In continuing our remarks on this subjects we quote Dr. Lieber, who calls albumen, fibrine and easeire, the exclusive in iterbils of huffition, or subeistance; they cannot be replaced by any other substance—if withheld, starvation lensues. The substances devoid of nitrogen famish the materials for respiration. Comparing, says Schleiden/these requisitions of the animal body, with the contentof plants has seeve man and other animals with food, we line in the organs of all these plants a cedan amount of allumen dissived in the juices la the graine, gluten is found, resembling, says Liebeg, a mixture of gelovine and animal fibrinein peas and beans, legumine, the same with so- and is, at this time unusually altractive, from the mal caseine. There are also many vegetable beverages which man uses, as wine, cider, beer, and ardent spirits — The art of making these which produce drunken. ness has been known to man in every age of his history. The Mexicans have their pulque or maguey wine, the Chilians, their palm wine, the inhabitants of Orinoco and the Amazon, use a beverage made of maize, the Tartarse their kumiss, prepared from mares' milk-all containing the intoxicating principle which is the product of the fermentation of sagar and starch.

The Peruvian induces a dreamy stupor, by cliewing cocoa leaves; the Siberian, by the use of the Amanila muscaria a genus of mushrooms; the Soulern Asiaties produce a simular effect by smok. ing opium; the Africans, use the hashish or hemp extract, and the South-Sea Islanders prepare a narcotic from a kind of pepper. These all perhaps without any exception, produce at first an agreeable sensation-an increased activity and vividness of the imagination by their stimulating effects. War has been declared against these intoxicating elements in all their length and breadth and depth .-The sword was taken in hand in China-while over Christendom facts and arguments have been the chief weapon employed by the combatants. The main citadel in many places seems to have been stormed-while the evil seems to be showing itself in other forms, whose name may be called le Tea and coffee are considered by many, harmless beverages, though we think otherwise. The first coffee house was opened in London, in 1652. by a one Review will be sent to one address for $9; four Greek Pasqua-en I in 1671, the first in Marseilles. The production of coffee now, is said to be about 250.000 tons-150 years ago it was about 5 000.lu 1820, A. Von Humboldt estimated the comsumption of coffee in Europe alone, to be 75,000 tons, valued at 4 500 000 pounds sterling.

The eastom of coffee-drinking dates far back in the ages of the past. According to tradition, its use in Abyssinia had been known from time immemorial. It is not, as has been supposed, indigenous in Arabia It was used by the ancients to keep them. selves awake during the holy nights of prayer. The orthodox Mahomdians opposed its use and made it a subject of learned seological researches. The opposers of coffee, it is said, went so far as to affirm that the countenances of coffee-drinkers would appear on the day of the resurrection, blacker than the coffee-grounds. Women, according to the Koran, might indulge in t'e use of this beverage without any such fears. Coffee in Arabia, it is said, took the place of a beverage made of Casta leaves, the use of which they inherited from their ancestors who had no knowledge of us origin.

The Spaniards found the Mexicans using chocolare which had been using among them from time out of mind. This beverage is now common in Europe.

In 1664, the English East India Company made a present to the Queen of England of two pounds of tea-and this was considered a splendid present,-In the beginning of the 17th century, a quantity of curefully packed, dried green leaves, was presented to a Russian Embassy in China, in return for gifts of splendid fors. These dried leaves, were reluctantly taken to Moscow and prepared according to the directions, and met with great approval. About the same time the Du'ch East India Company attempted to sell to the Chinese, sage, then used as tes is now, and they obtained in exchange Chinese

The use of tea as a beverage in China, dates back according to tradition, to the third century .-The old Chinese legend reminds one of the introduction of coffee into Arabia. "A pious hermit, who in his watchings and prayers had often been overtaken by sleep, so that his eyelids closed in holy wrath against the weakness of the flesh, cut them off and threw them on the ground. A God caused a tea shrub to spring out of them, whose leaves exhibit the form of an eyelid, bordered with tashes, and possesing the gift of hindering sleep." The whole quantity of tea produced in China, is estinated at 250 000 tons,

The Brazilian, together with the almost entire population of South America, exhibit the same strong passion for mate or Paragnaian teacthe leaves of a Brazilian holly, that characterizes the Chicese. The origin of the use of the mate is, also unknown.

- Thus, says Schleiden, from whose writings we have drawn of the historical facts here given, "have all these beverages everywhere become the necesall these beverages everywhere become the neces-suries of life; everywhere is the origin of their use enveloped in-mythical obscurity; everywhere has Towarda, May 8, 1851. enveloped in-mythical obscurity; everywhere has man, not led by rational considerations, by knowledge of the properties and action, or by comparison of them with nutritive substances already known but, as it were, instinctively added them to the number of his wants."

Digg: No WELLS - When there is a severe drough is a good time for digging wells, as it generally will be done thoroughly. Frequently there is great loss in attending to this business when water is plenty, and the well is not sunk deep enough, and must be made deeper in a dry time at great expense.-Maine Parmey.

This remedy for worms is one of the most extraor dinary, ever used. It effectually eradicates worms o all sorts from children and adults.

Thousands perish by worms without the real cause

What should be done? The answer is plain. Give the Vermifoge, which will be sure to do good if they bare, no worms, and if they have, it will destroy and eradicate them with a certainty and precision truly astonishing. There is no mercury or mineral in it. Mercury i the basis of most worm remedies and the remedy is sometimes worse than the disease. So never use losenger, but rely upon this. Every person will be convinced on one trial that it is the most perfect cure ever invented. The immense sale that this Vermifage has, is a sure test of its value and the estimation in which it is held by families. It would be quite too expensive to publish the volumes of certificates that have been given for this article, and the users of it are requested to spread the name to a persons whom they think will be benefitted by it.

Speak of it in all families, and you will do your duy to your follow creatures, and feel assured of the apobation of all good men, and will receive your teward n heaven. We call on all good citizens to make known the el fects of this wonderful remedy.

Remember, and ask for Orrick's Vermifuge.

Startling Facts. Hundreds of children and adults are lost yearly with worms, when some other cause has been supposed to be the true one. It is admitted by all doctors that scarce a man, wo man, or child exists, but what sooner or later are troubled with worms, and in hundreds of cases, sad to relate, a supposed fever, scarlating, cold, or some other ailing carries off the flower of the human familywhile in truth they die of worms! and these could have been eradicated in a day, by the use of one bottle of ORRICK'S VERMIFUGE,

How sickening the thought that these things should -and who can ever forgive themselves for not trying this WORM EXTERMINATOR, when they know that even if the case was not worms, this remedy could not by any possibility do hurt—but always good as a purgative, let the disease be what it may. How important then to use it, and who will dare to take the responsibility to do without it? Let all parents ask themselves this question in truth and sober
