Aggesenktural. Culture of Cotu.

Unless your land be fertile, plant no more com than you can manure, and be sore to tend that well. The corn plant having one that requires full diet, in is fatile to expect a romanerating return for labor bestowed except when grown in soil naturally rich. or where they may be made so by plentifut appli ca ions of enriching manures.

It is within the power of most men who sedulous ly set themselves to work to accumulate the raw materials to be converted into manure, for, on ev ery marsh, in every woods, and on each shore, are to be found the clements which, by admixture with ashes, potash or white ash, will make good manure. A few bushels of the first, or a few poun de of the two latter minerals, will be sufficient to transform as many cast loads of the marsh mad and Br. Swayne's Compaund Syrup of Wild Cherry other substances into manure as will furt. i e an acre of land, and where neither of the above mineral substances may be at hand one load of stable or bani yard manure will 'eaven up two loads of mud. or mack, or other crude substances, and convert them by the use of one battle of Dr. Bweyne's Compound into good manure in a few works, by mixing the Symp of Wild Cherry, Le was restored to perfect two different matters together.

Preparation of the ground.—Deep and careful ploughing is just essential to the successful growth ed I send you a certificate of Win. Beaumont, a citiof corn as good soil; so luxuriant a plant, must be provided with ample pasturage for the spread and descent of its lateral and tap roots. Consulting the wants of the corn plant we deem it important that the land should be, as we have stated above, ploughed deep, and thoroughly pulverised by the harrow and roller. Give to it a deep and fine bed. well supplied with strong manures, keep the land cleanly worked afterwards, and unless the season be very inanspicious, your labors cannot fail to be crowned with a large crop of corn; for when well treated, it generously returns all favors bestowed.

Distance of rows -Corn planted 4 by 3 feet, we think is about the right distance to ensure a large crop. Two and three-stalks in a hill-but this dis tance and thickness can only be sustained ander circumstances of good soil and plentiful supplies of proper food. In thin lands, unless highly manured, not more than one stalk should be left in a hill -The furrows should run north and south

Number of grains in a hill.-From 4 to 6 grains of corn should be dropped in each hill; the plants to be thinned out at the first working to 2 or 3, the strongest being selected to remain; position of the plant to be regarded in such selections.

Preparation of the seed .- 1. Make a soak by dissolving a pint of commonstar, or I pint of gas house tar, in three gallons of boiling water; stir until the whole of the tar is dissolved, then put a bushel of coin into the vessel with the soak. If the soap does no cover the corn, add more witer. Soak the corn one day, then drain off the liquid, and add a sufficiency of ashes, or ashes and plaster, to coat the grains of corn. As this is being put in, the corn must be stirred so that all the grams may receive a coating of the ashes or ashes and plaster. As soon as this is done, the seed corn will be fit to plant-more corn should not, however, be taken to the field than can be planted during each day and all except what may be in the hands of the drop pers should be kept covered from the weather .-The liquid drained off will answer for a second of third soak.

2. Dissolve one pound of saltpetre in four gallons of boiling water. In this soak a bushel of seed eorn for one day, then drain of the solution, and stir plaster and ashes with the seed until the grains shall be covered.

3: Dissolve 2 lbs. copperagin ten gallons of hot water, soak a bushel of corn therein one day, then drain off the solution from the corn, and stir in half a gallon of soft soap, when the grains are thorough ly soaped, add as much plaster br ashes, or, both mixed, as will separate the grains of com and ren der them easy to be dropped.

4. Dissolve 2 lbs. of glauber or epsom salts, in 10 gallons of hot water, soak a bashel of corn therein as above, drain and treat as before advised. Either of the above solutions after being drained off will serve to be used a second or third time. Quantity of Seed per Acre.-The calculation is. that a peck of core will plant an acre of land.

Quantity of Manure per Acre.-Twenty double horse cart loads of manure will dress an acre of land. It should be spread broadcast over the land, and ploughed in as deep as the team can place it If convenient, the corn would be greatly benefited by putting a pint or half purt of compost into each to be well mixed together. 400 lbs guano, and 1 bushel of plaster, will ensure a good crop of corn, so will 200 lbs guand and 8 bushels of bone earth. or 20 bushels of hone earth. 10 bushels of ashes and 1 bushel of plaster. Each to be ploughed in.

Com; when planted upon grass swards or cloverleys, is much intested with grub and cut-worms: our remedy for that was, the sowing of 2 bushels of salt broadcast to the acre, so soon as the corn plants

Hemp and Flax -It will soon be time to put there crops in the ground, and we need hardly add, that is well known to all who have tested it. It has been they each require a deep rich soil, which should proved in thousands of instances, and has be well ploughed and reduced to fine ti th; seven I harrowings at different intervals will be found advantageous. .

Sowing -Be careful in the selection of your seeds, particularly for vegetables. Use none that are over one year old, and purchase only those of he lest kinds. Sow not to thick-let the plants have room to spread and grow, and notwith s anding the spare appearance at first, the yield will, in the end, be much larger and better than by crowding the beds beyond their natural caracity. Farmers living-near towns or markets should sow as early as possible; early vegetables command the highest prices, and many will admit of several erops, such as lettuce, cucumbers, onions, &c. The vegetable business has become an important feathre in the revenues of our farmers; and is therefore entitled to attention.

HEALTHY FOOD .- Of all the articles of food, boiledince is digested in the shortest time—an hour .-Pripe and pig's feet are digested almost as rapidly. Apples, if sweet and ripe, are next in order. Venison is directed almost as coon as apples. Roasted potatoes are digested in half the time required by the same regetables boiled, which occupy three hours and a half-more than beef or multon. Bread occupies three hours and a quarter. Stewed oys ters and boiled egge are digested in three hours and schall-an hour more than is required by the same articles raw. Torkey and goose are converted in two hours and a half, and an hour and a half sooner than chicken. Roasted veal, pork, and called begin the land. Those who are underthy seemily of proecopy five hours and a half—which is longer than any other aniele of food.
