Sowing Seeds—Germination.

Mr. Freas—The development of living plants from seeds, is one of the most beautiful operations in nature. The principal agents which operate in the production of this wonderful phenomena are air, moisture and heat, the soil being the medium through which they are transmitted; but to insure success, it is essential that these elements be combined in due but different proportions, in accordance with different kinds and habits of the several sorts of seeds. Hence, in a great measure, the difficulty sometimes experienced in causing some seeds to germinate, and the anxiety often manifested by the most experienced gardeners till the plants appear. And it is not unfrequently the case, also, that complaints are made against seedsmen, for selling poor seed, when in reality, the fault is attributable wholly to the sower That seeds often fail to grow, or even to vegetate, is a fact of which many are fully and painfully aware. Unless there be a free supply of moisture and atmospheric air, aided by a certain temperature, no seed will germinate, however rich, may be the soil, or however great the care bestowed upon it; and it is also indispensible that the light be excluded from it until the nutrimental matter contained in the seed be exhausted, or the radical is sufficiently developed to draw the requisite amount of nourishment from the soil. The primary effect of these agents upon the inhumed seed, is thoroughly to modify its properties. In the first place its starch is transformed into saccharine matter, or sugar, which resembles a milky, pultaceous mass, and which is the legitimate pabulum of the nascent plant. "If at this stage," writes an able author, "the soil becomes dry, its validity is believed to be destroyed; but if these agents are permitted to use their influence, the contents of the seed swell by degrees, and the first point of the future root having formed, breaks through the shell in a downward direction, and about the same time, the first point of the future stem comes forth in an upward direction. The presence of the air, heat and moisture are as indispensable to the growth of the plant as they are to the germination of the seed.

Now it often happens, that when seeds are planted in fresh stirred ground, or when the soil is moist, they undergo the incipient stages of fermentation, and the earth not being pressed upon them, and dry weather ensuing, the moisture is abstracted, and the seeds perish. Too much moisture is also often destructive to the vital principle of seeds—and others again are buried too deep to be revivified by sol r and atmospheric influence. The first object in planting, therefore, should be to place the seed just so far under the surface, and so to cover it with earth as shall barely secure it with a constant supply of moisture. There are many seeds, as those of the carrot, parsnip, orchard-grass, &c., which if not previously steeped, or the soil well pulverized and pressed upon them, fail to grow for want of moisture. Hence, in sowing orchard-grass, it is found prudent to spread it on a floor and sprinkle it with water, before it is sown, and to pass a roller over the ground after the seed is sown; and hence, in light ground, it is advisable to press with the hoe or spade, the earth upon all light seeds after they are sown."

Onion seed is often a long time in coming, and it very often fails to germinate at all. When the ground is dry and light, the depth should be increased, or the seed should be placed far enough below the surface to insure a constant and due supply of moisture till the plumule is developed, and the radicale permeates the soil in quest of its appropriate food. The seed of the carrot is generally a long time in germinating, and many failures are experienced in consequence of proper attention not being paid to the rules above given. It is always a good plan to prepare seed by steeping—to make the ground fine and very light, by digging and raking, and to roll, or otherwise compress the soil after sowing the seed. Many farmers "sprout" their seeds before committing them to the earth. In favorable seasons, this practice has its advantages; but if the weather be cold, the probability is, that they will rot out, and the loss of sowing will consequently be the result. Flower seeds, most of which are diminutive, require great care and attention in sowing. The earth, for their reception, can scarcely be made too fine. It should also be filled with warming and highly stimulant manure. The richer the soil the more certain will be their success.—As to orchard grass, the seed being very small and light, it demands more than ordinary care; and can never be made to grow well unless the soil is consolidated closely after it is sowed. But enough has been said to convince every one, I presume, that the proper preparation of the soil, is, by no means a matter of minor importance, and that many of the failures which are attributed to bad seed and dishonest seedsmen, are, in fact, the result of carlessness on the part of those by whom they are sowed. Respectfully, yours, &c.

Poultry.—If you desire your hens to lay, give them flesh of some kind twice or thrice a week, chopped up with their other food—fresh fish boiled and cut fine, will answer as well. Fowls should at all times be supplied with lime or old mortar, broken fine, sand and ashes; their hen-house should be kept clean, their nests also, and periodically supplied with fresh hay or straw.

☞ Poultry dung, if saved properly, will be found nearly as good, if not quite, as good as guano The evacuations should be gathered weekly, put in a barrel, and sprinkled over with pulverized charcoal or plaster; if thus saved, and kept out of the weather, four or five hundred pounds of it will manure an acre of land. Save it then, say we.

