We see in several Agricultural publications, in quiries from correspondents as to the expediency of planting po ares in the fall, instead of the spring and in no merance that we have noticed, have the editors been able, from any knowledge they possessed, to give the necessary answer. Fall plan. ing of pointoes is not likely to become popular even though it possessed certain advantages over spring planting, unless the rot should continue to presail badly, and that it can be shown-as it ful ly—that fall planting is a protection against rot.

In the Plaw, for October, in reply to an inquiry. the editor, can say nothing on the subject of fall planting, except to express his doubts; though he enfers at once upon giving directions for early -pring planting, one of which is, to sprout the polatoes in whot-bed. This, is hardly practical information for the farmer, who usually conducts his business on a different scale from that implied by the hot bed

As to fall planting, we can say a word or two on the best authority. Last fall, one of our leading agricultural friends, residing in Bucks county, planted a good sized patch in November, with the Maicer variety. They were planted pretty deeply, and the seed was well enclosed in long manu e-if horse mannre the better. The very severe trost of last winter had no injurious effect upon them-they came up finely, about the time of the early spring planted, and yielded an abundant crop of handsome bulbs, free from blemish, and with not the slightest appearance of rotabout any of them, not withstanding the rot was seriously prevalent in the immediate neighborhood Our friend was well satisfied with the experiment, and will this month put in a much larger breathth of ground. He thinks there is no doubt but that fall planting is a protection against the rot, inasmuch as the experiment has been of late years fried by a number of persons, and no appearance of rot in any one instance could be discovered. The members of the Farmers' Club of this county have all agreed to try the experiment of planting this month, so that in a year hence we shall be enabled to give the result, and we hope the mode of culture adopted by each. It may be taken for granted, however, that we may not expect, in consequence of this system, a much eartier crop, if at all earlier, than when planted upon the disappearance of frost in the spring.

Of very early spring planting, we can state that we planted potatoes on the 11th of March last, in deep rows, the seed being well embedded in good horse manure; and although the sprouts did not make their appearance until the latter end of April. we had potatoes fit to use by the 14th of June. In 1851, we planted on the 4th of March, and dug on the 18th of June. We have never yet seen a rotten potato raised on our pressises - Germanioun Telegraph.

CIDER.

I am aware that many of the readers of your valnable paper are in the practice of making their own cider. It is a very wholesome and refreshing bev erage, and is always of much value on the farm for culinary purposes; but good cider is a rare article, indeed, in these days. Old William Penn, among many other valuable testimonials of his superior sagacity and wisdom, has left the apothegin that " Cleanliness is near of kin to Godliness; ' and in my opinion one great reason why so much poor any one who examines the sedimentary matter in them that fermentation does not wholly purify it -It is this sedimentary deposit which causes to grow hard, and have that singularly disgusting and mawkish flavor which it so generally acquires after it is one or two years, and sometimes even a tew

In making eider, rotten and imperfect fruit should be always rejected as unsuitable. Water should be freely used in cleansing all the utensils previous to commencing, and the apples should be exposed for a day or two to the cun before they are passed through the mill. The straw used should be perfectly bright, clean and free from mildew, tust or mould. Before filling your casks, put in a few gallons of eider, and burn a clean rag that has been dipped in melted brimstone, in the bung hole. The rag may be one foot long, and an inch or an up; and we should indeed rejoice if we could be mad Inch and a half wide. If the cask is larger than a common thirty gallon barrel, the quantity of cider and the size of the rag should be proportionally inbreased. When the rag is consumed, shake the cask well, and fill it up. The finer your strainers are, the less sediment there will be, and in this particular it is scarcely possible to exercise too much months old.

From the common crab apple, cider almost as delicious as the best wines may be made.

Good cider will long continue to be a favorite beverage in this country, and those who possess the art of manufacturing it, will find that few products will be more certain to sell, or being a more richly remonerating price in the markets. But poor eider is not saleable, and will rarely repay the trouble and expence of making it.-Cor. Germantown Telegraph.

