Last week we gave an account of the position occupied by Mr. Lowazv, in the memorable contest between the triends of Freedom and the Slavery propaganda, in 1848, taken from the Tioga Bonner. The following article from the same paper, gives Mr. Lowazv's political history prior to that period, and shows the consistency with which men act when they ask for him the support of Mr. Without stands out before the people as its advocate and sustainer. Mr. Without stands of the vocate and sustainer. Mr. Without stands of the vocate and sustainer. Mr. Without men act when they ask for him the support of Democrats and Freemen :-

There is that connected with Mr. Lowrey's polineal course that ought to form an insuperable obsection to his nomination and election this fall. It is known to most of our readers who have resided some length of time in the county, that till he was nominated by this county for the Senate in 1838, he was hardly suspected of having any leaning towards the Democratic party—ne was in fact con-sidered by most as one of the staunchest friends of whig principles. He always opposed General Jackson, and his vote was probably given against Martin Van Buren in 1836. This, however, of itself would form no insuperable objection to his nomination, if since 1836 or '38, he had remained a firm and steadfast democrat, attached to the principles, and carrying out the measures, of pure democracy He might quote some distinguished examples now in the county, who have jumped from the whiz party direct into the lan of democracy maxed to make the whop by some of the best offices in the gift of the party.

In 1838, the very year in which he left openly the whig party and joined the democracy, Mr Lowrey bolted the Senatorial nomination made by this district that fall, used the most strenuous efforts against the nominee of the party, a citizen of Tioga county, who was preferred in the general convention to himself, and went in for a citizen of Venango county, who afterwards disgraced the Senate mber at Harrisburg by his drunkenness and dehanchery Mr. Lowiey, however, was not aware of this fault in the Venango candidate, and we do not impute that to him as blame It is true, too, that he received the nothination of this county, but not of the district. In 1839 and 42 Mr. Lowrey supported the Whig candidates for Register and Recorder and for Prothonotary. In 1845 he supported a whig for the former office, and the old incombent for the latter, who had the year before token a whop over to the democratic side.

In July, 1846, the Tariff law of 1842 was repenied, and the Tariff of 1846 passed. Mr. Wilmot was then a member of Congress from this district on his first term; and, while every other member the democratic delegation from Pennsylvania had deserted the democratic, and went over to the Whig side of the House, on that great question, he 8'00 I firm and ba't'ed manfully for the democracy -battleing for the man of small means against the encroachments of capital-for universal protection eganst special protection of the few at the expense of the many. The Democratic party were triumphhatled as the bright but "lone star of Pennaylva-na" by the united Democracy of the nation It was during that very summer and fall-for the bold and straitforward course he had pursued-for fearsaly sustaining the democracy and its principles -that the first signs of opposition manifested themselves towards him in this village. It was said he must be put down—a new man must be got up and run in over him—for what! For the reason, openly and avowed, that he supported the Parist of 1846, and refused, like James Thompson and others, to turn traitor to his principles and his party. Among Mr. Wilmot's open and bitter opponents, that summer and fall, and for the very reason open-Iv arowed as above, was found Mr. Lowney. was one of the main instruments in bringing Mr. WHITE upon the course—one of the chief negotia ters in that coalition of Whigs and 1842 Tariff men. He was too, one of the most earnest workers in the opposition to the regular nominee for Assembly, in the well-fought battle with Mr. Nilks as leader, to defeat John C. Knox. True, he did not sing-

"We're for Niles. all hale and hearty.
Down with Clymer and the Bidgham party"but then he has no voice for singing; besides, his based upon his supporting one of the main articles in the Baltimore Platform. He was opposed because he was, in the opinion of the coalition, too opposition to Mr. Wilmot two years ago, we shall speak herea(er.) Now, we ask, in view of the above whether the professed democratic opponents of Mr. Wilmot can consistently ask the democratic party to support Mr. Is wrey, whose course has, ever since he professed to join the democratic party, been more or less in opposition to democratic men and democratic measures. We find no fault with him as a man for supporting men not of the party, or for advocating opinions in opposition to democracy. He had a perfect right to do so: He no doubt acted homestly in his course. But, then, he ought not to turn round and ask those men and that party now to support him. He ought not to base his right to support upon being a democrat, when his past course shows that he is not to be relied on as a democrat.

We have still stronger reasons to utge why Mr. Lowery ought not to be supported. They are to be bound in the fact that he comes up as the candidate of that coalition against Mr. Wilmot, organized first at Washington under the direction of the bitter opponents of human freedom, and sub-organized in his district under the patronage of men, who would amost seem to be willing to sacrifice human freedom-all the rights of humanity-Nonhern independence-even their own manhood for the pality Policy of securing the southern influence to their Parly—whose organ in this county is the Eagle, and in bradford county the North Pennsylvanian. We "seem to be willing," for we do not wish to believe that any northern man-much less some of the men engaged in this unholy wartare against Mr. Wilmot, would willingly with a full knowledge of his course and principles, stand up in the strength of his own moral manhood, and say that Mr. Wilmot has done wrong. And the will not do the injustice to say that he, from the depths of his own moral nature, after surveying calmly and reasonably his course, would award to Mr. Witmot aught but the highest meed of praise for his manly bearing upon the absorbing subject of human rights.— His meral nature has been too well trained not to almit from the bottom of his heart that Mr. Witmot is right. Has "Mr. Lowrey been unfortunate in politics!" We can tell him that no man whose moral training has been such as his, can succeed unholy opposition to the principles of Mr., Wilmot. He must first get rid of himself. He must destroy the last remnant of moral feeling within his boson He must be able to "roll sin as a sweet morsel under his toggne"-to swallow with an unmistakable who rail at the idea of political moral hones.

