Zower of the Soil to retain Manure.

BY PROP. J. J. MAPES.

We propose to show the power of the soil to retain mannes, and the means of improving the proporty when required. For a long time it was sujposed that all materials soluble in water would pass comitward in a dution, and thus be lost to plantsthose who worked clayey soils, claimed, that, b . cause water could not readily percolate their suils. hence they were not leachy, and therefore retained

All these positions are false. It is true, a fair proportion of alumina is valuable to soils, and in the absence of carbonaceous matter is absolutely necessary for the retention of manures, but it is not true that the tenacious property of clay need exist to such an extent as to provent the free filtration of pure water, before the manutes will be retainedfor many soils which will pass pure water readily still retain, from impure water, all its impurities permitting only the pure water to descend. Indeed this is true of all arable soils, and if it were not so. the water in all our wells would be untit to drink, from being surcharged with soluble organic mat-

Even the brown fluids of the barn-yard will no leach downward in the soil, without leaving all the total matter in the surface. Dig in an old barnyard, but a few inches below where the soil has not been before disturbed, and it will be found not to have become dark colored; and not to contain any undue proportion of the soluable matters resident in the surface, but to be like the subsoil of adjoining fields. Alumina (clay) has the curious property of receiving and tetaining all animal and vegetable substances, and their gaseous products, until abstracted again by growing plants, and for this reason a free clayey loam will purify water during its passize through the surface soil, retaining all the fertilixing substances originally held in the solution, and permitting the pure water to pass downward Nor does this retaining power cease with organic substances alone, for many of the alkalies are also retained, and all of them to a certain extent.

Excess of time, pota-h or magnesia will pass down and theretore the chemist finds variable portions of these alkalies in our well water. This pracal ar property of clay was noted by Mr. Tesobmaker of Boston, in his public addresses many years since, and in our public addresses before the American Institu e, as far back as 1810, the same truths are set forth. Within the last two years, Professor Way and other English chemists are claiming this as a new discovery.

Alumina is not the only substance in soils which has this retaining power for carbon in every form be a similar properties, and it is not important whether chargoal dust be artificially added, or exist in the the soil by the decay of former vegetation or of manures; for in either case, carbon is the result, and as such has similar retaining powers to those of clay. Thus charcoal dust placed for a time near a fermenting dung heap, will receive and retain the gases arising from decomposition, and it placed in the soil will give out these craises to those one of the retain the gases arising from decomposition, and it placed in the soil will give out these craises to those one of the retaining powers to those of the retaining powers to those of the control of the retaining powers to those of clay. Privies, stables, &c., are rendered inodorous by the use of charcoal dust .-Decomposed peat, tuif, swamp, muck, &c , are but varied forms of carbon, with some more partially decomposed vegetable matter.

carbine; humus, vegetable moule, &c., are but modifications of carbon. All know that an old black garden soil will retain manure longer than field soils and that a lesse quantity of manure will act in them, for the simple reason that the carbon port monais, wafers, pocket mirrors napkin rings and contained in them. (charcoal,) contained in them and arising from previous decay, retains the resultant gases from the decomposition of the manure until used up by plants Let any farmer try the following experiment, and he will be satisfied as to the truth of the statement.

Prepare four barrels by taking out the upper heads, and boring small heles in the lower heads, stand the barrels on end sud fill them with the ful lowing substances:

No. 1. Barren sand, with one-tenth the bulk of clay intimately mixed throughout the mass. No. 2 Barren sand, with one-tenth of finely ground chargoal dust.

No. 3. A dark colored loam or garden soil. No 4. Barren sand alone.

Pour on all four barrels the brown solution from the barn-yard, and it will be found that the water running out of the bottoms of Nos. 1, 2 and 3, will be colorless and without smell, while that from No. I will be unaltered and as offensive as when placed on top. The question may now be asked, " If the soluble results of vegetable decay do not filter downward, what becomes of them?" We answer that resident in the earth's surface, from the combined influences of sun and air they decay and tale | Fittenes expectation, come name of the bined influences of sun and air they decay and tale the gaseous form; if the soil contains either clay Swayne's medicines, wild cherry. 60.
or carbon, these wases are absorbed by them, until Brant's Pulmonary Balsam and Extract, etc. abstracted by growing plants. But if these substances are not resident in the soil, then the gases Osgood's Indian Cholagogue, for fever and ague. terd repared soils elsewhere, or are carried to the ocean and are thus lost for time from the land.

Let our readers reflect that both vegetable and animal productions of the earth's surface are cortinually decaying, and that nothing but the facts we have stated can account for continued fertillity -For, if the results of decay could filter downward in solution with water, long before this time, the whole amount of organic constituents would have passed below the fertile surface, all our wells would be filled with masses of filth, and both animal and vegetable life would have ceased. The simple facts are, that all organic manures do decay in the earth's surface, and are only lost by rising in the gaseous form, and not by sinking below the roots of plants, and therefore they should be plowed under to such a depth that their resultant gases, when rising, shall meet with sufficient quantity of alumina or carbon to arrest them.

