hotels in that place. Among the unusually large number of boarders. emonstrate with his boarder, and remarked to him, My friend, you eat so much that I shall certainly have to tharge you an extra half dollar!" "An podness' sake don't do that; I'm most dead now. eating three dollars' worth, and if you put an extrahalf dollar's worth on, I shall certainly sue you for nanslanghter.:"

MORAL CHARACTER.—There is nothing which dils so much to the beauty and power of man, as a good character. It is his wealth-his influence -us life. It dignifies him in every station-exat min every condition, and glorifies him at every period of life. Such a character is more to be desired than everything else on earth. It makes man free and independent. No service tool-no crouching sycophant-no treacherous honor-seeker ever bore such a character. The pure joys of truth and righteoneness never spring in such a person.-If young men but knew how much a good characer would dignify and exalt them-how glorious it would make their prospects, even in this life; never should we find them yielding to the greveling and base born passions of human nature.

Darsang Workes.-Nine times out of ten, wound will heat quicker if done up in its own blood, than in any other way. As for a born, whatever will entirely exclude the air the quickest, is force. Perhaps it was bent a little lower; but there the best. Conon will do this. So will oiled silk, if spek down at the edges by any kind of sticking salves. Put nothing on a burn to heal it. Na. tire will soon do that, when the air is excluded and the pain will almost immediately cease.

The sons of the poor die rich-while sons of the rich die poor. Whatencouragement to mil through life to acquire wealth to rain our children! Better to make use of our money as we go along-edurate our sons - secure their virtue by habits of Industry and study, and let them take care of themeltes.

To Bon Coasen Beer .- Put the beet in water enough to cover a, and let it heat slowly, and boil head sell on his chest. The horses earned him slow, and be careful to take off the grease. Ma- away as if they had wargs?" ny think it much improved by boiling potatoes tarnips, and cabbage with it. In this case the vegetables must be peeled, and all the grease careful ly ekimmed as fast it rises. Allow about twenty minutes of boiling for each pound of met.

A gentleman looking upon an extensive configgration, expressed his surprise in three words, each Republican navy, was Henry Mason, who had en- the name of an English author. Dickens, Howits, cover it well. Let it simular for two hours and a and it was the wife

A Miss Persons, of Vermont, has lately married to a Mr. Pye. THE PARTY OF To (to use printer parlance,) Mirs Pompton in The intertwee to popular question in the large to be " backed man at May an excess of mar heart of in to say the fair lady the the little

. Waterloo Before and After:

TO SAMOR OF

We were fouribly struck lately (says the Knick erbocker.) in reading Dumas of Shores of the Rhimmith by this countrasted picture of "Napolica thought he would not stop, whatever might be the crowd awaiting him, and so made for the posthouse, when I sunk down half dead with the runappeared, turning a corner of a street; the foaming horses; then the postillions all covered with ribbons; then the carriages themselves; then the people f lowing the carriages. The carriages stopped at the post. I saw Napoleon ! He was diessed in a green coat, with little epaides, and only saw his bust framed in the square of the carriage window. His head tell mon his chest-that famous medallic head of the old. Roman Emperf Norway, standing next in Jegree to the loss of ly his eyes appeared to be align. Next him; on and ardent soldiers, who seemed already to snoth the air of battle; ne was willing too, the poor leilow, as if he had long days to live! All this lasted for about a minute. Then the whip cracked; the horses neighed, and it all disappeared like a vision.

" Three days afterward, toward evening, some cople arrived from St Quentin; they suid that as they came away they heard cannon. The morn g of the seventeenth a courier arrived who scale ered all slong the road the news of the vactory. The eighteenth nothing. The mineteenth nothing: only rague rumors were absord, comiligation one knew whence. It was said that the Emperoration at Brussels. The twentieth three men in man type wounded, and riding jaded horses all covered with foam, entered the town, and were instanting and there was one whose appetite at the table seemed rounded by the whole population, and pushed into to know no bounds; every dish in his vicinity was the count-yard of the town-house. These then cleared by him before any one else could get a tasto, hardly spoke: French. They were, it believes The landlord very patiently bore it forseveral days Westphalians, beloging somehow to our army in silence, indulying in the hope that his boarder's To all our questions they only shook their heads proved delinate; at every meal his appents seem. ted the field of battle of Waterloo at eight o'clock, ed, if possible, to sharpen up; till at length the and that the battle was lost when they teame away. landlord, unable to stand it any longer, ventured to it was the advanced agreed of the familiare. ... We would not believe them. We said these men were Proseians spies. Napoleon could not be theaten! That fine army which we find seem pers could not extra half dollar!" replied his boarder, with a be destroyed. We wanted to put the poor fellows countenance the very picture of despair- "for into prison; so quickly had we sorgonen '13 and '14, to remember the years which had gone before! My mother san to the fort, where she passed the whole day, knowing it was there the news must arrive, whatever it were. During this time I looks ed out in the maps for Waterloo, the name of which even I could not find, and began to think the place was imaginary, as was the men's: accounts of the battle. At four o'clock, more fugitives strived, who confirmed the news of the first comers These were French, and could give all the details which we asked for. They repeated what the chers had said, only adding that Napoleon and his brother were killed. This we would not believe: Napoleon might not be investible invulnerable he certainly was. Fresh news more terrible and disastrous continued to come in until ten ciclock at night.

> " At ten o'clock at mint we heard the noise of a carriage. It stopped, and the Postmaster went out with a light. We followed him, as he ran to the door to ask for news. Then he started a step back and cried. " it's the Emperor !" I got our a stone bench and looked over my mother's shoulder. The was indeed Napoleon; scated in the same corner, in the same uniform, his head on his breast as he was not a line in his countenance, not an altered feature, to mark what were the feelings of the great gambler, who had just staked and lost the world. Jerome and Letort were not with him to bow and smile in his place. Jerome was gathering together the remnants of the army, Extort had been cut in two by a cannon ball. Napoleon lifted his head slowly, looked round as if rousing from a dream, and then, with his brief, strident voice What place is this?" he said "Villeis Crosses Sire." "How many leagues fines Spissons Po-Six Sire " # Prom Paris? * @Nineman a Tell the post buys to go quick, 2 and be price more fluing himself back into the corner of his carriage, his The world knows what and taken place between these two apporations of Napoleon!

To Bott a Traxay-Make a stuffing for the craw, of chopped bread and butter, common system and volks of eggs. Sew it in and disales flow over the turkey and put it to boil in cold water. with a spoonfull of salt in it, and enough water to balf or if small, less time. Skim i while bodies it looks nices if wrapped in a clock dredged with Contract Marine Part of the second The state of the state of the state of the pleasure of seeing her at the ministers