. " Many horses are injured by carelessness of nproper mailagement in shoeing. To learn how to fit a shoe accurately to a horse's foot, so that it shall properly protect the foot, and at the same time evoid the liability to injure it, is no mean acquistion. The Smith, to conduct his business properly, should-have an accurate knowledge of the anatomy physiology and pathology of the horse's foot, and then he will perform the operation of shoeing not merely as though he was nailing a piece of iron to a block of wood, but with all care and nicety which the living structure requires. We have some skillful smiths, who have knowledge and judgment enough, so that our horses may be salely committsubject, from those who have the knowledge and experience, would doubtless be acceptable and useful to our readers.

Henry Griswold, of Farmington, Connecticut, who for twenty years has followed the business of shoeing and farriery, makes the following remarks on this subject.

The feet of horses differ so much, that it re quires great judgment, and thorough knowledge of their anatomical structure, to shoe each horse in a Tolu manner best calculated to promote the intentions of nature. Smiths generally pare the heel too much, or rather do not pare the toe enough—the reason is that it is so much harder to cut. When the horse stands upon the foot, the heel is so much lower than it should be, that the cords of the leg are setrained; so after a night's rest, the legs are stiff and sore, and the horse moves very awkwardly.-This sometimes is attributed to founder; when in reality it is caused by nothing but bad shoeing .-Frequently the toe is burnt off. This is also injuri ous, for so far as heat penetrates, the life of the hoof, and the only matter which gives toughness, are destroyed, and the hoot becomes bring, and hable to crack. Care should be taken to see that the points of the nails are free from defects, for sometimes, after the nail has entered the hoof, it splits, and a part penetrates the quick, causing lameness."

Protecting Manure from the Weather.

One of the sources of profit, or perhaps we should say, one of the items of saving to the farmer, during winter, in the manure made by its stock during this season. On the proper mode of saving this Arnica much of its strength, and consequently its value, depends. The too common mode of throwing it out of the barn windows, to take the alternate dienching of rains, the freezing of the cold, and the thawing of the warm weather, is not the most prudent course to take with it.

This species of manure is a compound of great value, if all the ingredients can be retained until it is applied to the crops, where they will be required, and used by growing vegetables, to add to its size and productiveners. It is made up of vegetable and animal matter, both of which substances contain the due quantity of mineral matters, all of which may be required in the formation of crops, and through them, for the sustenance of animals. Now if a part of these be washed out, and carried off by rains and melting snows, or wasted away by the winds, in the form of gas, brought by the fermentation which is sometimes induced by the changes to which it is subject, there is a corresponding loss. Hence, if you can conveniently have it put under cover, by having a shed built over it, by having a barn cellar into which to throw it, you will be a great gainer every vear.

The editor of the Boston Cultivator gave a hint on this subject not long since, in which he alludes to what he calls box feeding, in England. In that country, you are aware, farmers make quite a profit by stall feeding cattle while fattening them for market. They, therefore, sometimes put their cattle into pens, say ten feet square, and feed them, keeping them well littered, and thus accumulate a large quantity of manure, building up the sides of the pens or boxes, as the manures accumulate, in order to keep the cattle in.

Stall feeding for market would not be profitable in all sections of the United States, but the results, as far as the accumulation and presevation of manures are concerned; may give knowledge to us, useful to practise upon in our own management of this article, so essential to the farmer.

SALTING PORK .- It is important to have the pork well cooled before salting. And it should not remain ensalted very long after cooling. It should never be allowed to freeze. It should always have a great supply of salt, and of the strongest quality, and being should be made and poured into the barrel. For if nothing but water is put with the salt, the pork may be injured before the salt is melted Swayne's medicines, wild cherry, &c.

ed to rise above the brine, and remain there for any considerable length of time, they will be tainted, and will not taste sweet as well salted meat always [will. A wooden cover is often used to Hutching's Dyspepsis Bitters.

Hoofland's German Bitters, for Dyspepsis and Debility keep the meat under the brine, but a stone covers it better. A hole may be drilled in a stone cover, and a handle inserted at very small cost.

TRAVELLING OF FAT ANIMALS.-From the effects of travelling, excitement, and fasting, the stomach and bowels invariably almost get deranged before the animal arrives in the metropolis, so that the food it consumes afterwards is not worked into the system. Partial rumination may take place, but, from the smallest of the quantity of food which enters stomach for digestion, it does not excite its coats to the action of secretion, but is carried off through the in estines, a frothy mass of indigested matter : us any fariner or butcher may perceive who takes the trouble to examine it.

