MASTODON RELIC.—While digging a ditch on Buffalo Creek, Union county, Mr. Thomas Howard came upon an ivory tusk, ten feet long, moderately curved nine inches in diameter at one end and four at the other. It was found two feet below the surface, in a layer of blue clay, which rested on a bed of sand and gravel. It was a good deal injured in getting it out, before its real character was perceived. Since being exposed to the air, it crumbles rapidly upon being handled but its structure and material are plain and satisfactory.

A young man named Brooks Hodges was killed near, Perrysburgh, Geo., a few days ago. He was riding a fractious horse, on his way to fishing place, with a large fish hook and line atached to the pommel of his sadle. The horse took fright throwing him forward onhis saddle, when the fish hook entered his heart, causing almost instant death. The deceased was about 18 years old, and the only son of a widowed mother, whose husband was thrown from a horse, about two years ago, and killed.

NAVAL BATTLE.—A dinner table misunderstanding occurred at Washington yesterday, between Lieut. Nicholson, of the Navy, and Captain Chambourg, late of the Navy. It ended by Nicholson caning Chambourg, and a challenge is confidently expected. The quarrel began between Capt. Chambourg and Lieut. "Alvarado" Hunter.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Thursday last, a man was instantly killed by falling into the mine at Konig's about three miles from Easton. At the same time another miner fell into the mine a distance of about ninety feet, and miraculously escaped with but little injury.

SHIP TIMBER.—Some of the New York ship builders say that black walnut is a better timber for ship building than live oak, and that its high price is the only reason why it is not largely used. An Ohio paper says there is enough of this valuable timber split into fence rails every year in Ohio to build the national marine of the Union.

RAILROAD TRACK SUNK.—Six rods of the New York and Erie Railroad, at Andover, N. Y., sunk on Thursday afternoon, under a train of cars, leaving nothing in sight but the top of the engine chimney. No lives lost.

ASSOCIATE JUDGES.—Gov. Johnston has appointed William Ellmaker, of Washington township, and John Smith, of Williamsport, to be Associate Judges for Lycoming county. The Senate has confirmed the appointment.

☞ the Germantown Telegraph says that the wheat crop, in all the great wheat growing regions of the country, never, at this time of the year, wore a more promising appearance. The papers in every quarter all concur in this.
