Corn-Late Early Planting

Mr. Edra - I promised some time ago to send you an article on raising Corn, and in accordance with that promise have hastily penned the following, which is at your service.

For the last six years I have been experimenting for the purpose of ascertaining the best mode of growing corn, that one great error into which our farmers fall, is that of planting too close - from three feet to three feet six inches being the distance usually allowed between the rows each way.

My time for planting is, generally between the 10th and 15th of May, give the ground a chance to become well warmed before the seed is put into it. There is far less danger of the corn rotting, when the ground is warm, and the rapidity of its growth more than compensates for the lateness of the season.

I prefer my mode of planting to the drilling system, as the corn is less difficult to keep clean, and I find that I can raise just as much as by the other plan. I have raised from 75 to 80 bushels per acre, without extra manuring, which I consider a fair yield.

Last season, I tried the experiment upon ten acres, by planting one half row four feet apart, two grains at a place, 2 feet apart. The other half was drilled in, 4 feet apart. The drilled portion was much more difficult to keep clean than the other, and the yield was about the same.

I should have mentioned in the beginning of this article, that my ground intended for corn, is always put in the best condition before planting. Spring plowing is, I think, much to be preferred for corn; unless the land is too rich, which is not often the case.

Shearing and Sacking Wool - This should not be done sooner than the season will admit, as the sheep would be in danger of taking cold. Wool, intended to be sent to a distant market, may be put up and pressed in bales of the manner of cotton, or it may be crowded into sacks holding from 200 to 250 lbs.

Cure for Garget in Cows - A correspondent of the Genesee Farmer, recommends a piece of poke root the size of a sprig, to be given in a potato occasionally, as a cure for garget. He says it should be given three mornings, then skip three mornings until the cure is effected.

Another Rescue by SCHEWENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP.

I was on the verge of the grave, and so far gone that my family and friends had lost all hopes of my recovery; and when in this situation, having been rescued by the use of Schewenck's Pulmonic Syrup, I desire to testify, with grateful emotion, to Dr. Schewenck, the unspeakable benefit I have received from the use of his invaluable medicine.

Early last fall, I contracted a violent cold, and in consequence of which I had chills, attended with fever, pains in my right breast and shoulder blade, with a bad cough, and no expectoration. I kept getting worse until I took my bed, and had the attendance of my family physician. I was under his care about four weeks, and at the expiration of that time was reduced to such a state that I could not get up, and my friends were so weary that they had nearly given up the idea of my recovery.

When all rays of hope had fled, my recovery, a neighbor, Mr. David Conant, proposed to try Schewenck's Pulmonic Syrup, with a view to loosening my cough, and relieving me of the tough phlegm, and as a means of affording temporary relief, remaining at the time, that I was too far gone for the Syrup to be of any permanent benefit.

I continued to improve under its use, and my friends were much gratified to witness my unexpected improvement; many of my neighbors came to look at me as one raised from the dead.

My cough now became hoarse, and I felt something heavy in my throat, and I discharged large quantities of yellow matter. I have for weeks discharged and raised a spit, box full of matter every day, with hard lumps like grains of something.

My wife, anxious for the relief of my intense sufferings, procured some of the Pulmonic Syrup. I found it afforded me relief, and continued using it, I could feel its healing influence upon my lungs.

I continued to improve in every respect soon after I commenced using the Syrup, and the improvement continued until I was restored to my health. I have passed through the inclement weather of the latter part of winter and spring, and feel as well now as ever I felt in my life, and I am this day a living testimony of the great efficacy of Schewenck's Pulmonic Syrup in curing pulmonary diseases.

WATER CURE AND INSTITUTION, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

THIS institution is located in a beautiful and romantic grove at the base of Mt. Prospect, and within the corporation of the village. Possessed of an abundant supply of the purest soft water, advantages for exercise in the pure air, of carriage and footpaths up the mountain, free from the noise and turmoil of busy life, with excellent sailing and rowing privileges on the pleasant waters of the Chenango, these are a few of the presentations the Cure offers to the invalid.

The Medical department is under the entire care of Dr. THAYER and wife, who have had a large experience in Hydropathic practice, and are favorably known as successful practitioners. Courses of lectures, with full plates and illustrations, will be given throughout the season to the students and patients upon Anatomy, Physiology and Hygiene, for which there will be no additional charges. Females who have been confined to their beds for years, are invited to correspond with us, or give us a call. Our success in the treatment of those diseases peculiar to women, have given us confidence, and we say to all such, even if they have "suffered much of many Physicians," make one more trial.