If, and treat the inherent and eternal principles of right with disdain. Of them, thanks to his paritant term cannot reach in the event of the base hand. Robespierian gueto the revilings of that motley raining, Mr. Lowery seer can be. In their ranks he can never succeed. Then, why not shake off the very suspicion of contamination? Why be with them, if he cannot be of them? Educated men have a high moral responsibility. Their mission is as high above the groveling, time-serving, office hunting politician as the infinitely pure is above that which is cast out as wholly corrupt. Let Mr. lowery nome out and do justice to his moral and intellegal peture that him propagate openly and intellectual nature; let him propagate openly and fearlessly what in his immost soul he knows to be right, and we as openly and fearlessly predict, that he will not, five years hence, complain of being unfortunate in politics. But what if he is unfortu nate? Who would not have the high and enduring reputation of a Wilberforce, a Baxton, or a Clark-son, rather than wear the laurels of a Napoleon, a Cæsar, or a Calhoun.

But Mr. Lowrey's present unfortunate position before the district is antagonistic to the principles of the which Mr. Wilmot is pre-eminently distinguish-

Southern interests, in opposition to Northern sights and principles. His position is that of a compromiser of the eternal principles of human freedom; while Mr. Wilmot stands out before the people as its ad-

> We do not say that Mr. Lowrey would go in for the extension of shavery, or would prate about the "constitutional right of the South" to carry their slaves to a part of the acquired territory; but we do say, that he would be compelled to defer in a measure to the party who supported him—that the would be weakening to his moral nature, and that instead of being the bold and manly supporter of the right, as Mr. Wilmot is, he would lead the North but a feeble aid, and, before his time is out, sink, everyated by Southern blandishments, into the arms of Southern influence, and like WESSTER and DICKINSON, and THOMPSON and DOUGLAS, and others, return from the embrace shorn of his moral strength. Placed as he is, the opponent of Mr. Wilmot, and the candidate of the unholy band of southern leaguers, it could not be otherwise with Mr. Lowrey. At another time, under other circum. stances, and in a position where he could make an open and manly avowal of his moral belief; it might be otherwise; now, it cannot be.

[For the Bradford Reporter.] Hornbrook Sunday School Celebration.

Mr. EDITOR :- We have had stirring times in our ittle village and town, to-day, bringing our Sabbath School to a close. The scholars have taken a great interest in the school, and have been punctual in their attendance. The teachers have been very active in their exertions, teaching the acholars socording to their abilities from the juvenile A. B. C. to the doctrines of Christian Philosophy. The library contains a large number of useful books published by the American Sunday School Union, which have been attentively read with profit and hatrue tion. Thinking it time to close the school for the pres ent year, the teachers and scholars met at Daniel Brink's on Saturday, the 7th of September instant A procession was formed which marched thence with music and with banners waving in the gentle breeze, to a grove upon the premises of Isaac Horton. There under shade, a table had been spread to which the company were marched directly, large enough to accommodate the whole assembly, and abundantly laden with eatables-which bore tests mony to the hospitality and benevolence of the laant in that great measure, and David Wilmot was I dies who had superintended this important part of the arrangements.

After discussing the good things provided for us the procession Marched in order to the seats. The exercises were commenced with vocal music, that sounded beautifully in the grove, after which Elder Mixika, of Smithfield, who officiated as chap lain, addressed the throne of Grace, in grateful acknowledgement of the blessings we enjoy. This appeared the more appropriate and solemn as the Elder well remembers when these woods, were hideous with the yell of the savage. After instrumental music, the teachers and scholars were addressed by C. W. Burkts, and by the superintendent. Wm. E. CAMPBELL-who were followed by Elder Minien in some very appropriate and eloquent remarks. Instrumental music then enlivened the scene.

The Superintendent then arranged the procession in order to close the exercises of the day. The stars and stripes were gently unfolding in the breeze of Heaven, upon which the eagle appeared carry-That opposition to Mr. Wilmot was ostensibly in her beat, the words "Hornbrook Sunday School" -under which was the motto, " In the name of our God we hoist our Banner." Upon the other side of democratic and would not yield the interests of the many to the interest of the few. (Of Mr. Lowrey's nation." These appropriate motioes presented the foundation of some remarks. A piece of music was then chanted, after which the procession marched out of the grove and formed a bollow square in front of the store, and was dismissed, am idst cheers, the strains of martial music, and the waving of the banners.

During the day the utmost harmony and decorum prevailed, and the company separated after a day of enjoyment and pleasure.