By Gar, you tell me zat, two or tree several times, once more agin, by and by, and I will blow your nose wid de histil, and ring your d—d brains wid de stove pipe, by Gar!

A house-maid who was sent to call a gentleman to dinner, found him engaged in using his tooth-brush.

"Well, is he coming?" said the lady of the house as the servant returned.

"Yes ma'am directly," was the reply, "he's just sharpening his teeth."

The Money.—A German took a monkey to Sweden, to exhibit for money. A Swedish farmer asked another:

"What is that?"

The other answered, "It's a monkey, I brought from Germany."

"How!" remarked the farmer, "I wonder what a German would'nt make from money."

Rail Road Horse Power & Tresher,

With the Latest and Important Improvements, for which Patent is secured.

THE subscriber takes this method to inform the Farmers of Bradford and the adjoining counties, that he is agent for, and has for sale, the above celebrated and unequalled Horse Power and Threshing Machines, which he is prepared to furnish on the same terms as by the manufacturer, with the addition of the actual cost of transportation, contracted for at the lowest and best rates.

The subscriber has sold a number of the above machines in this, and the adjoining counties of Chemung and Tioga, N. Y., and all without exception have given the very best satisfaction, and where they are known, all farmers give them the preference, on account of economy in threshing, being operated with much less expense, and cracking and wasting much less grain than any other machine in use.

The Two-Horse Power Thresher and Separator is capable, with three or four men, of threshing from 150 to 200 bushels of wheat or rye, or double that quantity f oats, per day.

EMERY & Co.'s NEW

THRESHER AND CLEANER.

Emery & Co. for nearly two years past have been experimenting to perfect a cleaner, to be operated with their Power for public and field threshing; and with much time and expense have succeeded to their entire satisfaction, and are now prepared to furnish a Self-cleaner, combined with all the advantages of their overshot cylinder, and at the same time requiring less force to operate its rotary motion than is required by the vibrating separator. It has been thoroughly tested during the last harvest, and some of them have been used the past season for threshing in the best grain growing sections of the state of New York with the best success—threshing months together an equal amount and at less expense, than the common threshers with the vibrating separators.

The Cleaner has all the advantages of a good fanning mill, cleaning the grain fit for market, wasting none. The additional cost being but little more than a fanning mill, or about thirty dollars—making the whole Thresher and Cleaner cost $75 to the Farmer, and with Emery & Co.'s two-horse power, $185 00.

The Cleaner can be detached, and the Thresher used alone when desired. The new Thresher and Cleaner are destined to take the place of the old, expensive and cumbrous thresher and cleaner now in use.

Farmers and others wishing to procure any of the above-mentioned Horse Powers and Threshers, will save trouble, risk and expense, by purchasing them of the subscriber.

☞ On account of the large demand for the above machines, and the difficulty of immediately filling orders for them, persons wishing to purchase machines should give me timely notice as to what kind and at what time they wish to procure them.

Farmers wishing to do their threshing immediately after harvest, should procure their machines as early as the first of July. Also for sale

ORGANIZED upon the "mixed principle," Stock and Mutual, which combined features offer to insured members double the usual security. The Cash system of payments has also been adopted, thus avoiding the heavy drawbacks created by unpaid premium notes. The table rates of premium, upon which its policies are being issued, is the only scale experience has proven should be adopted, as affording requisite security to be insured, and an undoubted guarantee for the perpetuity of such institutions. An experimental table may be found worthless, at the very instant a policy should possess its greatest value. Life Insurance, very properly, is arresting the attention of the world. The public however, in their commendable willingness to embrace and employ its wise and salutary provisions, should make ultimate security the primary and most important object, which can only be attained by so adjusting the premiums as to anticipate unexpected losses and fluctuations of every kind. Afflicted do not Despair

Another fellow being rescued from Death by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup.

The following case is one of the greatest triumphs of medicine ever claimed over disease ever published in medical history. Read it!

