Hendish the farmer's wantry board !

The high the golden corn!

No ticker off has Autumn poured

From you her lavian born! Les other lands, exulting gleam The apple from the pine, Theorete from its glussy green, The claster from the vine;

We better love the hardy gift Our rugged vales bestow. Our barvest fields with snow.

Though vales of grass and meads of flowers Our ploughs their furrows made, While on the hills the sun and showers Of changeful April played.

3. ... We dropped the seed o'er hill and plain, Beneath the sun of May, ac. And frightened from our sprouting grain . The robber grows away.

All through the long bright days of June, And waived in hot midaummer's bloom Its soft and yellow hair. And now, with Autumn's moonlit eves.

Its harvest time has come, We pluck away the frosted leaves And bear the treasure home.

There, richer than the fabled gifts, Apollo showered of old, Pair hands the broken grain shall affi And knead its meal of gold.

Let vapid idlers toll in silk Around their costly board ; Give us the bowl of samp and milt, By homespun beauty poured

Sends up its smoky curls,
Who will not thank the kindly earth, And bless our hardy girls ! Then shame on all the proud and vain, Whose folly laughs to scorn

Where'er the wide old kitchen hearth

The blessings of our hardy grain, Our wealth of golden corn ! But let the good old crop adorn The hills our fathers trod;

Btill let us, for his golden corn.

Send up our thanks to God !

PRUMING.

The Editor of the New England Furmer writes as follows, on the important subject. He is very good authority: .

Few of the duties of the farm are so badly performed as that of pruning -bad in the manner in which it is done, and in the season of the yearfus- Colchicum ually selected for the opperation. Trees are fiving, eentinet things, and must be treated as such. Their young back is a vulnerable to hob nail boots as the Lavender back of the hand, and easily mutilated by a dult saw or knife. No skilful surgeon would ampulate alimb with dull instruments, or leave the bleeding wound exposed to the air; but many farmers who have pruned for forty years, and think they "know a thing or two" about it, do both. They have seen the tree put on its green leaves in the spring, blossom perfect, its fruit increase in stature, and when it had performed its labor for the season, throw off the toliage which is no longer needed, and spread its broad limbs restless to the winter winds. Thus they have seen it live and breather and grow, and yet never seem to have appreciated it a living friend, inviting them to its shade, regailing them with its fruits, and almost speaking in accents of affection!

Away with the axe, the coarse saw, and all dull tools about your trees, and in their places use those of the best make, and with edge as keen as Da-

Every wound that is made should be covered; if the trre is vigorous, and the place small it will probably grow over, but covering greatly aids the offort of the tree in perfecting its outer garment -Paint, clay, gumshellac, and waxed cloth are used for this purpose; the shellac and cloth is spread with grafting wax made soft, and applied with a brush while warm. A strip of this tied around a wound or a patch stuck over i, will greatly facilitate the healing process. Ninety orchards out of every hundred are mutilated and injured in being nimmed. Limbs that ought to be cut off are preserved, and those that ought to be retained are taken away. Some are sawed partly off, and allowed to drop, tearing away the wood and the back from the under side, and leaving a ragged and ghastly wound, that never heals, but brings premature deeay. This is strong language, we are aware, but a careful inspection of most old orchards will confirm it.

There is need of but very hule pruning where an otchard has been properly managed from the start; no large lumbs will ever need to be taken away unless broken by the winds or injured in some other way. Prune but little is a good motto. Suffer the shoots which start out on the young trees to remain till autumn, when they have shed their leaves The tree needs them, and Nature, ever ready with her helping hand, sends them out to aid the leaves Merchant's Gargling Oil for horses, &c. of the top in elaborating the sap and increasing the whole growth of the tree. We find in an exchange Orrick's Vermifuge. a case in point, which we give as confirmatory to Houghton's Pepsin or Gastric juice for dyspepsis. Osgood's Indian Cholagogue, for fever and ague. published at Chicago Illinois, states that the pruned young apple trees, four to sixt feet high, early in spring and then kept the shoots rubbed off the low.

O. F. Lowing a Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup.

Dr. Keeler's Family m dicines. er parts of the stems, leaving only suitable heads on one half the trees. The others were left with their shoots untouched from top to bottom. The result was, that, those which received no summer pruning were 25 to 40 per cent, larger than the others, even after they were pruned up to heads the the following spring. So it may be noticed in older trees than when most of the limbs are cut off in the process of grating, large numbers of suckers ure through out, and we believe for the same pupose that shouls are on young trees-to keep up a proper circulation and balance in its power.

As to the best time for printing apple trees, we hate no doubt. From personal experiments made for several years, from reliable books, conversations with practical men, and a pretty extensive examinotion of orchards, we are fully of the opinion that the autumn after the leaves have fallen, is the most proper time. Where we have carefully pruned at this season, it has never ton followed by a flowing of the sap and that discoloration of the bank does about the nest office. which follows spring pruning. The wounds either heal over or become so dry and hard as to preven decay, and the tree seems to sustain no check or injuty whatever.

