Gov. Bigler and the Argus.

We were not aware, in our remarks about Goy Biolsa's North Branch message, that we were doing Gov. JOHNSTON any gross injustice, but it seems that our article has "riled" some of the amateurs who adopt the columns of the Argus with their seribblings, and a most indignant article appears in the issue of last week.

We utterly and totally disclaim any intention of wish to detract from Gov. JOHNSTON one iota of the Gen. The other candidates ey and conduct are so in contrast with Gov. Bt are divided between the Benter and the anti-Benton SLER's, that we are willing to leave the subject to the intelligence of this community. It would have been well for the Argus editors to have given the public an idea of the policy Gov. JOHNSTON Was anxious to pursue before making such a wholesale declaration as is contained in the following paragrath:

"Now every man knows full well, and every candil man will readily acknowledge, that if the policy of the United States would be sufficient to complete Governor Johnston had been pursued, the complete the manual in a function of the United States would be sufficient to complete tion of the canal would have depended upon no such contingency as the procuring of a loan at this time, but the water would have been let in, and the boats commenced running last September.

Governor BigLER's course is deserving of all praise. Regarding the early completion of the North Branch as a matter of public policy, he has not hesitated to say so. He has spoken out freely and frankly, and at the proper time. He has based his friendship and action upon the great merit of the work alone, and asked the Legislature to borrow the money to complete it.
