RANDOM SHOT FROM THE MINIE RIFLE -On Frilas a gentleman, being a member of the South viasi a genuellani, ocing a member of the South ron Rule Corps, was at Turl, practicing in order est a new rifle sent to him for that purpose by a stance of Exeter. He fired one shot at a mark yards distant; the mark was situated half way a steep hill (Polehill) on the Devon estate, the being 100 feet high The bullet struck against see of rock, glanced over the hill, and at a disof 30 feet perpendicular descent on the opne side struck a woman totally out of sight of marksman, as the hill actually intervened bethem. It inflicted a flesh wound in the ch, and the gentleman learning the extraordina-act, directed every attention to be paid to the erer, who has expressed hetself thoroughly sat-d with the handsome treatment she has receiv-The distance has been measured under the sustendence of Mr. J. Dow, of Powderham, and ras found that from the spot where the shot was d to the place where the woman stood was 1,yards, actually more than three quarters of a e. This fact has excited great interest, and we that all which has been predicted of the Minile as an offensive weapon will be realized, mat the ground for practice should have a clear mee of a mile at least.