Wooden Bowls for Milk.—An extensive Westem dairyman says milk will keep sweet longer in wooden bostle than in any other vessel. After trying various methods to keep the milk so as not to be obliged to make cheese on Sunday, he adopted the following: Sabbath morning the milk is strained into wooden powle, which are painted inside and out with a thick coat of pairt, smooth and beed, and set it in a sool place, on the cellar bottom, where it keeps sweet, until Monday, when it is shimmed and made into cheese.

Another Rescue by

SCHENCE'S PULMONIC SYRUP I was on the verge of the grave, and so far gone that I my family and friends had lost all hopes of my recovery; and when in this situation, having been rescued by the use of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, I desite to testify, with grateful emotion to Dr. Schenck, the unspeakable benefit I have received from the use of his invaluable medicine. Early last fall, I contracted a violent cold, and in ence of which I had chills, alternated with fever, pains in my right breast and shoulder blade, with a bad cough, and no expectoration. I kept getting worse until I took my bed, and had the attendance of any family physician. I was under his care about four weeks, and at the expiration of that time was reduced so low that despair took hold of myself and friends, and even my physician abandoned me and gave me up to die with the hasty consumption. My appetite was gone, my bowels very irregular, fever and night sweats, pain in my breast and shoulder, attended with a distressing cough, which was very tight; my flesh had nearly all gone, and was so weak that I could scarcely raise my head from the pillow, and was truly an object of pity to behold. My friends had been sent for to see me die, and my sick bed was surrounded by kind and sympathizing neighbors, who had come to writness my departure from this world.

When all rays of hope had fied of my recovery, a neighbor, Mr. David Conrad, proposed to try Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, with a view of loosening my cough and relieving me of the tough phiegm, and as a means of affording temporary relief, remarking at the time, that I was too far gone for the Syrup to be of any permanent benefit." My wife, anxious for the relief of my intense sufferings, procured some of the Pul-monic Syrup. I found it afforded me relief, and continued using it. I could feel its healing influence apon my lange.

I continue to improve under its use, and my friends were much gratified to witness my unexpected improvement: many of my neighbors came to look at me as one raised from the dead.

My cough now became loose, and I felt something break, w en I had the pain in my breast, and I dis-charged large quantities of yellow matter. I have for weeks discharged and raised a spit box full of matter every day, with hard lumps like grains of something. My bowels now became regular and natural, and my appetite was so far improved, that I could scarcely re-frain from eating too much. My strength improved, and I regained my flesh.

I continued to improve in every respect soon after I commenced using the Syrup, and the improvement continued until I was restored to my health. I have passed through the inclement weather of the latter part of winter and the spring, and feel as well now as ever I felt in my life, and I am this day a living testi-mony of the great efficacy of Schenck's Pulmonte Syrup in curing pulmonary diseases.

Lest this statement be thought too highly colored by some people, I subjoin certificates of a number of the inhabitants of Tacony, who saw me at different times during my disasse, and never expected to see me restor-ed. I also append the certificate of the brothers of Mystic Lodge, No. 270, I. O. of O. F., who kindly watched over me, and fully believed they would consign my remains to the tomb; but, thanks to Dr. Schenck for his invaluable Pulmonic Syrup, my life has been spared, and I am permitted to make the fore-going statement for the benefit of suffering mankind. I reside at Tacony, and am well known by most o the people there, and will be gratified to have any person call upon me and learn more particulars of the JOHN C. GREEN. virtues of this medicine. June 24th, 1851.

The undersigned, residents of Tacony, eight miles have Philadelphia, being well acquainted with John C. Green, and the circumstances attending his case, make universally known to the public his entire recovery from the very last stages of Pulmonary Consumpand emaciate state, as to ut'erly preclude, in the opinion of his physicians and friends, who watched by his bedside, all hopes of even a temporary recovery and restoration to his present robust health. Thus the careful use of your invaluable Specific, the Pulmonic Syrup, makes it our belief, under the circumstances of his previous prostrate, not to say dving condition, one of the most startling results that the whole annals of medial good : oal skill or science can produce. It deserves to be imperishably recorded to your credit, and secure to you, the greatest discoverer of this hitherto remediless disease, a lasting monument and a world-wide reputation in the healing art, that no time may eather diminish or destroy. Having witnessed Mr. Green's distressing struggles and sufferings from a continued cough, superadded to the other symptoms consequent upon, or attending to the last stages of a pulmonary discuss; and moreover, it being so generally believed by his numerous friends that no human power could relieve, or protract his life, much less restore him back again to his former health, we feel it thus our duty to give our unqualified testimony of Mr. Green's perfect recovery. by means of the exclusive use of your wonderful Syrup; and we should indeed rejoice if we could be made the humble instruments of relief and cure to others who may be so unfortunate as to be similarly afficted.