Prompted by no other than the feeling of benevolence, and for the benefit of my afflicted fellow beings, I desire to make known a short description of my disease, and the unexpected cure I obtained from SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP. About three years ago I was afflicted with a violent cold, which settled on my breast and side, and every few days would raise considerable blood; my cough was tight and distressing. Every day I had violent fever creeping chills, and profuse sweats at night, with great difficulty of breathing and great loss of appetite; my system was entirely prostrated, being confined to my bed most of the time.—Two of the most eminent physicians of this city attended me, and after exhausting all their skill, pronounced my case incurable. Indeed, one said my lungs were almost gone, and I could not possibly recover. At this stage of my disease, I was prevailed upon to try Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, and before I had taken half a dozen bottles, was so far recovered as to be to go about the house. It seemed to strengthen my whole system—it loosened the cough and stopped the bleeding—my bowels became regular, and every thing I ate, seemed to digest easily and nourish my whole system. Indeed, such was the rapid progress of my health and so sudden the change, that I became too sanguine of a speedy cure, and abandoned the use of the medicine before the disease was thoroughly eradicated, which resulted in another attack of bleeding at the lungs last fall, accompanied by a distressing cough. I again commenced taking the Pulmonic Syrup, and sent for Dr. Schenck who, upon a careful examination, advised me to continue using it. Before I had taken four bottles, an abscess formed in my side, which gathered and broke, discharging a pint as I can judge, a pint of very disagreeable yellow matter. This seemed to cleanse and purify my whole system. From this time I began to get better, and am happy to say entirely recovered. I am sure at this time I enjoy better health than I have for the last ten years. Since I commenced taking the Pulmonic Syrup, I have never failed to recommend it wherever I went, that others, as well as myself, might be saved saved from that awful disease; for I feel it a duty I owe to the afflicted to publish it to the world. Permit me to mention a few cases which have come under my immediate observation. Being on a visit to Camden, N. J., last summer, I saw a child, evidently in the last stage of bowel consumption. The mother informed me that the physicians had given the child up as incurable. I told her what benefit I had received from the use of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, and induced her to procure a bottle. I heard nothing more from the little sufferer until about three months after; being in the market, my attention was drawn to a lady who observed me very attentively. She finally approached me, and asked if I was not the lady who recommended Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup to her dying child last summer in Camden. I replied that I was. She said that her child had entirely recovered, and was uncommonly healthy. Her name is Mrs. Wilson, and now resides in Bridesburg. Another lady I would mention in particular, who had a scrofulous affection. Her face and neck presented one continued sore, and one of her eyes was seriously affected with it. She had become greatly emaciated, and to all appearances past recovery. I induced her to try Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, which she did, and is now perfectly cured. Another lady, Mrs. McMullen, whose residence I will give on application, was evidently in the last stage of Consumption, I prevailed upon her to try the Pulmonic Syrup. In a very short time she was entirely recovered, and now enjoys excellent health, having become exceedingly fleshy These are three cases within my knowledge, which I know were cured by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup. All who doubt this statement, and will take the trouble to call on me at my residence Parrish street five doors above tenth north side, I think I will be able to satisfactorily convince them by own case, and others that I know have been cured by this Syrup. Since my cure, there have been so many to see me to know what I took, that I have had a very good opportunity of knowing a great many that have taken it, and have been greatly benefitted thereby, and I think if persons afflicted with Consumption or Liver Complaint, would send for Dr. Schenck, and let him carefully examine their lungs, and if he says he can cure them, follow the directions, and prevent taking cold, they will rapidly recover.

GULIELMA L. LEIBERT,

Philadelphia, May 29, 1849.

J. H. Schenck—Dear Sir—I have known Mrs. Leibert for several years, as a member of my church, and have all confidence in her statement, and am rejoiced to find her again restored to health. Any thing more, in addition to her statement, is needless.

Yours, truly, THOS. L. JANEWAY,

Very Strange but true.

A Gentleman of Utica, N. Y., has obtained from the Witch-hazel, a simple remedy, which lays a more just claim to the name of "family cure all" than any Medicine we have ever before known. Nothing is connected with it but a little Alcohol to preserve it, and yet it acts with great certainty in removing pain and all local inflamation, curing all sores, burns, bruises and lameness, rapidly. Piles, bowel complaints, cholera-morbus, hemorrhage, ear ache, tooth ache, sore eyes, and all nervous affections. It is white as water and as harmless, and it is called

"Pond's Pain Destroyer and Healing Extract."

None is genuine except "Pond's Extract" is blown in the bottle. Mr. Pond first introduced this medicine to the public and has expended a vast deal of time and money in bringing it to a high state of perfection, and we now warrant every bottle to give satisfaction.

A man by the name of Spencer has put forth an article called "The Coyle Extract" which claims to be from the Witch-hazel. If from that shrub, its name is a perfect deception, and it is a very imperfect article; be not deceived, get a pamphlet and see.
