Regularity in Feeding Cattle.

Stephens in his book of the farm gives the following illustration of the necessity of regularity and method of agricultural duties:

In thus minutely detailing the duties of the cattle-man, my object has been to show you rather how the turnips and todder should be distributed relatively than absolutely; but whatever hour and minute the cattle-man finds, from experience, he can devote to each portion of his work, you should see that he performs the same operation at the same time every day. By paying strict attention to time, the cattle will be ready for and expect their wont ed meals at the appointed times, and will not complain until they arrive. Complaints from his stock should be distressing to every farmer's ears, for he may be assured they will complain until they feel hunger; and if allowed to hunger they will not on ly lose condition, but render themselves, by discontent, less capable of acquiring it when the food happens to be fully given. Wherever you hear lowings fro n cattle, you may safely conclude that matters are conducted there in an irregular manner. The cattleman's rule is a simple one, and easily remembered—Give food and fodder to cattle at fix. Syrup. ed times, and dispense them in a fixed routine. I had a striking instance of the oad effects of irregular attention to cattle. An old staid laborer was appointed to take charge of cattle, and was quite able and willing to undertake the task. He got his own way at first, as I had observed many laboring men displayed great ingenuity in arranging their work. Lowings were soon heard from the stock in all quarters, both in and out of doors, which intimated the want of regularity in the cattle man; whilst the poor creature himself was constantly in a state of bustle and uneasiness. To put an end to this disorderly ly state of thing, I apportioned his entire day's work by his own watch; and on implicitly following the and emaciate state, as to ut'erly preclude, in the opinleasure to lend a hand to any thing that requested ed with gratitude when he found the way of making all his creatures happy and his kindness to them was so underiating, they would have done whatever he liked

THOROUGH TILLAGE .- J. Redmond, of York county, argues in favor of thorough tillage, which next to, and indeed equal to manure, should be impressed upon the mind of every farmer. He justly 8ays :----

"One of the greatest elements of fertilization in soils is the perfect loosening of them, so that the his former health, we feel it thus our duty to give our different ingredients comprising them be thoroughly incorporated, and brought to the surface, and thus receive the advantages of exposure to the sun and atmosphere. None but a simpleton would pretend to doubt the value of manure or assert the possibility of growing good crops for any length of time without it, but he is ecarcely wise who believes (and manifests his belief in his daily practice) that his crops will be abundant where his tillage is meagre. Show me the husbandman whose plowing is shallow-whose breaking of the clods preparatory to seeding is imperfectly done-whose fields are stangers to the roller, and look very much as though the harrow and cultivator had never been throughout the United States. And by the following fields are stangers to the roller, and look very much used upon them, and I will show you poor fieldsfields that will scarcely pay for the labor and expense, much less leave and profit behind."

TOBACCO FOR TREES AND PLANTS .- Tobacco, for destroying insects is applied in two ways. The most common is to form a strong decoction. It may be prepared by pouring over the tobacco in a tub or barrel enough hot water to cover it, and let it 'stand some days. If strong enough it will destroy plant lice and other small inscets which infest fruit trees. It often fails for want of sufficient strength. A mixture of a small quantity of starch, in solution will add to its efficacy without endangering to any Brick Row, where they will keep on hand a large degree the trees. A mixture of soap in solution, adds to its effect, but if the soap be strong, it proves in some cases injurous to the young foliage. Tobacco being a vegetable poison, will not do any injury, however strong it may be. Small trees may be surpassed in Northern Pennsylvania, They solicit be bent over and dipped into the solution; it may a call from those wishing to purchase, confident that the can give satisfaction both as to quality and price. be applied to larger trees by a shower syrings .-Smoke from burning tobacco may be applied to plants by means of Brown's Fumigator, a small instrument made of tin, costing from three to five

Something Worth Knowing -It is a fact, perhaps not generally known to farmers, and which, hereby requested to make payment without delay is very important, that there are two parts to a and all persons having demands against said estate potatoe, which if separated and planted at the same time will produce potates fit for the table 8 or ten days sooner than the other. Another Rescue by SCHENCH'S PULMONIC SYRUP. was on the verge of the grave, and so far gone that I my family and friends had lost all hopes of my re-covery, and when in this situation, having been rescued by the use of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, I de sire to testify, with grateful emotion to Dr. Schenck, the unspeakable benefit I have received from the use of his invaluable medicine.

Early, last fall, I contracted a violent cold, and in consequence of which I had chille, alternated with fever, pains in my right breast and shoulder blade, with a had cough, and no expectoration. I kept getting worse until I took my bed, and had the attendance of my family physician. I was under his care about four weeks, and at the expiration of that time was reduced so low that despair took hold of myself and friends, and even my physician abandoned me and gave me up to die with the hasty concumption. My appetite was gone, my bowels very irregular, fever and night-sweats, pain in my breast and shoulder, attended with a distressing cough, which was very tight; my flesh had nearly all gone, and was so weak that I could scarcely raise my head from the pillow, and was truly an object of pity to behold. My friends had been sent for to see me die, and my sick bed was surrounded by kind and sympathizing neighbors, who had come to witness my departure from this world. When all rays of hope had fled of my recovery, neighbor, Mr. David Conrad, proposed to try Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, with a view of loosening my cough and relieving me of the tough phlegm, and as a means of affording temporary relief, remarking at the time, that I was too far gone for the Syrup to be of any My wife, anxious for the relie permanent beneut." of my intense sufferings, procured some of the Pul-monic Syrup. I found it afforded me relief, and continued using it. I could feel its healing influence upon my lungs. I continue to improve under its use, and my friends were much gratified to witness my unexpected amprovement; many of my neighbors came to look at me s one raised from the dead.

My cough now became loose, and I felt something break, when I had the pain in my breast, and I dis charged large quantities of yellow matter. I have for weeks discharged and raised a spit box full of matter every day, with hard lumps like grains of something. My bowels now became regular and natural, and my appetite was so far improved, that I could scarcely re-frain from eating too much. My strength improved, and I regained my flesh. I continued to improve in every respect soon after I commenced using the Syrup, and the improvement ntinued until I was restored to my health. passed through the inclement weather of the latter part of winter and the spring, and feel as well now as ever I felt in my life, and I am this day a living testimony of the great efficacy of Schenck's Pulmonic
