We have somewhere heard the remark, that with the good farmer, everything gives way to his business-that utility is all, and appearance nothing; hence, you are not to expect neatness about his dwelling, and his door yard being cut up into mud-holes by the farm wagon and the manute-cart, and the contiguity of barns, pig-pens and kitchen, such as convenience, and not freedom from the peculiar odors of hog-yard and rich manusc heap, may

Now, to speak blumly, this is all nonsensemble so happens, that in farming, neatness and thrift almost invariably go together. The same love of order which promps the farmer to clear his yard of broken bartels, old hoops, fragments of boards and sticks of wood and whatever else detaces and defiles his premises, also promps him to have a place for everything and everything in its place; which is calculated to bear upon real substantial profit.

Some of the very best farmers with whom we are acquainted-whose eminent success and heavy profits separate them in this respect in bold distinctness from the rest of their neighbors are patterns of neatness, and the touch of their hand in expulsion of every kind of nuisance is visible all over their furms. Their door-yards show that their master is at home;" the barn-yard, which is not so near the house that all the butter and cheese manufactured is flavored with the effluvia, exhibits the same is collected for enriching, in due time, the rest of the farm. A farmer of our acquaintance, with one The prices for Emery & Co.'s one hundred and sixty acres, in whose farm-yard we could scarcely discover a wisp of straw in the wrong place, remarked, "Oh, I don't attempt to make a great deal from my farm-I expend so much in improvements that my clear profits age only about a thousand a year." Another of these neat farmers in whose fields cockle, docks and chess obtain Lo foothold, nor along whose fences a solitary elderbush or nettle is ever seen, raised twenty-seven hundred dollars worth of farm produce at the prices of 1844; and both of these farmers live in western New York, where prices are comparatively low, entirely away from the peculiar advantages of market which nearness to great cities gives.

Now, let no man say that these remarks are made at the wrong season of the year, and that nothing can be done for nealness and order in the winter. The same general rule, in some shape or variation, has an almost infinite number of applications. The care of domestic animals in winter needs pre-emineally the application of this rule. No animal can thrive well in the midet of dirt.

Even a pig does not love dist for dirt's sake-he only happens to be so much of a philosopher, or rather stoic, that he is willing to endure dirt for the sake of a soft and cool bed in summer; for it has been found that these animals thrive better and faster when kept clean and well curried.

Horses and caule are often neglected in cleanliness. We have actually known some who did not clean the manure from horse-stables for months, allowing it gradually to thicken under teet with the accumulating liner till a foot in thickness; reason-ing, doubtless, as the boy did who combed his saning mill, or about thirty dollars—making the whole Thresher and Cleaner cost $75 to the Farmer, ing, doubtless, as the boy did who combed has such and with Emer & Co.'s twe-horse power, $185 00.

The Cleaner can be detache, and the Thresher us dured daily by other people. A farmer who does his own chores, can hardly afford to keep his horse and cumbrous thresher and cleaner now in use.

Farmers and others wishing to procure any of the as finely as the gentleman of wealth, who has a shove-mentioned Horse Powers and Threshers, will man for no other purpose; but every one should save trouble, risk and expense, by purchasing them of have his stable-floor perfectly clean at least twice every day, once in the morning and once at night before littering, and oftener would be better. . Remember that the oftener it is done the easier it is accomplished. There are many other particulars where neatness may be attended to in winter.

Gate hinges and gate fastenings often need repair, that they may shut like clock work; boards become loose on old barns and board fences intools become awkward for use, and need remodelling or renewing; and many other small matters in doors and out, require attention. We are aware that to many of our readers, who are already examples for others, such hints as the preceding are not applicable. To such we can say that they need not read them-like the man who chiseled on the stone at the fording place, "When the water comes to this stone it is unsale to cross."

The Peach Worm.

This is probably one of the most assiduous enemies with which the cultivators of this excellent and deservedly admired fruit are called to contend In order successfully to obviate its attacks some persons recommend removing the soil around the trank to the depth of three or four inches and apply boiling hot water, soap suds, or warm brine at any season when it is unfrozen and it is said that if the gum which cozes from the wound, and which is, indeed and infallible evidence of the presence of the worm, be previously removed, so that the application can enter the aperture, the enemy is sure to be expelled or perish. In some observations illustrative of the habits and entomological character of this troul lesome insect, a recent writer says:

"Though it feeds on the pulpy part of the bark it seems careful not to disturb the cuticle, so that were it not for filth mixed together on the outside, it would be difficult to find the depredator. The fresh filth, however, sufficiently indicate its presence. By entering a knife at that point, and slitting the cuticle, longitudinally, the establishment is soon broken up, for it is seldom four inches in length; and then we discover a white grub, three quarters of an inch long, which is readily extracted. When it is removed, the tree speedily recovers."

The peach, in this climate is, I believe, less subicct to the depredations of the peach worm, than in some others where it is more extensively propagated. The trees, however sometimes suffer from their attacks, and in many instances, indeed, they are greatly and latally injured by them. I have known some cases where their depredations have caused the destruction of fine trees, before the nature of the evil was discovered or even suspected. It is always a good plan to examine the peach tree trequently and with care as it is necessary when they do make an allack to arrest and remove them at once .- Boston Rambler.

my side, which gathered and broke, discharging, as near my side, which gathered and broke, discharging, as near as I can judge, a pint of very disagreeable yellow matas I can sudge, a pint of very disagreeable yellow matter. This seemed to cleanse and purify my wholesystem. From this time I begau to get better, and minhappy to say entirely recovered. I am sure at this time I enjoy better health than I have by the last ten years. Since I commenced taking the Pulmonic Syrup, I have never failed to recommend it wherever I went that others as well. went, that others, as well as myselt might be saved saved from that awful disease; for I less it a duty I own to the afflicted to publish it to the world. Permit me to mention a few cases which have come under my of the newest and most beautiful style. I am also prepared to supply the much admired Scotch letter, having intely produced from Scotland a series of these beautiful faces, together with every variety of form and pattern of ORNAMENTAL AND JOBBING TYPE, her to procure a bottle. I heard nothing more from the little sufferer mitil about three month; after; being in the market, my attention was drawn to a lady who observed me very attentively: She finally approached me, and asked if F was not the lady who recommended Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup to her dying child lest summer in Camden. I replied that I was: She said that her child had entirely recovered, and was uncom-monly healthy. Her name is Mrs. Wilson, and now resides in Bridesburg. Another Isdy I would mention in particular, who had a scrofulous affection. Her face greatly emiciated, and to all appearances past accovery. I induced her to try Schenek's Pulmonre Syrap, which she did, and is now perfectly cured: Another lady, Mrs. McMullen, whose residence I will give on appli-cation, was evidently in the last stage of Consumption, I prevailed upon her to try the Pulmonic Syrup. In very short time she was entirely recovered, and nowat-joys excellent health, having become exceedingly fieshy These are three cases within my knowledge, which I. know were cured by Schenek's Pulmonic Syrup, All who doubt this statement, and will take the trouble to call on me at my residence Parrish street five doors above tenth north side, I think I will be able to eatis-I took, that I have had a very good opportunity of knowing a great many that have taken it, and have been greatly benefitted thereby, and I think if persons afflicted with Consumption or Liver Completin, would send for Dr. Scheuck, and let him carefully examin their lungs, and if he says he can cure them, follow the