The head of the tree should be kept open to the air and light, and tree from limbs crossing and rubbing each other. Cut out these and the occasional dead limbs which may be found and the orchard

Therefore, this is to forbid all persons not to trast

Medical wife

Another Rescue by The Structure of the S I was on the verge of the grave, and so far gone that my family and rich the grave, and so far gone that my family and when in this cituation, having being recedily the use of Schenck's Pelmonic, Syrap, I demine to testify, with grateful amotion to De. Schanck, of his squaluable medicine.

Early last fell, 4 contracted a violent cold, and i consequence of which Land chills, alternated with feser, pains in my right breast and shoulder blade, with s had cough, and no expectoration. I kept getting worse intil I took my hed, and had the attendance of my family physician. I was under his care about four weeks, and at the expiration of that time was reduced so low that despair took hold of myself and friends and even my physician abandoned me, and gave me up to die with the hasty consumption. My appetite was gone, my bowels very irregular, fever and night sweats, pain in my breast and shoulder, attended with a distressing cough, which was very tight; my flest had nearly all gone, and was so weak that I could scarcely raise my head from the pillow, and was truly an object of pity to behold. My friends had been sen for to see me die, and my sick hed was aurrounded by kind and sympathizing neighbors, who had come to vitness, my departure from this world.

When all rays of hope had fled of my recovery, a neighbor, Mr. David Conrad, proposed to try Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, with a view of lossoning my cough and refleving me of the tough phlegm, and as a means of affording temporary relief, remarking at the time, that I was too fer gone for the Syrup to be of any ermanent benefit." My wife, anxious for the relief I my intense sufferings, procured some of the Pulnonic Syrup. I found it afforded me relief, and tinged using it. I could feel its healing influence ipon my lungs.

I continue to improve under its use, and my friends were much gratified to witness my unexpected im-provement; many of my neighbors came to look at me s one raised from the dead.

My cough now became loose, and I felt something break, w en I had the pain in my breas, and I discharged large quantities of yellow matter. I have for weeks discharged and raised a anit hox full of matter every day, with hard lumps like grains of something My bowels now became regular and natural, and my appetite was so far improved, that I could scarcely re frain from eating too much. My strength improved nd I regained my flesh.

I continued to improve in every respect soon after ommenced using the Syrup, and the improvemen continued until I was restored to my health. I have passed through the inclement weather of the latter part of winter and the spring, and feel as well now as ever I felt in my life, and I am this day a living testimony of the great efficacy of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup in curing pulmonary diseases.

Lest this statement be thought too highly colored by some people. I subjoin certificates of a number of the nhabitants of Tacony, who saw me at different times during my disease, and never expected to see me restor-ed. I also append the certificate of the brothers of Mystic Lodge, No. 270, L. O. of O. P., who kindly watched over me, and fully believed they would consign my remains to the tumb; but, thanks to Dr. Schenck for his invaluable Pulmonic Syrup, my life has been spared, and I am permitted to make the foregoing statement for the benefit of suffering mankind. I reside at Tacony, and am well known by most of the people there, and will be gratified to have an person call upon me and learn more particulars of the virtues of this medicine. June 24th, 1851. JOHN C. GREEN.

The subscribers, members of the Mystic Lodge, No. 270, L.O. of O. P. of Holmesburg, Ps. do hereby certify that we know John C. Green. (and is a member in good standing in No. 270 L.O. of O. F.) who was dangerously ill with a low Pulm-nary Consumption, last winter, as that they give him up to die; that he is now fully restored to perfect health, and they believe his recovery was produced by Schenck's Pulmoni Syrup.

We believe his certificate is correct in every pasticular.

Green, and the circumstances attending his case, feel impelled by a deep sense of imperative duty, to make universally known to the public his entire gecovery from the very last stages of Pulmonary Consumption. So entirely helpless was his condition, having been but a brief period since in that rapidly sinking and emeciate state, as to ut'erly preclude, in the ppinion of his physicians and friends, who watched by his bedside, all hopes of even a temporary recovery and restoration to his present robust health. Thus the careful use of your invaluable Specific, the Pulmonic Syrup, makes it our belief, under the circumstances of previous prostrate, not to say dying condition, one of the most startling results that the whole annals of medical skill of science can produce. It deserves to be im-perfahably recorded to your credit, and secure to you, the greatest discoverer of this hitherto remediless disease, a lasting monument and a world-wide reputation in the healing art, that no time may either diminish or destroy. Having witnessed Mr. Green's distressing struggles and sufferings from a continued cough, superadded to the other symptoms consequent upon, or attending to the last stages of a pulmonary discuse; and moreover, it being so generally believed by his no-merous friends that no buman power could rulleve, or protract his life, much less restore him back again to his former health, we feel it thus our duty to give our unqualified testimony of Mr. Green's perfect recovery, by means of the exclusive use of your wanderful Syr up; and we should indeed rejoice if we could be made