PLASTER ON WITEAT .- The following successful experiment in the application of plaster to wheat before plowing the ground, we abridge from Moor's New Yorker: "In June before breaking up the ground to summer fallow, one half of an eight acre field was sown with plaster, at the rate of a bushel per acre. The ground Sas ploughed three times to kid Canada thistles, and wheat sown the first of September. The following first of April the same quantity of plaster was sown on the other half of the field The result was strongly in favor of part first plastered, the wheat being of a brighter and bet. ter color of a better growth and thicker on the ground-the other being every way inferior. The clover was also much larger and thicker on the ground plastered before plowing." [The experiment would have been more interesting if the result had been submitted to accurate weighing and measuring. It is well worthy of a repetition, as bearing on the question whether plasters, like other manures, is most efficacions when thoroughly mix ed with the soil.]

covery; and when in this situation, having been rescued by the use of Schenck's Pulmonic Serap, I deine to testify, with grateful emotion to Dr. Schenck, the unspeakable benefit I have received from the use of his invaluable medicine:

Early last fall, I contracted a violent cold, and in consequence of which I had chills, alterhated with fever, pains in my right breast and shoulder blade, with a had cough, and no expectoration. I kept getting worse until I took my bed, and had the attendance of ny family physician. I was under his care about four weeks, and at the expiration of that time was reduced so low that despair took hold of myself and friends, and even my physician abandoned me and gave me up to die with the hasty consumption. My appetite was gone, my bowels very irregular, lever and night-swents, pain in my breast and shoulder, attended with a distressing cough, which was very tight; my flesh had nearly a'l gone, and was so weak that I could scarcely raise my head from the pillow, and was truly an object of pity to behold. My friends had been sent for to see me die, and my sick-hed was surrounded by kind and sympathizing neighbors, who had come to witness my departure from this world.

When all rays of hope had fled of my recovery, a neighbor, Mr. David Conrad, proposed to try Schenek Pulmonic Syrup, with a view of loosening my cough and relieving me of the tough phiegm, and as a mean of offording temporary relief, remarking at the time " that I was too far gone for the Syrup to be of any permanent benefit." My wife, anxious for the relie of my intense sufferings, procured some of the Pul-monic Syrup. I found it afforded me relief, and continued using it. I could feel its healing influence upon my lungs.

I continue to improve under its use, and my friends were much gratified to witness my unexpected improvement; many of my neighbors came to look at me as one raised from the dead.

My cough now became loose, and I felt something break, w en I had the pain in my breast, and I dis charged large quantities of yellow matter. I have for weeks discharged and raised a spit box full of matter every day, with hard lumps like grains of something. My bowels now became regular and natural, and my appetite was so far improved, that I could scarcely re-frain from eating too much. My strength improved, and I regained my flesh.

I continued to improve in every respect soon after I commenced using the Syrup, and the improvement continued until I was restored to my health. I have passed through the inclement weather of the latter part of winter and the spring, and feel as well now as ever I felt in my life, and I am this day a living testimony of the great efficacy of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup in curing pulmonary diseases.

Lest this statement be thought too highly colored by some people, I subjoin certificates of a number of the inhabitants of Tacony, who saw me at different times during my disease, and never expected to see me restored. I also append the certificate of the brothers of Mystic Lodge, No. 270, I. O. of O. F., who kindly watched over me, and fully believed they would con-eign my remains to the tomb; but, thanks to Dr. Schenck for his invaluable Pulmonic Syrup, my life has been spared, and I am permitted to make the fore-going statement for the benefit of suffering mankind. Liteside at Tacony, and am well known by most of the people there, as d will be gratified to have any person call upon me and learn more particulars of the virtues of this medicine.

Holmesburg, Philadelphia Co., June 25, 1851. The undersigned, residents of Tacony, eight miles above Philadelphia, being well acquainted with John C. Green, and the circumstances attending his case, regarded in in the making of it. True, working make universally known to the public his entire recovpurges off much of the impurity of the liquor, yet ery from the very last stages of Pulmonary Consumption. So entirely helpless was his condition, having been but a brief period since in that rapidly sinking the barrels from which eider has been clowly rack. and emaciate state, as to ut erly preclude, in the opined or drawn off, will need no argument to convince | ion of his physicians and friends, who watched by his bedside, all hopes of even a temperary recovery and restoration to his present robust health. Thus the careful use of your invaluable Specific, the Pulmonic Syrup, makes it our belief, under the circumstances of his revious prostrate, not to say dying condition, one of the most startling results that the whole annals of medi-cal skill ar science can produce. It deserves to be im-perishably recorded to your credit, and secure to you, the greatest discoverer of this hitherto-remediless disease, a lasting monument and a world-wide reputation in the healing art, that no time may either diminish or destroy. Having witnessed Mr. Green's distressing struggles and sufferings from a continued cough, superadded to the other symptoms consequent upon, or attending to the last stages of a pulmonary disease; and moreover, it being so generally believed by his numerous friends that no human power could relieve, or protract his life, much less restore him back again to his former health, we feel it thus our duty to give our unquelified testimony of Mr. Green's perfect recovery by means of the exclusive use of your wonderful Syr. e humble instruments of relief and cure to others who