Another Reseue by SCHEMOR'S PULBIONIC SYNUP was on the verge of the grave, and so far some that my family, and friends had lost all hopes of my recovery; and when in this situation, having been rescued by the use of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, I deing to testify, with grateful emotion to Dr. Schenck the unspeakable benefit I have received from the use of his invaluable medicine. Early fast fall, I contracted a violent cold, and in consequence of which I had chills, alternated with fever, pains in my right breast and shoulder blade, with a bad cough, and no expectoration. I kept getting worse until I took my bed, and had the attendance of my family physician. I was under his care about four weeks, and at the expiration of that time was reduced so low that despair took hold of myself and friends, and even my physician abandoned me and gave me up to die with the heaty consumption. My appetite was gone, my bowels very irregular, fever and nightsweats, pain in my breast and shoulder, attended with a distressing cough, which was very tight; my flash had nearly all gone, and was so weak that I could scarcely raise my head from the pillow, and was truly an object of pity to behold. My friends had been sen for to see me die, and my sick hed was surrounded h kind and sympathizing neighbors, who had come to witness my departure from this world.

When all rays of hope had fied of my recovery. neighbar, Mr. Davi I Conrad, proposed to try Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, with a view of lossening my cough and relieving me of the tough phiegm, and as a means of affording temporary relief, remarking at the time that I was too far gone for the Syrup to be of any My wife, anxious for the relie ermanent benefit." of my intense sufferings, procured some of the Pul-monic Syrup. I continue to improve under its use, and my friends were much gratified to witness my unexpected improvement; many of my neighbors came to look at me s one raised from the dead. My cough now became loose, and I felt something break, when I had the pain in my breast, and I dis charged large quantities of yellow matter. I have for weeks discharged and raised a spit box full of matter every day, with hard lumps like grains of something. My howels now became regular and natural, and my appetite was so far improved, that I could scarcely refrain from eating too much. My strength improved and I regained my flesh.

I continued to improve in every respect soon after I commenced using the Syrup, and the improvement continued until I was restored to my health. I have passed through the inclement weather of the latter part of winter and the spring, and feel as well now as ever I felt in my life, and I am this day a living testimony of the great efficacy of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup in curing pulmonary diseases.

Lest this statement be thought too highly colored by some people, I sul jain certificates of a number of the inhabitants of Pacony, who saw me at different times during my disease, and never expected to see me restored. I also append the certificate of the brothers of Mystic Lodge, No. 270, I. O. of O. F., who kindly watched over me, and fully believed they would cor sign my remains to the tumb; but, thanks to Dr. Schenck for his invaluable Pulmonie Syrup, my life has been spared, and I am permitted to make the foregoing statement for the benefit of aufforing mankind. JOSHUA PHINEMORE. Holmesburg, Philadelphia Co., June 25, 1851. The undersigned, residents of Tacony, eight miles shove Philadelphia, being well acquainted with John C. Green, and the circumstances attending his case. feel impelled by a deep sense of imperative duty, to make universally known to the public his entire recovery from the very last stages of Pulmonary Consumption. So entirely helpless was his condition, having been but a brief period since in that rapid y sinking and emaciate state, as to ut'erly preclude, in the opinion of his physicians and friends, who watched by his hedside, all hopes of even a temporary recovery and restoration to his present robust health. Thus the careful use of your invaluable Specific, the Pulmonic Syrup, makes it our belief, under the circumstances of his previous prostrate, not to say dying condition, one of the most startling results that the whole annals of medi-'cal skill or science can produce. It deserves to be im the greatest discoverer of this hitherto remediless dis ease, a lasting monument and a world-wide reputation in the healing art, that no time may either diminish of destroy. Having witnessed Mr. Green's distressing struggles and sufferings from a continued cough, superadded to the other symptoms consequent up attending to the last stages of a pulmonary disease and moreover, it being so generally believed by his numercus friends that no human power could relieve, o protract his life, much less restore him back again to his former health, we feel it thus our duty to give our unqualified testimony of Mr. Green's perfect recovery by means of the exclusive use of your wonderful Sy up ; and we should indeed rejoice if we could be made humble instruments of relief and cure to others who may be so unfortunate as to be similarly affleted.
